BILLS OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 1162, on final passage, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of the act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act relating to roads providing for the election and appointment of township supervisors in second class townships defining their powers duties and limitations relating to road tax and the expenditures thereof abolishing the work tax defining certain duties of the clerk of courts fixing penalties for violation of this act and making an appropriation to carry out its provisions" so as to provide for a further adjustment of valuation of property made between the date of the levy of the tax and payment of same go over in its order as the file folio is not printed on the Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 11, on third reading, entitled:

An Act defining commodities regulating the sale thereof and providing penalties for violation hereof go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 38, entitled:

An Act relating to the collection of city county school and poor taxes in the several cities of the third class in this Commonwealtn providing that the city treasurer of each of said cities by virtue of his office shall be the collector of said several taxes prescribing his duties and fixing his compensation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. HALL. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 198, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to provide for the holding of a Constitutional Convention the election of delegates thereto and the submission of the report thereof for the approval of the people be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, speaking for myself on this question, I would oppose it going back to the committee unless there is an understanding here that we have a chance to vote on the bill. There has been a hearing had on this bill, and unless there is some special reason for it going back, I think we ought to have an understanding on the floor that this bill will be reported out from the committee. It seems to me that would only be fair at this time.

Mr. HALL. Mr. President, there was one hearing; we want to have another hearing.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 648, as follows:

An Act to prescribe the method by which shall be determined the amount of any debt theretofore incurred or thereafter to be incurred by any city of the first class for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes or for the construction of wharves and docks or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks as public improvements to be owned by such city which may be excluded in ascertaining the power of such city to increase its indebtedness pursuant to the provisions of article nine section eight of the Constitution as amended and to confer jurisdiction upon any of the Courts of Common Pleas of the county in which such city is situated to determine the amount of any debt to be so excluded with an appeal to the Supreme Court within one month from the date of such determination

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever the councils of any city of the first class shall by ordinance or resolution determine that it is expedient to increase the public debt of such city in order to promote the construction and development of subways for transit purposes or for the construction of wharves and docks or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks as public improvements owned or to be owned by such city and it becomes necessary to ascertain under the provisions of article nine section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as amended whether the debt which it is thus proposed to incur may be excluded in computing the total amount of indebtednes which such city may lawfully incur under the limitations of the Constitution the Comptroller or any other public officer of such city shall whenever so requested by the mayor of such city prepare and submit a statement showing in detail the total indebtedness of such city theretofore incurred with the dates of the maturity of such indebtedness the interest due thereon and the annual installments necessary to be paid into the sinking fund for the cancellation of such indebtedness and if any portion of such indebtedness has theretofore been incurred for any of the specific purposes hereinbefore set forth the comptroller shall in addition to the above data also report the terms of any and all agreements and contracts made by or in behalf of said city with respect to such investments the gross and current net revenue derived therefrom and also such other and further data and information in their possession with respect to such investments the gross and current net revenue derived therefrom and also such other and further data and information in their possession with respect to such investments as shall be requisite to determine the proportion of the interest and sinking fund installments of such indebtedness which the current net revenue received by the city from such investments is sufficient to meet

Section 2 The mayor of any city of the first class may present to any one of the Courts of Common Pleas of the county in which such city is situated a verified petition which shall set forth the facts information and date furnished to him by the comptroller or other officer as provided for in the preceding section and also all constracts or proposed contracts with respect to the operation of the public works upon which the proceeds of the proposed loan are to be expended and all official estimates as to the cost of such public works and other data relating thereto and which shall pray for a determination of the amount of any previous debt of such city which may be excluded in ascertaining its power to become otherwise indebted under the provisions of article nine section eight of the Constitution and also for a determination of the amount of the proposed indebtedness which shall be thus excluded by reason of the estimated excess of the revenue produced from the subways wharves docks or reclaimed land aforesaid over the interest on the debt thus incurred and of the annual installments necessary for the cancellation of such debt and also that said court shall determine whether or not the proposed increase of the public debt of such city for the purposes aforesaid or any part thereof can lawfully be incurred under the provisions of the aforesaid section of the Constitution and jurisdiction is hereby conferred upon the said Court of Common Pleas to make such determinations

Section 3 After the filing of the aforesaid petition the mayor shall cause to be published not less than once a week for three weeks in four daily newspapers of general circulation published in said city to be designated by the said Court of Common Pleas a notice that an application will be made to the said Court of Common Pleas on a day therein specified which shall be not less than three nor more than six weeks from the date of the first publication of said notice for the determination prayed for in the petition and in addition to the aforesaid advertisement the petition shall be printed at length in the legal journal in which other legal notices are regularly printed in such city On the return day of such notice all parties in interest including tax payers and owners or holders of bonds or other securities of such city may appear in person or by attorney and file with the Court of Common Pleas a verified answer to the petition aforesaid If upon the filing of any such answer it shall appear to the Court of Common Pleas that there are any material issues of fact to be determined the court shall thereupon by order direct that on a day therein fixed one of the judges of said court sitting without a jury or a duly appointed examiner shall take the evidence thereon which shall forthwith be reported to the court On the return day of the notice aforesaid or if evidence be taken then after the report thereon is filed the Court of Common Pleas shall appoint a time at which it will bear argument at which all parties shall be entitled to be heard and to file briefs as the said court may direct

Section 4 After hearing the allegations and proofs and the arguments thereon of the respective parties or if no evidence be taken on or after the return day of the notice and after argument if desired the court shall render its decision stating separately the facts found and the conclusios of law and the court shall also make a final order determining the amount of indebtednes stheretofore incurred which may be excluded in determining the power of the city to become otherwise indebted under the provision of article nine section eight of the Constitution and determining also whether or not the amount of the indebtedness provided for in the aforesaid ordinance or resolution of councils for the aforesaid public purposes may lawfully be incurred either in whole or in part

Section 5 Upon the making of an order by the court of common pleas determining the whole amount of any indebtedness incurred by such city which shall be excluded in accertaining the power of such city to become otherwise indebted such indebtedness shall thereupon be wholly excluded in ascertaining the power of said city to become otherwise indebted and upon the making of an order by said court determining that a part only of such indebtedness shall be so excluded the amount thus determined shall thereupon be excluded in ascertaining the power of such city to become otherwise indebted and upon the making of an order by the said court determining that either the whole or a part of the proposed indebtedness set forth in the aforesaid ordinances or resolution of city councils can lawfully be incurred for the purposes aforesaid upon the ground that the total limitation of indebtedness imposed by article nine section eight of the Constitution will not be exceeded authority shall thereby be conferred upon the mayor and councils of such city to increase its indebtedness in the manner and to the extent thus authorized but it shall not be lawful to expend any portion of the money thus borrowed by such city for any other purpose than the construction of subways for transit purposes or for the construction of wharves and docks or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks as public improvements to be owned by such city and to be operated leased or otherwise used as provided by law

From the determination of the Court of Common Pleas herein provided for and from all orders made by the said court for the purpose of giving effect thereto an appeal may be taken to the supreme court of the Commonwealth in the manner prescribed for other similar appeals except that such appeal must be taken within one month after the entry of the order complained of but such determination and orders of the Court of Common Pleas shall not be subject to any other appeal or review or to collateral attack of any kind whatsoever but shall with respect to the validity of all municipal loans thus authorized and in all other respects be final and conclusive upon all persons and all public and private corporations whatsoever and the proceeding herein provided for shall be the sole and exclusive method of determining theaforesaid matters relating to increase of indebedness of cities of the first class for the municipal purposes heretofore specified

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 11, on third reading, entitled:

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 11, entitled:

An Act defining commodities regulating the sale thereof and providing penalties for violation hereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 2 by striking out the entire section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 2. All liquid commodities when sold in bulk or from bulk shall be sold by weight or liquid measure. All dry commodities when sold in bulk or from bulk shall be sold by weight, dry measure or numerical count. No dry commodities shall be sold by liquid measure; dry commodities in carload lots may be sold by weight.

also in section 4 by striking out the entire section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 4. It shall be unlawful in selling any commodity to use any measure unless the same shall have thereupon marked in distinct letters and figures the capacity thereof. If such measure be of the capacity of one-half bushel or less or of one-half gallon or less it shall be marked in terms of a quart dry or liquid measure respectively. If the measure be of the capacity of over one-half bushel or one-half gallon it shall be marked in terms of a bushel or gallon respectively.

also in section 6, line 9, by striking out the words "(2) To sell or offer for sale any commodity in bulk to which no name nor trade mark shall be attached and orally or otherwise represent that such commodity is the manufacture or production of some other than the actual manufacturer or producer, Provided, That nothing in this act is to be construed as applying to drugs medicines, chemicals or pharmaceutical or proprietary preparations use as medicines nor to toilet preparations," and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(2) To orally or otherwise represent that any commodity offered for sale in bulk to which no name or trade mark shall be attached is the manufacture or production of some other than the actual manufacturer or producer. Provided, That nothing in this act is to be construed as applying to drugs, medicines, chemicals or pharmaceutical or proprietary preparations use as medicines nor to toilet preparations also in section 7, line 60, by striking out the word "dried;" also in section 7, line 62, by inserting after the word "peas" the word "dried;" also in section 8, by striking out the entire section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Section 8. Every commodity or article of food packed for sale and retailed in containers of any description shall bear upon the container a plainly legible statement of the net weight, measure or numerical count of its contents or of the net volume thereof and of the name and address of the manufacturer, producer or distributor thereof; Provided, however, that reasonable variations and tolerances shall be permitted and also exemptions as to small packages shall be established said variations and tolerances and exemptions to be established by the Chief of the Bureau of Standards. Such marking shall not apply to bags or similar receptacles used solely in delivering commodities after sale. If any commodity be wholly or in part of cotton, wool, linen or silk the length thereof in yards shall be so marked on the container thereof.

Section 9. Each person, firm or corporation that shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before any alderman magistrate or justice of the peace of the proper county for the first offense shall be fined not more than twenty-five dollars; upon conviction for the second offense, such person, firm or corporation shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars; and upon conviction for the third and each subsequent offense, such person, firm or corporation shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 852 (House Bill No. 1151), as follows:

An Act authorizing the township commissioners of townships of the first class to ordain and establish sidewalks along the principal streets and highways of the township leading directly to or connecting cities boroughs villages or places of public resort providing for and regulating the construction of the same and authorizing the township commissioners to charge a part of the expense of constructing the same including the grading and curbing thereof upon the abutting property owners and to defray the remaining part of such expense from the public funds of the township and providing that the provisions thereof shall be inoperative in any such township when a certain percentage of the property owners shall dissent from the action of the commissioners taken under the provisions of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be lawful for the board of township commissioners of any township of the first class in this Commonwealth and they are hereby authorized and empowered from time to time whenever they may deem it advisable so to do to ordain and establish sidewalks along either one or both sides of any principal street or highway of the said township leading directly to or connecting cities boroughs villages or places of public resort within the lines of the said street or highway for such distance as the said board of township commissioners may deem proper Provided However That in case the said street or highway be a turnpike or other road managed and controlled by a corporation duly incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth the written consent of the said corporation shall first be obtained thereto

Section 2 The said board of township commissioners is hereby authorized and empowered to charge to the owner or owners of the properties abutting on the said sidewalk according to the respective frontage of each abutting property such part or portion of the expense of the construction of such sidewalk as the said board of township commissioners shall deem reasonable and just not to exceed however in any case fifty per cent of the total cost of the construction of the said sidewalk and to defray the remainder of the expense of the construction of the said sidewalk from the public funds of the said township

Section 3 The ordinance establishing any such sidewalk shall specify the width thereof which however shall not be less than five (5) feet in any case and shall in no case leave a roadway of less than twenty (20) feet in the clear and shall require such grading and filling as shall be deemed necessary The kind and character of the pavement shall be specified in the ordinance and the manner of laying the same may be specified in like manner or provided for by some general ordinance or by the regulation of a committee of the board Provided That it may be lawful for the said township commissioners to provide for the construction of a boardwalk in any case instead of a paved sidewalk

Section 4 In all cases coming under this act if at the time of the passage of the ordinance a sidewalk paved with brick stone or concrete of any sort has already been constructed by a property owner in front of his property the township commissioners may accept such walk as a compliance with the ordinance although it be not constructed according to the specifications thereof Otherwise if such sidewalk be not accepted the township shall bear the expense of reconstructing the same

Section 5 All ordinances for the construction of sidewalks under the provisions of this act shall provide for written notice to be given to the property owners to grade and construct such sidewalk in front of their respective properties within a certain specified period not less than three (3) months from date of the service of such notice Provided however That when such notice is given on or after the first day of September in any year the property owners affected shall not be considered in default for failure to construct the said sidewalk until the first day of June of the following year Service of such notice shall be made by handing the same to the property owner or by leaving the same at his place of residence if he have one in the county or if he do not reside in the county by mailing the same to his address if his address can be obtained and also in all cases a copy of such notice shall be served upon the occupant of the house or any other building on the premises Should any property owner fail to comply with the requirements of the ordinance within the time or times specified in this section it shall be lawful for the board of township commissioners to cause the sidewalk in front of his property to be constructed in accordance with the requirements of the ordinance and to collect the proportion of the expense thereof which under the ordinance authorizing the construction of the same is chargeable upon the property owner including the costs of grading and any other incidental matters together with the penalty of ten per centum by action of assumpsit or by filing a lien against said property in the nature of a municipal lien in the manner prescribed by existing laws

Section 6 When any sidewalk has been constructed by an abutting property owner in front of his property under the provisions of this act the township commissioners upon the presentation to them of a receipted bill for the cost of constructing such sidewalk shall forthwith pay to the property owner the part or portion of the expense of the construction of the said sidewalk which by the terms of the ordinance authorizing the construction of the same is to be defrayed from the public funds of the said township and if the said part or portion of the expense of the construction of the said sidewalk which is to be defrayed from the township funds is not paid forthwith to the property owner by the board of township commissioners the property owner shall be exonerated from the payment of any and all township taxes until he has been fully reimbursed by the taxes so exonerated for the part or portion of the expense of constructing the said sidewalk which should have been paid him by the township commissioners with interest thereon from the date of his payment thereof

Section 7 This act shall not be construed to repeal or in any wise alter or affect any existing act of assembly authorizing or regulating the construction of sidewalks along any public road street or highway or part or portion thereof within townships of the first class in this Commonwealth Provided That the foregoing provisions of this act shall cease to be operative in any township of the first class when after the passage of any ordinance for any of the above purposes the owners of at least fifty-one per centum in value (according to the last assessed valuation for taxable purposes) of property in said township shall express in writing to the Board of Township Commissioners their dissent from the provisions of such ordinance

And said bill having been read at length the third time, nd agreed to,

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. CLARK. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 1058, (House Bill 1704), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred seven entitled "An Act regulating the compensation of sheriffs for boarding prisoners confined in the county jail in the counties of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which do not exceed fifty thousand population" by extending the provisions of the act to counties having a population not exceeding one hundred fifty thousand inhabitants go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President. I ask that Senate Bill No. 1153, on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing and regulating the survey appraisal and patenting of lands in beds of navigable rivers or streams permitted by the Government of the United States to be abandoned and filled as no longer of use for ordinary purposes of navigation go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1174 (House No. 1314) entitled:

An Act regulating and granting of preliminary injunctions and cautionary orders in equity proceedings

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. Mr. President, in order to obtain a preliminary injunction, under the law as it now stands, in addition to the bill in equity, it is necessary for the complainant to file injunction affidavits and also a bond in such sum as may be fixed by the Court granting the preliminary injunction. This bill is intended to extend the requirements in order to obtain an injunction, by serving notice upon the party agaist whom the injunction is asked. It seems to me that where you are obliged to file the affidavit setting forth all the facts and also to give bond in such an amount as to compensate the person against whom the injunction is granted in case the Court sees fit to grant the preliminary injunction, it is going too far to require that the party must first serve notice, because there are many instances where if this bill were put into effect, it would be impossible to obtain that preliminary injunction until after the damage would be done, and I think that this bill should be defeated by the Senate.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I am sorry to differ with the Senator from Dauphin, for once, but the way I look at it, this is a bill that should pass for this reason. I happen to be an attorney for a street railway company and two weeks ago the Courts of our county permitted a preliminary injunction to be issued without notice to the counsel or the manager, before six o'clock at night, and because the cars of the electric railway company were not stopped running from six o'clock to twelve o'clock at night, the Court fined the General Manager and the General Superintendent fifty dollars for contempt. Now, I submit that if in that case there had been notice given to counsel on the General Manager as this bill requires, no preliminary injunction would have been needed, because the Court would have been persuaded that the injunction was wrong, and for that reason I submit to this Senate that whenever an injunction is asked for, it is certainly proper that the General Manager or the General Superintendent or somebody in charge of the company or corporation or whoever the injunction may be issued against, or supposed to be issued against, should have notice, so that you could at least appear before the Court and produce reasons why it should not be granted, where is could not be done in this case.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House met at 8:00 o'clock P. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, from Whom proceed all holy desires and right motives; all wise counsels and just decisions and actions, we commend to Thee Thy servants again assembled for the work of this week. May they honor Thee with that uprighteousness and integrity of character and conduct; with that unselfishness and generosity of spirit which will give both beauty and dignity to the work which they do. Give to them the clear eye that they may see the path of duty, and the brave heart that they may follow it fearlessly. Let no motive of self interest tempt them to swerve from the true path. Let no apprehension, no dread of consequences cause their hands to falter in the doing of the thing which is right. May they be brave and faithful; undiscouraged and hopeful, doing with their might whatsoever their hands find to do, and wilt Thou especially bless Thy servant, the Speaker of this Assembly. Give to him that firmness, with conciliation; that integrity of character, with forbearance and charity, with judgment and tact which will ennoble and dignify the office he fills and facilitate the work of this Assembly. We ask all this together with whatever else is needful for us, in the name and for the sake of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Thursday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Thursday's proceedings, when on motion of Mr. Moses, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

In the House of Representatives, May 8, 1913

Resolved That whenever hereafter this House shall have under consideration on second or third reading any measure affecting or relating to any Department or other branch of the State Government, the Speaker shall have the power to request the attendance of any officer or employee of such Department or branch for the purpose of furnishing to this House any information needed in such consideration, and he may grant to such officer or employee, in the name of this House, the temporary privilege of addressing the House on such measure, or may permit him to be interrogated by the members of the House thereon.

Ordered, That the resolution lie over under the rules for printing.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRVIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1115, entitled:

An Act fixing the salaries of county officers their deputies clerks and employes in counties containing a population of less than one hundred fifty thousand and providing that all fees collected by said officers under existing laws be paid into the State of county treasury be placed upon the calendar, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. GEORGE C. IRVIN. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill which provides for salaries for county officials in certain counties of the State and does away with the fee system. At previous sessions of the Legislature, bills of this character have been introduced and have always died in the committee. The opposition came largely from politicians and office holders throughout the State. I do not know the reason the committee had for making a negative report on this bill, but the circumstances in Blair county convince me that we have to come to the Legislature to get relief. We have four or five county officials in Blair county, with a population of 108,000, which draw under the fee system in the neighborhood of $10,000. I believe this bill is very meritorious and should be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee in order that we may secure the consideration of the entire House, and I ask the members to support this motion.

Seventy-seven gentlemen, or more than the number required by the rules, having voted in the affirmative,

The bill will be placed upon the calendar.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1440, file folio 7933, entitled:

An Act to provide for the use of voting machines at any or all elections and primary elections within this State creating a State Board of Voting Machine Examiners and definings its powers and duties providing rules and regulations for the conduct of elections and primary elections held with voting machines and providing penalties for violation of the provisions of this act was defeated on final passage, be reconsidered.

Mr. ULMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that counties may abopt voting machines. There is nothing compulsory about the bill. There is no expense attached to the bill, and it fell on Thursday afternoon when there was a House of only about 114 members. I trust that the House will reconsider the vote and pass the bill finally.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

REPORT.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent at this time to present the report of the Special Committee appointed to investigate the charges against the Honorable Henry A. Fuller, President Judge of the Eleventh Judicial District of Pennsylvania, and move that the report be printed in the Legislative Journal and further action postponed until it so appears.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The report will also be noted in the Journal of the House.

The report is as folows:

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONSIDER CHARGES AGAINST THE HONORABLE HENRY A. FULLER.

To the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Your special committee appointed under the resolution of February sixth, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, to consider the charges preferred against the Honorable Henry A. Fuller, President Judge of the Eleventh Judicial District of Pennsylvania, and report, together with the testimony taken, its findings, and if its findings require, to formulate and present to the House articles of impeachment, respectfully reports as follows:

In pursuance of said resolution, your committee has diligently inquired into the matter, by holding public meetings, both at Harrisburg and Wilkes-Barre, by compelling the attendance through subpoena of all witnesses who were suggested to the committee as persons likely to have information in the premises, by inviting the testimony of all who cared to appear before the committee and by considering everything that was furnished the committee in the way of argument on the facts or law.

We find that there exist no grounds whatsoever for impeachment, and recommend that no further steps be taken by the House. The petition, together with the testimony taken are appended hereto.

We would not have considered any more extended report than the above called for, were it not for the fact that the charges have been given such wide circulation and the fact that charges of this nature are often believed when not accompanied by the facts.

The committee thinks it proper to outline its conception of its own duties and explain its mode of procedure.

The petition of complainant was for the purpose of moving the House to impeach Honorable Henry A. Fuller. The power of the House to impeach a Judge, and of the Senate to try, is unquestioned (Constitution, Article Six, Sections one, two and three), but the machinery of impeachment cannot be set in motion as a matter of right, and it lies entirely in the discretion of the House itself, having in mind its duty on the one side—to rid the State of unfaithful public servants, and on the other, not to allow its important functions to be disturbed by attending to frivolous requests or its powers perverted to serve partisan or personal spite.

To prepare itself properly for the decision whether to bring charges of impeachment or not, the House must be in possession of all pertinent information and it must seek this, as in other matters, through its accustomed organ, a committee. We are then, the eye and ear of the House, seeking to absorb everything that could aid a conscientious legislator in arriving at a just decision upon the question of the propriety of preferring charges of impeachment before the Senate.

This being so, our functions bear no exact analogy with any other institutions of civil government. We are not a court, for we render no judgment, nor could we enforce one, we are not a grand jury, for we are free to hear defense, nor could our findings if adverse, have, necessarily any such effect in setting the wheels of prosecution in motion, as would an indictment. Not being a court, we are not bound by the rules of evidence as applied in judicial proceeings, except so far as such rules assist in bringing out the actual facts. A great body of restrictive rules of evidence which are necessary in a complete system of general jurisprudence, can be dispensed with by a casual body of men seeking to inform themselves about specific charges.

With this conception of our powers and duties, we announced a public meeting of our committee at Harrisburg, and were there attended by both complainant and respondent, the complainant, a member of the bar, acting as his own counsel, and the respondent being represented by counsel. Explanatory statements were taken at that time, and testimony begun. The committee then adjourned to Wilkes-Barre, where two days were entirely devoted to hearing testimony. Counsel for both sides have furnished the committee with briefs of law and fact.

In the light of the information gained from the above mentioned channels, we offer the following discussion of the charges.

The petition charges generally "misdemeanors in office" and in support of such charges adds sixteen specifications. None of these specifications charge the commission of a crime, but confine themselves to matters bearing upon the propriety of Judge Fuller's official conduct, more particularly in matters requiring the exercise of judicial discretion.

One of the specifications, that denominated "N.," is instantly rejected by the mind as ground for impeachment. It sets out that the special act creating the office held by Judge Fuller had been repealed by a subsequent general act passed at the same session of the Legislature. We are not informed whether this matter has ever been tested, but certainly the way is open to test it at any time, and there can be no misdemeanor in holding an office, to which one is elected by the people, merely because someone may allege that the statute creating the office had been repealed by implication.

Specifications D., E., F. cover cases where defendants were tried for misdemeanors and convicted in their absence. As the legal proposition that misdemeanors as distinguished from felonies, may be tried in the absence of the defendant, where his conduct is such as to waive his right to be present, is undenied and undeniable, no criticism could be urged against Judge Fuller in these matters unless it could be shown that he abused his discretion in the management of causes willfully and wickedly for the purpose of doing injustice to the defendants. The sitting Judge is charged with the dispatch of public business and it is the duty of defendants to be present to answer to the indictment. When not present, in cases of misdemeanors, the Court has the option of continuing the case, forfeiting the bail, issuing a bench warrant for the prisoner, or trying the case in his absence. The proper course of proceedings is peculiarly within the discretion of the Court, and unless some wrong motive or abuse of discretion can be pointed out, there is no fault, and hence there can be no ground for impeachment. The subsequent history of these cases shows clearly that there was no desire to oppress in Judge Fuller's mind. In each case sentence was suspended or a new trial granted.

Specification G. covers a matter similar to those just discussed. Here defendant was present, and the complaint is that he was tried before counsel just assigned could prepare a defense. The testimony of John J. O'Connell, the counsel assigned, (Page 58) disposes of the complaint. "The jury was selected on the first day, I think possibly about three o'clock in the afternoon. The Court was adjourned and I was given as much time as I needed. The defendant had no friends, had no one in this county interested in his behalf. I had very little testimony I could offer, and he could point out to me no one I could go to to get testimony in his behalf, so that on Tuesday morning when the case was called I was able to go on with his case as well as if I had had a week or a month's time." Defendant was convicted of murder in the first degree and a new trial granted. Afterwards he was convicted of a less degree. We see no evidence of here of abuse of discretion.

Specification B. charges that Judge Fuller had knowledge that the parties to the case violated the spirit of Section 10, Act of 31st of March, 1860, (Pamphlet Laws 387), relating to compounding crimes. The evidence shows that the defendant was convicted of larceny as bailee, and sentence was suspended on condition that restitution be made. Defendant was in bad health at the time and died not long after. Whether she was guilty of a crime or merely of failure to pay a debt, was a narrow question. The Court had the undoubted right to suspend sentence. No criticism can attach to Judge Fuller for his action in this matter.

In Specification C. the gravamen of the charge is that Judge Fuller, in violation of the law, deprived the defendant of his liberty. The evidence showed that the defendant had been arrested on a charge of adultery preferred by his wife. Counsel for defendant had him brought before Judge Fuller apparently without the formality of a writ of habeas corpus, and the point was raised that he could not be held on a charge of this nature where the wife was the prosecutrix. The testimony clearly showed that defendant had committed adultery in New Jersey, and raised a suspicion that he had also committed the same crime in Pennsylvania. Judge Fuller remanded prisoner for a further hearing, by the request of the District Attorney, who claimed a desire to make further investigation, through the detective of his office, as to whether or not the adultery had also taken place in the jurisdiction of the Court of Luzerne County. It was testified that there was testimony before Judge Fuller at this hearing that the defendant had deserted his wife and was in unlawful relation with another woman. The question was whether or not those relations had existed within the jurisdiction of the Court. The fact, however, stands out clearly that Judge Fuller had a proved criminal before him. The prisoner was before the Judge irregularly, no writ of habeas corpus having been issued, and the Judge's actions were not improper in allowing the prisoner to remain in the custody of the jailer until a thorough investigation could be made. To have discharged the prisoner without the proper process of law would have been an error. Subsequently, after the District Attorney had made his investigation, counsel for the prisoner regularly issued a writ of habeas corpus, and, there being no testimony as to the commission of the crime within the jurisdiction of the Court, the prisoner was discharged. The counsel for the prisoner, Mr. Conniff, a present member of the Legislature, testified that there was no complaint upon his part or upon the part of his client that any injustice had been done.

As to this specification the Committee finds no ground of complaint against the conduct of Judge Fuller.

Specification H. charges that Judge Fuller and his colleagues failed, neglected and refused to make appointments of three general assessors under the Act of 24th of March, 1905, and delayed such appointments for political affect to advance the interests of two of his colleagues on the bench, who were then candidates for re-election and who were defeated at the polls. Absolutely no evidence was presented that the delay was due to political motives. Had the appointments been made immediately before the election, malice might as easily have charged that the appointments were made for political effect. On the other side we have the testimony of Judge Fuller, and of Judges Ferris, Strauss and Jones that the appointments were delayed to save the County the unnecessary payments of salaries which would accrue before the assessors would have any work to do.

The charge in Specification I. is that Judge Fuller, and the other members of the bench, did not make an appointment to the office of poor director for the Central Poor District under the provisions of the Act of June 10, 1911, (Pamphlet Laws 878). The reply is that the Judges considered the act unconstitutional, hence, giving them no power to act. They went so far in their care to act advisedly that they secured an option from Ex-Judge Ferris upon the constitutionality of the Act, which opinion was adverse. To have made the appointment while holding this view of the law would not have been proper.

The facts as brought out in the testimony under Specification J. show that Ralph Kahler was a youth of about sixteen who preferred living away from home and earning money for himself rather than remaining with his father. His father needed the assistance of his son for his support. A writ of habeas corpus was sued out against the employer of his son. At the hearing it was shown that the employer laid no claim to the right of possession of the boy, and the boy made it clear that if sent home he would simply run away. Judge Fuller used his best offices for the establishment of a reasonable modus vivendi for all concerned, and an agreement was reached whereby the boy was to pay a certain regular sum to his father. This was agreed to by the father, the boy and the boy's employer. When payments were not made the father employed Mr. Shea, the complainant, who was not the original counsel. Mr. Shea filed a petition asking for the decision of the habeas corpus case. Soon afterwards Judge Fuller met Mr. Shea causally and explained the case to him. Mr. Shea seemed satisfied and took no further steps in the matter. Mr. Loveland, a member of the bar, came into the case for the father, not as counsel however, but as a friend, and payments continued to be made to him. Throughout Judge Fuller acted as a patient and conscientious Judge seeking to do the wisest thing .

The complaint in Specification K. is delay in rendering decision. The specification is plainly incorrect in its allegation of facts. It alleges that verdict was rendered on the 22nd day of June, 1912. There was, however, a second trial held in the middle of September, and then an argument for a new trial occurred in October. As these impeachment proceedings were begun in January, 1913, there was not the elapse of such a time as would of itself show negligence on the part of Judge Fuller, as there was not a breath of suspicion raised that he had any ulterior reason for delaying sentence.

Specification M.-2. This was a case where Judge Fuller suspended sentence upon a man who plead guilty of embezzlement. The suspension of sentence was undoubtedly within the power of the Judge, was satisfactory to all parties, and the after career of the defendant has proved it wise. The specification seems to amount to nothing except that the record did not show the entry of the suspension of sentence. Failure to show suspended sentence appears by the testimony to show laxity of practice common to the whole county, and while we would recommend a general improvement in the whole matter of record familiy, we cannot see that Judge Fuller should be singled out for attack in this respect.

The allegations in Specification O. seems to have been made in complete ignorance of the facts. The complaint is that the matter was not decided. The evidence shows that the petitioner upon which action was asked was withdrawn by the petitioners.

We have reserved Specifications A., L. and M. to the last as special emphasis seems to have been laid upon them.

Specification A. This is the case of the North Mountain Water Supply Company vs. Troxell, No. 22, October Term, 1908, in Equity, Common Pleas Luzerne County. The specification cites the decree, interprets it as virtually wresting from the defendant his property and the use and enjoyment of a very valuable asset, without legal right, and even though the plaintiff itself never asked for such relief, and then insinuates that the Judge's decision was rendered because his relatives were stockholders in the Plaintiff Company.

The facts put a different face on the story. Defendant Troxell had a prescriptive right to maintain a dam at the outlet of Harvey's Lake. In June and July of 1908 defendant opened the gates of the dam and allowed a very large quantity of water to escape. He then closed them and impounded the water which normally produced Harvey's Creek. Agents or officers of the Plaintiff Company, or subsidiary companies of the Plaintiff Company, obtained an option for the purchase of the said dam from Troxell for the sum of $150,000. This option was not exercised by the Plaintiff Company. Later a severe drought ensued and the water company, which used Harvey's Creek as its source of supply, was unable to get water, and the town of Nanticoke faced a water famine but five days distant. The company, as a lower riparian owner, claimed the right to receive the flow, as it needed the water imperatively and instantly, it sought the aid of the prompt powers of chancery to gain relief. An injunction was granted requiring a limited and stated amount of water to be allowed to pass over the dam. Bond of $5,000 was filed to protect the dam owner against damage, and the action simply meant that the consumer would have the water at once, and the parties could fight out their respective rights at leisure.

The hearing upon this application for preliminary injunction was had in the office of Judge Fuller, whose office was part of a suite of offices occupied by himself and counsel for the Water Company, Mr. George A. Bedford. This fact was explained by Judge Fuller, who testified that having but renectly been appointed to the bench, he was still retaining the offices in the same suite as Mr. Bedford, and in which he had practiced law for many years, because Chambers were not yet provided for him in the new Court House that was just then being completed in construction.

Troxell at once appealed from the preliminary injunction. His appeal was dismissed because not taken from a final decree. When the matter came on to be finally heard in the lower Court, the emergency had passed and the injunction might easily have been dismissed, but the defendants found themselves of the embarrassing position of not having been able to get a judicial decision from the supreme court of whether or not such a preliminary injunction could of right issue. Therefore, at the instance, not of the water company, among whose stockholders were Judge Fuller's relatives, but at the instance of Troxell's attorneys, a broad final decree was entered ordering the injunction to stand in force to give similar relief whenever a similar emergency should arise. The supreme court reversed this decree, because the original bill had not asked for so broad a decree. We cannot see anything impeachable in the decision that when a water famine is impending over a population of 20,000, and an upper riparian owner is holding back water, an injunction may be granted at the instance of a lower riparian owner after filing bond to protect the upper owner against all damage, compelling the release of a stated and limited amount of water.

Judge Fuller testified that he did not know at the time of the decision that his relatives, one of whom was Mr. Bedford, counsel for the complainant, and the bank of which he was a director, were owners of stock in plaintiff company. Had the evidence shown any abuse of judicial power on the part of the Judge in the interest of the water company, it would be pertient to extend the inquiry to ascertain from other sources whether or not knowledge of this ownership had been brought to him, but in view of the circumstances as they appear from the evidence, we deem any further inquiry along these lines unnecessary.

Specification L. The matter of the revocation of the detective license of Michael J. Mulvey was one of the two matters upon which the complainant, Mr. Shea, testified of his own knowledge, and was the matter upon which he appeared to lay greatest emphasis. The gist of the complainant in this matter is that Judge Fuller delayed rendering a decision until the license had expired. The facts, briefly, are these. The proceeding was a rule to show cause why the license should not be revoked. Rule was granted March 22nd, 1909. An enormous amount of testimony was taken, covering about 850 closely written pages. This was filed August 10th, 1910, and the rule was argued about the middle of September. On the 12th of December, 1910, Mr. Shea presented to Judge Fuller a petition, containing language which seems to us disrespectful, praying for an early decision. On the 20th day of April, 1911, Mr. Shea presented a petition addressed to all the judges, couched in language, which to us, seems still more disrespectful. This petition was endorsed "F. H. by C. B." This is a legal abbreviation which was new to the committee, but which means, as was testified, "Pigeon-holed by the Court in banc." On the 14th of May, 1911, the license expired. No decision has since been rendered.

Stated thus boldly, the accusation is that Judge Fuller delayed deciding a case from the middle of September till the middle of May following, when Mulvey's license expired. Owing to the great amount of testimony, and the mass of other work which the evidence showed was occupying his time, much could have been said in support of the reply to the charge, that the matter of a private detective's license had been compelled to yield to other matters of greater importance, but Judge Fuller frankly stated that he did not put his action on that ground.

In order to understand the matter fully we have gone at length into this case, and although we are not charged with deciding the application for the revocation of the license, we have found the task such as to delay materially the presentation of this report. A study of the testimony is very revealing. It was taken before a commissioner, an officer who has no power to exclude irrelevant testimony or prevent leading questions, and Mr. Shea, the complainant in this case, and counsel for the petitioner in the Mulvey case, abused the latitude of this method of taking testimony. A large part of the testimony consists of insinuating leading questions, the insinuations of which would be denied by the witness. But when the questions had been repeated over and over again in different guises and to different witnesses, an impression is unavoidably made on the mind that something had been established. It would require a minute analysis of the testimony to sift out what had been testified to from what had been suggested by counsel. Almost all the testimony taken by Mr. Shea was really cross examination of his own witnesses.

As one proceeds with reading the testimony, one is more and more convinced that the case was being pushed for motives ulterior to the protection of the public by revoking the license of a private detective. Witness after witness was called whose knowledge of the case was most remote, and who was put on the stand and grilled on cross examination by the attorney who had called him as a witness, as if the attorney were a specially appointed inquest to inquire into the conduct of every one in general. For instance, Mayor Kniffen was called. His testimony takes up ten pages, and has no relevancy to Mulvey at all.

What Mr. Shea takes to be the important part of this testimony is shown by his pencil underscoring, which as he testified, he made for the purpose of assisting Judge Fuller to find the salient points of the testimony. On page 490 of complainant's testimony in the record of the Mulvey case appears the following: (The testimony had been about one of the swindlers whose history had been brought out in previous testimony.)

"Q. How did you happen to meet him?

A. He was brought into my office three or four times before he was able to be introduced to me.

Q. Who brought him in?

A. I refuse to answer.

Q. Abram Salsburg, the District Attorney of Luzerne County, brought him in to your office, didnt he?

A. Yes."

Again on Page 491, a reiteration of this testimony is underscored, and there is no more underscoring in the ten pages of Mayor Kniffen's testimony. Again on Page 580, when Mr. Salsburg is on the stand, a statement to the same effect is underscored. In the 32 pages of Mr. Salsburg's testimony, only one other passage was pencil marked for special reference, and this is a question of thirty-one lines asked by Mr. Shea, and the answer of Mr. Salsburg that he would do his duty.

A portion of the record, due mostly to the questions of Mr. Shea, when Mr. Salsburg was testifying, is of such a nature that we do not care to give it any further publicity, but as illustrating our view that the Mulvey case was prosecuted for ulterior motives, we feel it necessary to quote a few of the less objectionable passages, while begging the House to remember that we are quoting from testimony actually taken before a deputy of the court.

Pp. 574-575. "Q. Did you prosecute the keepers of the houses of prostitution? Did you shake the owners down?

A. I never resort to tactics familiar to yourself.

Q. What tactics are familiar to me? Do you wish to draw the inference you accuse me to be a shaker down?

A. I have answered that.

Q. You are afraid to answer.

A. No, not a bit.

Q. You are playing the baby?

A. No.

Q. Why don't you frankly, candidly and honestly answer the question?

A. I have always been honest.

Q. You are known as honest Abe, you parade in the newspapers as honest Abe, you want us to believe you are the honest Abe referred to?

A. I dont know.

Q. You don't know whether you are honest or not? etc. etc."

Pge 595. "Q. Are you the sneaking coward your answers would insuate?

A. No sir.

Q. The slimy, dirty coward whose answers convey insinuations?

A. No, don't compare me with yourself.

Pp. 600-601. "Q. Is that the talk of a honorable and courageous man to make a statement of that kind and refuse to follow it up by telling what he means, or the talk of a dirty, low, slimy, sneaking cur?

A. You would be in the latter class if you were classed right."

Remembering that Mr. Salsburg was a candidate for re-election, that much of the testimony in this case was during the campaign, and that he was defeated by Mr. Williams, the following question in the examination of Mr. Williams reveals clearly the motive of much of the Mulvey prosecution. Page 637. "Q. Did you, or Mr. Hefferman state in your presence that you did not want to show up Mulvey, that he was of no consequence, you wanted to connect up Salsburg, he was the one you were after?

A. No sir.

Q. Didn't you tell Mr. McGuigan to go the limit that you would see the expenses put up?

A. No sir

And much more to the same intent.

From the above excerpt and description of the method of taking testimony it is easy to see why Judge Fuller thought it advisable to have the argument in Chambers, on the ground that the case was being made an exhibition, and it is easy to see why he was puzzled over the case. Being familiar with the actors, he could see more of the ulterior in the matter than we, as strangers could.

Judge Fuller, as shown by the evidence, had made a substantial beginning on preparing his decision, when the uncalled for and insulting petition was filed by Mr. Shea. The latitude Mr. Shea had allowed himself in the examination surpassing all bounds, and the imposition upon the Judge of going through an enormous mass of testimony that violated continually the rules of evidence and could never have been taken in open Court, coupled with the filing of the petition, and its language, taken together created a state of affairs calling for some action by the Court, to maintain its dignity. Judge Fuller was frank to state that it might have been better for him to have dealt with Mr. Shea personally, and apart from the case. What he did do was to refrain from deciding. Then came the second and more disrespectful petition to the whole Court, which was officially pigeon-holed by the Court in banc. And, sometime thereafter, the licenses expired. Is there anything impeachable in all this? We think not. The Supreme Court has on more than one occasion suppressed paper books not conforming to their rules and dismissed the appeal. In this case the action of Judge Fuller was somewhat analogous. He had before him a case not brought in good faith by an attorney, and disrespectfully presented, a case regarding a license soon to expire. He decided that on the whole justice would be best subserved by allowing it to expire, and in this he was supported by the Court in banc.

As to the charge that Mulvey was subsequently appointed without the proper qualifications as to residence, to the position of constable by the Court, of which Judge Fuller was a member, the testimony before the Committee was that this appointment was made by the entire Court, and against the dissent of Judge Fuller, and that while Judge Fuller's name was signed to the petition making the appointment, it was signed by him as President Judge, and not as an individual Judge. The testimony showed that the President Judge signs all orders, and the testimony of Judge Fuller and his colleagues was that Judge Fuller did not sanction the appointment of Mulvey.

A review of all these specific charges leads us to the conclusion, as stated in the beginning of this report, that there are no grounds for the presentment of charges of impeachment against Honorable Henry A. Fuller, President Judge of the Eleventh Judicial District, County of Luzerne, and the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should proceed no farther.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 465 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. NORTH offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 465, file folio No. 7775, entitled "An Act requiring a license for conducting certain kinds of business, regulating such licensing, and fixing a penalty for violation of this act," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, on last Thursday, on House Bill No. 1429, entitled:

An Act prohibiting any person to lead drive ride or work or cause or permit any other person to lead drive ride or work any horse mare mule ox or any other animal whether belonging to himself or in his possession or control for more than fifteen hours in any twenty-four hour period nor more than ninety hours in any one week in any city of the first or second class Provided that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to warrant any person's leading driving riding or working any animal a less period than fifteen hours when so doing shall in any way violate the laws against cruelty to animals providing a penalty for the violation of this act and authorizing policemen constables or agents of duly incorporated societies or associations for the prevention of cruelty to animals in this Commonwealth to make arrests on view or by warrants of offenders of this act

I am not recorded as voting in the Legislative Journal. Being the author of this bill and not being recorded as voting for it. I would like to have it to be noted that I was in favor of it at least. I vouched for it and voted for it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's statement will be noted in the Journal.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

It it moved by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Ramsey, seconded by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Hayburn, that the vote by which House Bill 1019, file folio 3271, was defeated on final passage on Tuesday last, be reconsidered.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the maker of the motion and the gentleman who seconded it, whether they voted in the negative last Tuesday.

The SPEAKER. Both gentlemen voted in the negative.

On the question,

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appear to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 87 voting in the affirmative and 33 in the negative,

And the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, this bill is to provide a method by which the Banking Commissioner can dissolve financial institutions under his supervision. So far as that particular of the bill is concerned, the bill has a great deal of merit, but I would like to call to the attention of the House what I consider a very improper and unmeritorious phase of this measure. This bill provides that whenever the Banking Commissioner shall have reason to conclude that any institution under his supervision is doing business in an unsound and unsafe manner, or contrary to the interests of the public, he shall have the right, on five days' notice, to close up that institution, appoint a receiver, and take over the assets of that particular institution.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentlemtn from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLELOCH. When I get through, Mr. Speaker, I will. You will recall the argument on this bill last week. At this time the gentleman from Delaware said on the floor of this House that this bill did not extend the scope of the Banking Commissioner in any particular. He argued that the bill as presented to this House, and in whose support he wished the House to vote, was practically in accord with the Banking Act of 1895 with the exception of that part relating to receivers. His argument was that many institutions and many people opposed the adoption of the Act of 1895 because they did not fully understand and comprehend its features, and he suggested that it was only the institutions that had something to fear that were oppposing this present bill. For the benefit of the members of this House, I will read to you that particular phase of the Act of 1895, which is found on page 8 of the Pamphlet Laws of 1895: When the Commissioner shall have reason to believe that the capital of any such corporation is reduced by impairments or otherwise below the amount required by law, or the articles of incorporation, or below the amount certified in the articles of the incorporation," that then he may provide that the officers and directors of that institution shall make good that deficit or within sixty days be dissolved. Mr. Speaker, to my mind that is going too far to place within the hands and the control of the Banking Commissioner the right to insist, the right to close up any institution of this State upon five days' notice without proper hearing in a common pleas court, if he has reason to conclude that their method of doing business is unsafe. Mr. Speaker I cited an instance to this House last week where the Banking Commissioner issued a rule or regulation governing associations and insisted upon a compliance with that rule, only afterwards to have the courts of Philadelphia County declare that the Banking Commissioners was wrong and that the institutions, or building associations, that followed his suggestions were wrong and obliged to pay the costs of the suit and to proceed as the law directed. Now, Mr. Speaker, to my mind if the Banking Commissioner can be mistaken in one case, and no man is infallible, he may be mistaken as to what he considers to be safe and sound business policy. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that no two men can agree on every detail as to what is safe and sound business policy. If a Banking Commissioner would see fit to order an institution under his supervision to call a particular loan, because in his judgment, the security was not good, that institution would be obliged to call that loan, or be placed in the hands of a receiver. Mr. Speaker, that authority, that power is too arbitrary to be placed in the hands of any executive. I contend that no institution, particularly a financial institution, should be subjected to such control. Mr. Speaker, I believe when you come to consider that this bill places in jeopardy the assets of every financial institution of this State, you ought to go slow. If this present bill confined the authority, or the scope of the Banking Commissioner within the limitation of the Act of 1895, so far as to his jurisdiction is concerned in closing the institution up, many of the objectionable features would be removed, but when you place such unlimited authority in the Banking Commissioner, I contend that he is constituted the tanamount czar of all the financial institutions of this State, and their assets, their work and their wealth are absolutely at his control. Mr. Speaker, if the Banking Commissioner would close up any institution, and after the doors of that institution were closed, the bill provides that the aggrieved party may then have redress by appealing to the courts of common pleas. If the institution that has been thrown into insolvency takes an appeal to the court of common pleas and sustains its position, and the courts declare that the Banking Commissioner was wrong in closing up that bank of trust company, what redress has that institution? Will it ever be possible for that institution to rehabilitate itself in the community; would anything be possible to restore the lost confidence of the public in that institution? No. The entire assets of the stockholders of that corporation would be wiped out. And what penalty is there upon the Banking Commissioner if he makes a mistake? None whatever. There is absolutely no redress to an institution that has been wrongfully dealt with. Mr. Speaker, I think that unless this bill is amended to eliminate the unreasonable features, then this bill should not pass.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say a few words in regard to this bill. It seems to me that it is one of the best bills that has ever been before this House. It was before the House two years ago. I heard some objections the other day in relation to the bill when it was on the calendar, in relation to building and loan associations. Now I happen to be connected with some little building and loan association work, and have been for a good many years, and under the provisions of this bill, Mr. Speaker, no building and loan association, or any financial institution that may come under the provisions of this bill, if it is doing business according to law, has any grounds for complaint. In point of fact, every institution which is on a sound financial basis, and which does business according to law, ought to favor a bill of this kind. Every depositor in any institution which comes under or would come under the provisions of this law, ought to favor this bill because of the fact that if this bill were in operation he could sit, he could go to his bed at night, and feel assured that his money, his deposits, were safe. Now, briefly, Mr. Speaker, under the provisions of this bill, the matter of closing defunct institutions passes from same appointment made by the Dauphin County Court, to the Banking Department of this State, a living institution. Further than that any institution which is running and which as not running according to law, or which is insolvent, may be inquired into. It was suggested the other day when this bill was before the House that the provisions of this bill were such that one man could close any institution in the State. I want to disabuse the minds of any who may have been led astray by such a suggestion, and that suggestion was openly made. The provisions of this bill is that if the Banking Commissioner has reason to believe that the institution is insolvent, or is not being conducted according to law, he may, we may say, cite the directors of that institution to appear before the Attorney General, and there a sort of a preliminary hearing is had, and if after that hearing the Attorney General says to the Banking Commissioner, the effect of soliciting him is sufficient to justify him in saying either that the institution is insolvent or is not run according to law. Then in that event the Banking Commissioner steps in, but not until then. Now after he steps in, what is done? After he steps in a careful inventory is made. The institution is closed. Not like a National Bank, if you please, on the say of any inspector, but after preliminary hearing is had, then the institution is closed. It is closed and an inventory is made and notice is given by publication from the Banking Department to creditors and debtors alike. Now, it proceeds to wind up the concern and at the end of six months, as provided in this bill, he files an account, and he does not file it away off where somebody cannot see it; he files an account, one in the Banking Department and the other in the prothonotary's office of the court in the county where the institution is situated. Now let me deviate for just a moment. At the end of six months, every depositor or every creditor and every debtor in this institution has access to what is in the hands of the Banking Commissioner or the Banking Department and this is at the end of six months and showing, if you please, what the conditions of that institution are. How different, Mr. Speaker, from our present system. There are on the floor of this House some twenty-four members from the County of Allegheny. Every one will bear me out in this: Almost four years ago, simultaneously, a number of institutions in the City of Pittsburgh closed their doors. The courts of Dauphin County appointed receivers which were so interlocked in their business affairs that one could not move without affecting the other. I say to you that the first receiver of one of the institutions received several visits from me in relation to the conditions of that institution. I never could get one word of information from that receiver. I have never been able to get one word from that receiver of that institution up to this time. The statute of limitations has run. There was not any intent at anything criminal in the disposal of the funds of this institution, but I at least can say that the statute of limitation has absolutely run and there is no telling to-day what the condition of that institution is. You cannot tell whether they will pay one cent on a dollar or ten cents ,or fifty cents or one hundred cents on a dollar. Now, then, had the Banking Department been authorized, as it is authorized by this bill to do, had the Banking Department taken charge of this institution, how would it have been settled then? Within six months after the closing of the doors, every depositor could have gone into the court in that place or gone to the prothonotary's office and there examined the account of that institution and he could have seen whether there was anything there or whether there had been anything for him and if there was anything there he would have been within the statute of limitations and could have inqured why he should not secure the benefit of what his share might be. Is there anything bad in that feature? Certainly not. It is only a safeguard to depositors; it is only a safeguard to those who trust somebody else with their all. Perhaps there is not a bad feature up to this time. Now what else? After the six months is over, three months is given to the creditors to accept any claims that may be made because under this bill the controller or Banking Commissioner has the right to act upon any claim that may be made against the institution. But at the end of that time he files an account and gives notice of the filing and gives notice of the exceptions that are taken and unless further exceptions be taken to his account, then within thirty days after the expiration of that time, the court closes the account finally. That is it. It makes that accounting a partial accounting and a distribution is made and so it leaves open these cases that have been excepted and when these are finally determined, the last notice is given and the Banking Department makes its final distribution. Now, he said that it is dangerous to allow the Banking Department the authority to appoint somebody to help audit any assets. Why it is done every day. It is done by the receivers under the courts Why are not you fair about this. You know that it is. You say that it is dangerous for the Banking Commissioners to appoint local counsel. Why don't the receiver under the appointment of the court have the right to select his counsel to represent him? Why, certainly, he does and why are not you fair and say so? Under the provisions of this bill every depositor who has his money in an institution, I care not whether it is a Building and Loan Association or a State Banking Institution or what not, has the same safeguards around it as it ever had and that is more than you can say about it under the present conditions. More than that, if they be so unfortunate as to be in an institution which is run contrary to law or which by its financial tranactions becomes insolvent, he has the same right that will protect him to say where the money went and that within the time that the statute of limitation may run. He ges a return at least during his actual life time and that is something more than he does under the present condition. It seems to me that this bill ought to pass without a dissenting vote.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. R. J. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Delaware whether or not this bill provides that the Bank Commissioner hereafter shall have the power that is now vested in the court?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the bill provides that when the temporary receiver is appointed after a hearing before the Attorney General, it is identical with the law which we have now. Then the case can begin to be heard before the local court and this bill comes only into play in the way of a change when it goes to appointing a permanent receiver and in every other respect it is almost identical with the present law. Under the old law, they have sixty days and under this act, they have sixty days to determine and under an insolvency, they close in one day and under this they close in five days. It is more liberal than the old one. so far as impairment is concerned, and there is no change in the law. In other words, by impairment, I mean if the Banking Commissioner after examining the institution finds that the capital is somewhat impaired and if its holdings and security has been considered safe, it gives sixty days to correct that impairment. That is what they have now under the present law.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman. I would like to ask the gentleman whether the Commissioner has not the power to appoint an unlimited number of deputies and attorneys and fix their salaries as to places or as to what they shall be in the future?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, to make a statute that will fix the exact number of deputies and clerical force necessary would be practically handicapping the Banking Department and, therefore, knowing that sometimes, perhaps there might be two or even three or under certain conditions such as those brought about by financial crisis or disaster or depression it might be decided that four or five institutions might be thrown into bankruptcy, and no person would have to look further than 1893 or 1894 to find that a multitude of our banking institutions went into the hands of receivers all at once. It would be very foolish; it would be, in fact, improper to fix an exact number of employees that the Banking Commissioner would have to employ in case of having two or three or four institutions on his hands at one time. But the answer comes back, in seventeen years that this department had exactly this same power in that respect and this bill makes no change in it. I want to inform my friend, in so far as employing clerical assistance according to the law of 1895, it gives the same absolute power that this bill does and makes no changes whatever. But, however, seventeen years shows that such an abuse as my friend mentions has never taken place and it is really almost foolish to suspect that the Banking Commissioner of the great State of Pennsylvania would deliberately go out and employ a whole mass of clerks to perform this work that can be done by two or three men. I want to impress that point upon the House because that statement was made a few days ago when the bill was under consideration. I want to impress upon the House that insofar as the appointment of clerical assistants is concerned, this bill in no way changes the present law. So that that suggestion on the part of those who oppose the bill falls absolutely and is wothout foundation. I hope no member will rise again on the floor of the House to make that statement because the bill does not do it. There is but one purpose of this bill and that is all the argument that is necessary. This bill is intended to protect and benefit small depositors in these various institutions. It has no other purpose in it. It will not work any danger or do harm in any way at all. If the members of this House want to vote for a bill that will be in line with assisting the poor and unfortunate. not only that but I know that every Building Association in this State would stand for it, if they understood the bill thoroughly. I want to state to the House that a number of Building Associations have written to me in regard to this bill and after I had explained it to them, they, every one of them, withdrew their opposition. My two colleagues last Tuesday voted against this bill because their Building and Loan Associations and certain individuals together with an attorney connected with that association advised against it. But they have gone home and made an inquiry and they found out that this bill is absolutely in the interest of the public and of the Building Associations and I think both of them will stand upon their feet and say they will support this bill. If this House wants to support a measure in the interest of the small depositor they can support this bill and I do hope the House will consider this measure and vote in favor of it.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, just one more question which I desire to have the gentleman answer briefly. Is this a partial repealer of certain sections of the act which has been in operation for the past seventeen or eighteen years successfully?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I know, as well as the gentleman knows, and every member in this House, that in framing a bill to make it fit and adjust itself into another law in operation, certain language has to be changed, but the bill does precisely what I say to the House it does, and it does nothing more. To say just how it may affect certain sections of the act of 1895 would be difficult, but what the House wants to know is what is the purpose and effect of this bill, whether it may, in some little detail, change certain sections of the act of 1895 is not essential to the House, but it works out as I stated to the House, most positively.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman say again this is a partial repealer?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I did not carefully examine the act of 1895, to find just what changes take place in detail, but in effect those changes are as I cited to the House. What the House wants to know is this: You understand the old law, I presume. The old law provided that the bank examiner of our State should go out and keep in touch with these various institutions. He had the power to go in and demand the papers and find out what condition the institution was in. If he found an impairment of the capital, he had to give sixty days' time for the correction of that impairment. This law does not change that. If he finds upon examination that the institution is insolvent, he can immediately bring the directors of that institution before the Attorney General with one day's notice. Under the present act he has five days, which of course changes the language to some extent. But after the five days hearing, if the Attorney General decides that the institution is insolvent, then the parties aggrieved can go to the lower court just as they do now, and there after a hearing in the lower court, and the lower court decides that the concern is not insolvent, dismisses the case. If the finding is in accordance with the Attorney General's and Bank Commissioner's decision, the receiver continues, and then the bank examiner, just as my friend from Pittsburgh so lucidly explained to this House, takes charge of the institution and it is closed up within a reasonable time; while, under the present law, the fact that local receivers are appointed, going out from under the jurisdiction of the banking department, they are dragged and dragged along six, eight and ten years, and every year that they are dragged along, that receiver is pocketing the money that belongs to the poor depositor. Now, this is a fact, and every member of this House ought to vote for this bill.

Mr. FAHEY. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Hackett, Letzkus, Keeport, Alworth, Conrade, Cox, Sherwood, Bass, Ely, Schuck, Walnut, Martin, Walton, Whittaker, North, Donahoe, Becker, E. G. M. Kuhns, Sassaman, John H. Young, Moulthrop, H. P. Kuhn, Morrow, Miller and others.

On the question,

Shall the previous question now be put?

104 gentlemen, or a majority of the House, having voted in the affirmative,

The motion was agreed to.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:, viz:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, this bill that has been made a special order for this hour, provides that the personal property tax that is now paid into the State shall go to the counties. It shall be made a county tax instead of a State tax and shall be made the basis of each county borrowing up to the constitutional limit of seven per cent.

As regards the City of Philadelphia, it will be a great benefit to that particular city, and I know that all we Pennsylvanians are very much interested in teh third largest city in the Union. We have been handicapped for a great many years in the City of Philadelphia for lack of transit facilities, and you members of this House of the Session of 1913 have been good enough to pass enabling legislation providing for a Department of Transit, providing for the relocation of tracks, and providing for the building of subways, and if you will vote for this bill, you will give the one million six hundred thousand people of Philadelphia, and especially those that have to come to the centre of the city from the great outlying sections of the city, the Northeast, the Northwest, the Southeast and the Southwest, improved transit facilities. It will also give forty million dollars of actual cash for the improvement of our rapid transit facilities. We also have provided in this bill that the money shall not be expended for any other purpose except that for which the people of Philadelphia believe it shall be spent for, and we have so inserted in this bill an amendment providing that the money derived from the sale of bonds from his personal propery tax shall be restricted to the improvement of the subways and transit facilities.

I sincerely trust that you will give this bill unanimous support.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask how much, if he can inform the House, this would reduce the State revenues?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I understand it will reduce the State revenues a little over two million three hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in one year or two years?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, in two years.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, that would be the twenty-five per cent. which is taken out for State tax?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, this House has already passed a ninety-five per cent. bill.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think it ought to be called to the attention of the House that the effect of this bill is almost exactly the same as the effect of the bill which the House already has passed, introduced by the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess, except that that bill returned ninety-five per cent. of the personal property tax to the County, practically allow five per cent. of that for the expenses of the administration in bring the tax from the counties to the State and back again to the counties. This bill has the effect of returning the one hundred per cent. and makes an actual saving of five per cent.

But so far as the State revenues are concerned, this bill only does that which we have already decided ought to be done.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I am somewhat in doubt of the existence of chestnut blight. It looks to me as though we are treading on certain unknown ground and I think we should have a few days time to investigate this proposition. Mr. Speaker, I move that we postpone action on this bill for the present.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Whereupon, a division was called for and eighty-five gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and thirty in the negative the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the consideraion on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1636, as follows:

An Act making it the duty of the recorders of deeds of the various counties of this Commonwealth containing a population of over one million five hundred thousand inhabitants to require the furnishing of affidavits that the consideration mentioned in deeds or other instruments of conveyance of real estate offered for record is the actual and true consideration therefor or if not what is the actual and true consideration providing that such affidavits shall be sent to the authorities in the respective counties charged with the revision and equalization of the taxes on real estate therein and further providing that those making or furnishing false affidavits hereunder shall be guilty of perjury

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be the duty of the recorders of deeds of all counties of this Commonwealth having a population of over one million five hundred thousand inhabitants before admitting to the records any deed or other instrument of conveyance of real estate to require of the grantee or grantees in such deed or other instrument to furnish to such recorder his or their affidavit or the affidavit of some other person who is conversant with the facts that the consideration mentioned in the said deed or other instrument is the actual and true consideration therefor and that there is no other or further consideration for such conveyance or if the consideration stated in the deed or other instrument be not the true and actual consideration then such affidavit shall set forth what is true and actual consideration for the same The affidavits furnished as aforesaid shall be sent by such recorders of deeds to the authorities in their respective counties charged with the duty of the revision and equalization of taxes upon real estate therein and shall be certified by such recorders of deeds to the officials of their respective counties who may be charged with the duty of revising the assessments of real estate

Section 2 Any person who shall make or furnish a false affidavit in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of perjury and on conviction thereof shall be punishable as other persons committing perjury are by law punishable

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill has been amended since the last time it appeared on the calendar and now applies only to Philadelphia county. A conference of the members from Philadelphia county was had on this bill and it is the concensus of the majority of the members from Philadelphia that it is a practical help to the board on revision of taxes. It is just the kind of bill they need, and I would therefore ask the House to support this measure.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. W. F. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have somebody explain this bill.

Mr. MOULTHROP. Mr. Speaker, this bill simply amends the Sproul road act of 1911 by shortening quite a few roads in different parts of the State. It does not extend any mileage, but shortens the mileage in some places and gives better grades.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE MESSAGES.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE.

Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented the following extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows, viz:

In the Senate, May 12, 1913.

Whereas, The Hon. William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, now the Secretary of State, will pay a visit to the City of Harrisburg on Tuesday May 13, 1913,

Be it Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Hon. William Jennings Bryan be invited to address both Houses of the Legislature in the Hall of the House of Representatives on that rate, and

Be it further resolved, That the hour for the address be designated by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

Mr. KEEGAN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment:

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend the resolution as follows:

Whreas the Members of the House of Representatives have invited the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, to adress them on Tuesday, May 13, 1913, and have designated a committee to deliver the invitation, therefore be it Resolved, (if the House concur), That the Senate join with the members of the House of Representatives in extending said invitation and assemble in the hall of the House with the Representatives to listen to Mr. Bryan's address at an hour to be fixed by the committee after conference with Mr. Bryan.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution as amended?

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I call up for consideration at this time Senate Bill No. 658, on page twenty of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1874 (Senate Bill No. 658), entitled:

An Act authorizing the Commissioner of Banking to apponit one additional clerk and one additional stenographer and fixing the compensation of each

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, this is not a salary raiser. It is simply creating an additional clerk and stenographer to take care of the work that is being done now in the Banking Department, where the clerks are working overtime and being paid for overtime. This simply is to provide for the work occasioned by the new Banking Act and by the filing of director's oaths, and I trust the House will support the bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, I call up at this time House Bill No. 1739, file folio 7743, bills on third reading postponed for the present, page twenty-one of today's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1739, entitled:

An Act extending and defining the liability of owners or operators of electric wires or electric current conductors and declaring what shall constitute negligence in actions where death or injury to property has resulted on public highways and declaring on whom the burden of proof shall be and defining who shall be considered an owner under this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill regulating trolley companies, electric light companies and all companies carrying high tension wires, for the protection of life and property. This bill was sent to the Public Roads Committee, reported out and sent back for a public hearing. We got the traction interests, electric light interests and the team owners of the State of Pennsylvania, in on this thing and this bill is a compromise on the original bill and is favorable to all parties concerned. Over in our county of Allegheny, when a man loses a team he has no right of redress from the company unless he can prove gross negligence on the part of the company that has the overhead wire. Now they are all agreed on this bill, that it is a very good measure, and I kindly ask the gentlemen of the House to vote aye on it.

And said bill having been read at length for the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page twenty-two of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present, House Bill No. 1813, Senate Bill No. 430.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1813 (Senate Bill No. 430), as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act" as amended by an act approved the eleventh day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to amend sections nine and ten of an act entitled 'An Act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act' approved the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine by providing a final date for the registration of certain practitioners of osteopathy by defining what constitutes a reputable school or college of osteopathy within the meaning of this act and by vesting in the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners authority to determine the reputability of osteopathic schools or colleges and the right to determine reciprocal relations between States"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the ninth and tenth sections of an act approved the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act" as amended by an act approved the eleventh day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to amend section nine and ten of an act entitled 'An Act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act' approved the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine by providing a final date of the registration of certain practitioners of osteopathy by defining what constitutes a reputable school or college of osteopathy within the meaning of this act and by vesting in the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners authority to determine the reputability of osteopathic schools or colleges and the right to determine reciprocal relations between States" which as amended read as follows

"Section 9 A school or college of osteopathy to be recognized as reputable under the provisions of this act must be legally incorporated maintain a course of study consisting of the time element as provided for under the provisions of this act and adequate instruction in all the branches of study in which examinations are required for licensure under the provisions of this act subject to the approval and acceptance of a majority of the Board of Osteopathic Examiners of this Commonwealth Provided That any person who has been in the practice of osteopathy in this State for two continuous and consecutive years immediately prior to the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine and who is the holder of a diploma granted unto him or her from a legally incorporated school or college of osteopathy shall be allowed to continue in such practice provided he or she have been registered prior to the date of the approval of this amendment by the prothonotary of the county or counties in which he or she practices as originally provided for in the section as hereby amended but after the date of the approval of this amendment no person shall be registered as a practitioner of osteopathy in this Commonwealth except by exhibiting to the prothonotary of the county or counties in which he or she desires to practice a license duly granted to him or her by the Board of Osteopathic Examiners for the State of Pennsylvania

"Section 10 Applicants examined and licensed by the State Boards of Osteopathic Examiners of other States on the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars to the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners and filing in the office of the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners a copy of said license certified by the affidavit of the president or secretary of such board showing also that the standard of requirements adopted by said board of examiners is substantially the same as is provided by section eight of this act may without further examination receive a license conferring on the holder thereof all the rights and privileges provided by section eleven of this act

"Candidates for license to practice osteopathy in this State who present their applications and undergo examinations after the first day of January Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and twelve shall be obliged to present to the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners one of the following credentials satisfactory to the said board covering their preliminary education prior to their beginning the study of osteopathy in some legally incorporated reputable osteopathic college to wit A diploma of graduation from a reputable college or university granting the degree of bachelor of arts or science or equivalent degree or a diploma of graduation from an educational institution maintaining a four years' course of study that is a State Normal School or a high school a seminary an academy or a college preparatory school or a certificate of having passed examinations for admission to the freshman class of a reputable literary or scientific college or university or a certificate of having passed an equivalent examination conducted by a certified examiner for the State of Pennsylvania to be appointed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and for other States to be approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania said certified examiner being privileged to accept credentials from reputable and recignized preliminary schools for any subjects included in the preliminary examination Provided however that nothing contained in this act shall be construed to affect the right of those qualified to register under the provisions of this act and who are so registered in one county at the time of the approval of this act from registering with the prothonotary in any other county or counties in which he or she desires to practice and it shall be mandatory on their part to so register" are hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 9 A school or college of osteopathy to be recognized as reputable under the provisions of this act must be legally incorporated maintain a course of study consisting of the time element as provided for under the provisions of this act and afford adequate instruction in all the branches of study in which examinations are required for licensure under the provisions of this act subject to the approval and acceptance of a majority of the Board of Osteopathic Examiners of this Commonwealth Provided That any person who has been in the practice of osteopathy in this State for two continuous and consecutive years immediately prior to the nineteenth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine and who is the holder of a diploma granted unto him or her from a legally incorporated school or college of osteopathy shall be allowed to continue in such practice provided he or she have been registered prior to the date of the approval of this amendment by the prothonotary of the county or counties in which he or she practices as originally provided for in the section hereby amended Provided however that the holder of a certificate of registration exhibiting said certificate to the Board of Osteopathic Examiners for the State of Pennsylvania or its secretary at any time within ninety days after the passage of this act and upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars shall have granted unto him or her a license as provided for in section seven of this act After the date of approval of this amendment no person shall be registered as a practioner of osteopathy in this Commonwealth except by exhibiting to the prothonotary of the county or counties in which he or she desires to practice a license duly granted to him or her by the Board of Osteopathic Examiners for the State of Pennsylvania

Section 10 Applicants examined and licensed by the State Boards of Osteopathic Examiners of other States on the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars to the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners and filing in the office of the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners a copy of said license certified by the affidavit of the president or secretary of such board showing also that the standard of requirements adopted by said board of examiners is substantially the same as is provided by section eight of this act may without further examination receive a license conferring on the holder thereof all the rights and privileges provided by section eleven of this act

Under the provisions of the Act of 1909, the profession of Osteopathy was recognized by the laws of Pennsylvania, and a standard was fixed by the Act of 1909 whereby those persons were permitted to practice who had acquired the necessary learning to enable them to practice. Under the provisions of that act the persons who had been practicing osteopathy but who had not graduate from any reputable college, or who had not attained the requisite knowledge as provided and set forth in the Act of 1909, were not thrown out of a livelihood, but were provided for under the provisions of the act which I shall read: "Provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to affect the right to practice osteopathy on the part of any person who has been in the practice of osteopathy within this State for two continuous and consecutive years immediately prior to the approval of this act, and who has had granted unto him or her a diploma from any legally incorporated school or college of osteopathy. Such a person appearing before the Prothonotary of the county in which he or she is practicing and making affidavit, and upon the payment of a fee of one dollar, shall be registered."

In other words those persons who had not the requisite knowledge as set forth in the Act of 1909, and subsequently fortified by the act of 1911, who had been practicing osteopathy were permitted to continue the practice of osteopathy as registered osteopaths, but not as licensed osteopaths, and the difference as I see it between the registered osteopaths and the licensed osteopaths is that a registered osteopath was one who was permited to practice without having stood the standard or test of examination as provided by the Act of 1909, and the one who had become a licensed osteopath was the man who either took the examination under the Act of 1909 or 1911, or who had a certificate from a reputable, standard college recognized by the Osteopathic Board of Examiners, as provided by the Act of 1909. Now every person in this House who has practiced as learned profession knows that it is necessary in order to preserve the integrity of that profession that a standard of learning must be fixed, and unless you fix a standard of learning in any of your learned professions you have not learned profession and that is what the present law does. It fixes the standard of learning and the standard of intelligence. Now the men who never had any learning in respect to osteopathy, who never had any preliminary education, who never graduated from a certified college, or a recognized college of merit are now at this late date asking you to place them upon a false stamp. They are asking you to put upon them the stamp of sterling when they are not sterling, when they are something else, when they have not made the requirements of what the State law provides an osteopath should be, and I ask you, gentlemen, whether that is a fair proposition to the gentlemen who are now practicing osteopathy who have complied with the requirements of study and primary examination and who have passed the final examinations. Is it fair to them that men totally incompetent, who have had no education, is it fair that they should be placed on the same basis as the men who have qualified under the laws of Pennsylvania. I think, gentlemen, when you come to consider this question that you will answer this question in the negative, and that you will vote against this bill because this bill proposes to place a false standard upon certain men. It in no wise prevents the men who are now practicing from practicing but it does say that those men who have not taken the examination shall be placed upon the same basis and shall be recognized with the same merit as the men who have passed successfully or who have been graduates of a recognized college of osteopathy. It says that they shall be permitted to place themselves upon the same standard as those men of recognized merits, and I hope, therefore, gentlemen, that you will not do the profession of osteopathy this injury or permit these men who are unworthy to place themselves in a class where they do not belong, and I, therefore, ask you to vote against this bill.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, to which this bill was referred, I wish to make a few remarks. A public hearing was held before that Committee and the various phases of the features of this bill were dwelt upon at considerable length. As I understand the provisions of this bill, it merely means the placing of some sixty or seventy men who are now practicing osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania on an equality with the licensed men. At the time that the State Board of Osteopathy was created, certain coleges were designated, and after the men who were then practicing osteopathy had a license from these colleges, the State Board said you cannot be licensed. Nevertheless those men were registered osteopaths, and are now practicing their profession. But the complaint is that there is a distinction drawn between the licensed osteopath and the registered osteopath, and the provisions of this bill are simply to break down that barrier and place them all on an equal footing. It was acknowledged by the gentlemen who appeared before the Committee that the registered osteopath, generally speaking, were men qualified to practice, and the only objection to the passage of this bill is that the ins would continue to keep the outs out and lock the door against them.

The passage of this bill merely must demand that the practice of osteopathy be on the level with the licensed men, sixty or seventy in number in the entire State of Pennsylvania, and it is a bill that ought to be voted for.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman why those registered osteopaths refuse to undergo an examination for a license?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, as has already been explained by myself, the men now constituting the State Board have said to these men "you must graduate from a certain college; you must have a diploma from that college or you must appear before us and be licensed" and, nevertheless, these registered men are practicing osteopathy throughout the State of Pennsylvania today.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I know some of these men who have taken a three months course in a correspondence school in Chicago and want to get in on this bill. That is the class of men who are not registered.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if this bill was amended in the House Committee after it reached here from the Senate?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, it was amended in the Committee.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this is the objectionable clause that was inserted in the House Committee?

Mr.McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir; after a public hearing.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, just a word in regard to the way I understand the objectionable feature of this bill. The osteopath profession is a recognized profession in this State, by statute. In the placing of any class of professional men upon the statute books as a legal profession, it is looked upon that there are a certain class that have been practicing heretofore, before the act went into effect and the laws provide that those who have been practicing may up to a certain time he registered and still continue their practice. That was the feature of the osteopathy law, that it provided that those who had been practicing osteopathy before the passage of the act could continue practice by simply being registered. Now, the bill provides that people who practice osteopathy must take the State Board examination, the same as any medical man, to a great extent. The objectionable feature of this bill is that it allows those men who were practitioners before but who were not qualified by taking a regular osteopathic course and were allowed to continue practice without coming before the State Board and that they can now come before that Board and through a certain registration be licensed without taking any examination, which, to my mind, is not fair and for which the general medical profession would not stand for one moment. It has not been adopted by any other profession and I know in a veterinary law that was passed those who practiced surgery in their profession for a certain length of time became registered, but it would be absurd to introduce a bill now to allow those men to come in and file their certificate of prior registration and be licensed the same and have the same standing as a man who goes to a veterinary school and passes the examination and qualifies himself to practice that profession as the present law provides. That is the viciousness that this osteopathy profession finds in this bill. It seems to me that the remarks of the gentleman from York are perfectly to the point and this bill ought to be voted down.

BILL STRICKEN FROM THE CALENDAR.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the nays seemed to have it.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think the House means to vote no on that proposition. This bi l ought not to pass in the form it is in, and I think the sponsor of the bill and some more of us who are not now in sympathy with it, will probably get together and there will be no objections to the bill.

Whereupon a division was called for, 104 vote in the affirmative and none in the negative.

And the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1768, entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act to amend an act entitled 'An Act to enable mining manufacturing and trading companies to wind up their affairs after the expiration of their charters approved the twenty-first day of May Anno Domini eighteen hundred and eighty-one' approved the twenty-third day of May Anno Domini nineteen hundred and seven extending the same so as to include companies for the purchase and sale of real estate and construction companies"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

COMMUNICATION FROM ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House a communication from the Attorney General which was required to be sent to the House to-night.

The communication will be read by the Clerk.

The communication was read by the clerk as follows:

Office of the Attorney General,
Harrisburg, Pa., May 13th, 1913.

To the Honorable, the Speaker and the Members of the House of Representatives.

Gentlemen:—I am in receipt of a certified copy of the resolution of your Honorable Body of the fifth instant. Referring to the provisions of the Constitution that "neither House shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days," your two-fold inquiry, as I interpret it, may be stated concretely as follows: Is it lawful for the Senate to adjourn without the consent of the House "for a period of four full days, one of which is Sunday"; first, when Sunday is the fourth day of adjournment, e. g., in the case of adjournment from Wednesday until the following Monday; and second, when Sunday is one of the first three days, e. eg., in the case of adjournment from Friday until the following Wednesday.

In the adoption of the Constitutional provision quoted, the manifest intention was to provide that if either House should adjourn without the consent of the other, such House should reconvene upon the fourth day after the adjournment.

In the consideration of your inquiry, it is proper to premise that under the general rule of the common law, and by our declaratory Act of Assembly of June 28, 1883, (Pamphlet Laws 136), when a fixed number of days is prescribed by law, the rule in counting the same is to exclude the first day. It follows that Wednesday is to be excluded from the count in the first case put; and Friday is to be excluded in the second case put; and this much determined as to the initial or starting day in the computation, the next question is what is the fourth day hereafter in each case. And in his next question is involved the further one—whether Sunday is a dies non in either or both of the specific cases stated. The ancient common law drew a distinction between dies juridici and dies non juridici, and Lord Coke (1 Inst. 364), declares that at common law, the Sabbath is a dies non, and that no judicial acts may be lawfully done on that day. This ruling, that the Sabbath is a dies non, (see Commonwealth vs. Mara, 8 Phila. 440), still obtains, with certain limitation in Pennsylvania, i. e., it is a general rule of law that when the last day of a fixed period of time prescribed for the performance of any act falls on Sunday, (e. g., Sunday, the fourth day in the case first above stated), such Sunday is a dies non, and is to be excluded from the computation; and consequently, it is lawful to do the act on the following day, viz., Monday. When, however, Sunday is not the last day of such a fixed period, but falls within or during such period, (e. g., Sunday—the second day in the case second above stated) such Sunday is, as a general rule, to be included in the computation (see Fordham vs. Fordham, 15 W. N. C. 250 and Act of June 20, 1883, cited supra).

Specifically answering your inquiry, therefore, I am of the opinion that, should the Senate adjourn on Wednesday to reconvene upon the following Monday, such adjournment is within the true intent of the Constitutional provision under discussion; but that an adjournment on Friday, to reconvene upon the following Wednesday, is not within such intent, and either House so adjourning should reconvene on the following Tuesday.

The conclusion upon the first branch of the inquiry is reinforced by reference to a precedent established in the House of Representatives in 1897, as appears from its Journal for that session at page 1114. It is there recorded that a motion was made "That when the House adjourns this Wednesday evening, it be to meet on next Monday evening at nine o'clock."

The point of order was submitted that it was unconstitutional for the House to adjourn for more than three days without the consent of the Senate. The Speaker decided the point of order not well taken; that an adjournment of the House from Wednesday until the succeeding Monday, was not an adjournment for more than three days as provided by the Constitution, Sunday being a dies non. (See also Buckalew on the Constitution, page 52).

It may be finally said that even if either House adjourns for more than three days without the consent of the other, and then convenes, and legislation is proceeded with, passed, and approved by the Executive, such adjournment will not, in my opinion, invalidate any such legislation. (See West Philadelphia Passenger Railway Company vs. The Union Passenger Railway Company, 9 Phila. 495; Kilgore vs. Magee, 85 Pa. 401; and the remarks of Theodore Cuyler, Esq., reported in Volume 5, page 361, of the Debates of the Constitutional Convention; also White on the Constitution, Section 7, page 210).

Faithfully yours,

JOHN C. BELL,
Attorney General.

The SPEAKER. The communication will be noted upon the House Journal and printed in the Legislative Journal.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEES.

The SPEAKER. On House Bill No. 953 the Chair appoints as a Committee of Conference, Messrs. John R. K. Scott, W. H. Wilson and Cox.

On House Bill No. 956, the Chair appoints the same entlemen as a Conference Committee.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and at 11.30 P. M. the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1913. No. 65.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, May 13, 1913.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John M. Reynolds) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven," O Lord. "Give us this day our daily bread and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil." In Thy word we read how that Thou didst weigh in Thy eternal balance the ancient king, even Belshazzar, and say unto him, "Thou art found wanting." When this day shall have closed grant that no one of us shall be found wanting. Thou didst test Thy children in the furnace heated seven times hotter than it was wont to be, but they were found faithful to Thee. Grant that this day we too shall be faithful to Thee. Thou didst strip Thy servant Job of all his wealth and afflicted his body as he sat on the ash mound of desolation, but he lifted his head and said "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him." Grant that we too may trust Thee this day, making today better than yesterday, "Then ascending and secure shall tomorrow find its place." We left up our heads so that the King of Glory may enter the gates of our lives. Hear us, in our morning prayer, we ask it in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. McIlhenny, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. CROW asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Jefferson, Mr. Kurtz, for the balance of the week on account of illness.

HOUSE MESSAGE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which were laid upon the table.

Section 11 Whenever two or more boroughs or any borough and township having united in the construction or acquisition and maintenance of water works or hereafter uniting for the purpose of constructing or acquiring and maintaining water works desire to avail themselves of the provision of this act the councils of such boroughs and the commissioners or supervisors of such townships shall by joint action after ordinance or resolution duly passed apply to the court of common pleas of the proper county for the appointment of a commission of water works in accordance with this act Said commission shall be composed of citizens of each of said boroughs and townships so uniting

Section 12 All acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent with this act are repealed but this repeal shall not become effective in any borough or incorporated town until the authorities thereof shall by appropriate ordinance accept the provisions of this act Provided always however That anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding the act of Assembly entitled "An Act authorizing the erection of water works in the borough of Sewickley by commissioners and the issue of borough bonds and the levy of a special water tax" approved February twenty-first one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and forty-seven) shall in no wise be affected or repealed by this act

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I wish to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that this is the bill which it gave us pleasure in killing two weeks ago to-day, the bill authorizing Courts of Common Pleas to appoint a water commission in boroughs that own their own plant and giving them powers that we did not seem to think at that time they ought to have; and I hope the Senate will kill is again this morning.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed third reading?

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend Section 3, line 12, by striking out after the word "duty" the remainder of the section and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Provided, however, that after three years from the first appointment under this act the borough or town council may at any time rescind the resolution asking for the appointment of a commissioner of water works. When such resolution shall be so rescinded the court shall make no further appointment of commissioner of water works until a resolution shall again be passed by council asking for such appointment;" also in Section 5, line 9, by inserting after the word "works" the words "subject to the provisions of existing laws;" also by striking out Section 6; also in Section 7, line 1, by striking out the figure "7" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "6;" also in Section 8, line 1, by striking out the figure "8" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "7;" also in line 4 by inserting after the word "shall" the words "after plans and specifications for the extension of water works or the erection of new water works have been submitted to and approved by the Department of Health in accordance with the provisions of an Act of Assembly approved the 22nd day of April, 1905, entitled 'An Act to preserve the purity of the waters of the State for the protection of the public health' and a permit granted therefor by the Commissioner of Health;" also in Section 9, line 1, by striking out the figure "9" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "8;" also in Section 10, line 1, by striking out the figure "10" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "9;" also in line 1 by inserting after the word "regulations" the words "not inconsistent with the laws of the Commonwealth, the rules and regulations of the Department of Health or the Water Supply Commission;" also in Section 11, line 1, by striking out the figure "11" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "10;" also in Section 12, line 1, by striking out the figure "12" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "11;" also in the title, line 3, by inserting after the word "works" the word "and;" also in line 3, by striking out after the word "duties" the remainder of the title.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1162, as follows:

An Act to amend section two of the act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act relating to roads providing for the election and appointment of township supervisors in second class townships defining their powers duties and limitations relating to road tax and the expenditures thereof abolishing the work tax defining certain duties of the clerk of court fixing penalties for violation of this act and making an appropriation to carry out its provisions" so as to provide for a further adjustment of valuation of property made between the date of the levy of the tax and payment of same

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section two of the act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act relating to roads providing for the election and appointment of township supervisors in second class townships defining their powers duties and limitations relating to road tax and the expenditures thereof abolishing the work tax defining certain duties of the clerk of court fixing penalties for violation of this act and making an appropriation to carry out its provisions" which reads as follows

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 682 (House Bill No. 650), entitled:

An Act fixing a closed season for quail and providing a penalty for violation of this act

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, if this bill should become a law it would prevent the shooting of quail in this State for two years. I believe that the motives of those back of this bill were good. I believe they had only in mind one object and that was the taking care of the quail that we have at present and providing ways and means for increasing the number in the future. Now, Mr. President, if this were true, if the bill would accomplish that end, I certainly would be in hearty accord with the movement and I know every other sportsman and lover of the gun and dog would be in favor of the same. But my opinion and the opinion of no less an authority than the State Game Commissioner, Dr. Kalbfus is that the closing of the season will not increase the number of the quail in this State, unless, I say unless, we could pass a bill enacting a law that would control the elements. Now, Mr. President, this I understand we do not have any jurisdiction over, so consequently that would be out of the question. A severe winter is responsible for the extermination of our quail. I do not believe, Mr. President, an ordinarily cold winter would accomplish this result, but I mean a winter when the ground is covered with snow for a long period and the quail, being unable to get food becomes a very easy prey of its natural enemies, the hawk by day, the fox, the mink, the weasel and pole cat by night. When these conditions exist, Mr. President, it behooves a true sportsman, who after all is the only friend and interested in the propagation of quail, to trap and save as many of them as possible. This, Mr. President, is not an unusual occurrence. In my county it is happening and I dare say in other communities it is the same. I therefore see no advantage to deprive those of our citizens, who are interested in the sport and recreation, unless there is some special benefit to be gained, especially since we have passed an act known as the Hunter's License Act, whereby the sums so collected are to be used for the propagation and the re-stocking of the State and also to provide money to pay the bounty on noxious animals which have destructive propensities. Last season in our county we had more quail than we had for twenty years and the same applies all over the State where the conditions are alike. What I mean by the conditions, is the fact that some portions of our State do not have quail, nor will they ever have any, owing to the uncultivation of the land forestry. Quail is a domesticated bird. He wants some fertile ground and still he wants some brush to protect him in winter time. The same, no doubt, applies all over the State as far as the number of quail is concerned at the present time. The conditions are the same and I feel safe in saying that there will be a very large percentage over last year in 1913. These facts, Mr. President, are true, and I have a letter which I shall read in support of what I have said. When this bill was first introduced and brought over to the Senate, I inquired from the department how they felt on the matter and this is the letter I received from the Commissioner under date of April 9th.

Hon. Henry Wasbers,

State Senate, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Sir:—Personally I am opposed to the bill giving any kind of perpetual protection to quail, as I am satisfied that a closed season will not result in benefit to the birds. I am not in favor of killing, but experience teaches me that the true sportsman is the quail's only and best friend. While he may destroy some few through the use of a gun in the fall, at other times of the year he is protecting and preserving them, so that he may have a little sport when the fall comes; he is constantly destroying vermin and frequently feeds the birds through severe winters, when they otherwise would die of starvation. Experience teaches me that where a large covey of quail are permitted to run together good results are not attainable. (This is one part I want to call the attention of this body to particularly.) I have frequently been informed of where two or more hen quail had laid in one nest, the cock birds fighting over them, with no hatching at all. I myself had nineteen birds running together two entire years without hatching. The spring of the third year I saw where a duckhunter had "raked" them on the sands by the River side killing perhaps one-half of the entire flock. The result was that the covey was broken up and I knew of at least three coveys that resulted from that flock. I might cite many instances of that kind. If I thought that farmers would feed the birds, or that any benefit would come to the birds through a continuous close season for a number of years, I would certainly favor such a proposition. I believe that a close season taking the interest of the sportsman away from the birds would, through the coming of one severe winter, exterminate every quail in the country. The pleasure of hunting or the profit of killing does not enter into this equation with me; I am saying what I now say because I think that no good could result to the birds through a close season.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH KALBFUS,
Secretary, Game Commission.

This letter alone should be sufficient to show this body the fallacy of passing this bill.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from York, Mr. Wasbers.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from York, Mr. Wasbers, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from York, Mr. Wasbers, if it his argument that the more quail shot the more will be hatched.

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, to a limit, yes sir. I would rather have four quail in a covey than I would have a whole covey together because they breed more prolifically. They pair off and when a large number is together that is eliminate and they degenerate. That same thing applies to chickens and every other feathered tribe. Those are facts.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. President, I agree with the Senator from York in that I do not think quail will be any more plenty at the end of two years, if this closed season were adopted, if we have a severe winter or two severe winters, but I am in favor of this bill to give it a trial. Let us prove it by passing this bill. No one will suffer by it in two years time and when we come together again we can take up the matter.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, the farming people in the western part of the State have been feeding the quail for a long time. A member of the State Game Commission tells me, in his own community, the farmers and wives and children feed the quail and go out some fine morning and find some city hunter has blown the heads off the entire covey. That is the only reason I am for the bill. I do not think shooting will make them any more plenty. The Senator from York, Mr. Wasbers, has said that the sportsman is the true friend of the quail. I do not believe that. I think the farmer is and Dr. Surface has stated to me particularly, from his point of view, the quail is one of the best friends the farmer has and he is heartily in favor of a bill that will prevent their elimination.

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, just one word. I dare say that the Senator from Blair, Mr. Jones, is evidently not a sportsman. If he were I am sure he would not make a remark of this kind, that they would kill every one, because he does not know how hard it is to kill a quail, but I do not think that would interfere substantially with the matter of increase because the quail has accustomed itself to the same conditions that the human being has; he has learned to hunt cover.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, We are asking for a two year protection. The bill came from the House with a five year protection and it was modified to two years in the Committee. I do not think it would do a great deal of harm to try it.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED FOR THE PRESENT.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1140 (House Bill No. 938), on final passage postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of an act entitled "An Act to restrain and regulate the sale of vinous and spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixtures thereof" approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven as amended by section one of an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 1140 (House Bill No. 938), entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of an act entitled "An Act to restrain and regulate the sale of vinous and spirituous malt or brewed liquors or any admixtures thereof" approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven as amended by section one of an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I want to recommend this bill to the Senate. It just transfers three per cent. of the liquor license collections in Philadelphia over to the Police Pension Fund for the benefit of widows, orphans, etc. It does not interfere with the liquor law in any other way.

Mr. NULTY. Mr. President, I have no objections, understand, to the Police Pension Fund, but I think it is a wrong idea to take from the fund that is collected from the licenses in cities of the first class, and to transfer it to any pension fund. It couples, I think—in my mind—the saloon man and the policeman together. I do not think it is fair for us to pass the bill. We might as well take the municipal tax or the property tax. I have talked to numbers of saloon men in the City, and they do not like the bill under any pretence.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I might say for the benefit of this Senate that so far as the saloon man is concerned with this bill, he has no more connection with this bill than I have with the Republic of China. The saloon-keeper goes and pays his money to the City. He has no say as to what becomes of it. The law says he pays so much and he pays his money. This money is to go into the Police Pension Fund. The police are used in the City of Philadelphia for the purpose of keeping the saloon keepers and the men they do not take proper care of in order, and if there is any fund at all that the Police Department should receive benefit from, or the Pension Fund should receive some money from, it is from this very fund that is gotten out of the licenses as paid to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The saloon-keeper has absolutely no say—no connection with it at all. I do not see how he comes into the question.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, just one more word. I might say gentlemen of the Senate, this bill passed nearly unanimously in the House after it was explained that it did not interfere with any other part of the State except our city, and then only so far as the financial end of it was concerned. I might say the saloon-keepers in Philadelphia are nearly unanimously not one way or the other on this bill. They do not care anything about it. It does not interest them at all.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21.

Alexander,	Endsley,	Jones,	Salus,
Catlin,	Gerberich,	Magee,	Sheatz,
Clark,	Gyger,	McNichols,	Snyder
Cooper,	Homsher,	Moore,	Vare,
Crow,	Hunter,	Morgan.	Wasbers,
Daix,

NAYS—11.

Beidleman,	Hoke,	Martin,	Nulty,
Farley,	Judson,	McIlhenny,	Sensenich.
Heacock,	Knapp,	McNichol,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

The PRESIDENT. Senate Bill No. 1279, on third reading, entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend section 1, line 39, by striking out all of line 44, and inserting in lieu thereof the following, "sureties or one trust or bonding company to be approved by the town council in."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1312, entitled:

An Act for the better protection of human life and other life in this Commonwealth and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. ENDSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. ENDSLEY, from the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 870 (House Bill No. 210), entitled:

An Act to amend title and sections three and four and five and six and nine and eleven of an act entitled "An Act relating to the right to practice medicine and surgery in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and providing a Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure as a Bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice medicine and surgery and any of its minor branches may be obtained and exemptions therefrom and providing for an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act and providing for revocation and suspension of licenses given by said Bureau and providing penalties for violation thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith" approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. ALEXANDER, from the Committee on Forestry, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 1047, entitled:

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act to establish a Department of Forestry to provide for its proper administration to regulate the acquisition of land for the Commonwealth and to provide for the control protection and maintenance of forest reserves by the Department of Forestry" approved the twenty-fifth day of February Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws page eleven) authorizing the Department of Forestry to designate certain of the foresters within its employ to act as District Foresters in the performance of general forest work other than within the State Forests

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McNICHOLS read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 1377, entitled:

An Act to protect the public health by providing for the prevention of the preparation storage transportation and sale of meat and meat food products which are unsound unhealthful unwholesome or unfit for human food vesting certain powers in the State Livestock Sanitary Board and its agents and providing penalties for violation of this act

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED FOR THE PRESENT.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 709, on final passage postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act to regulate the admission of minors to public dance houses or halls to concert saloons to theatres and to places where theatrical acrobatic or vaudeville performances or moving picture shows are given and providing the punishment for a violation thereof

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 709, entitled:

An Act to regulate the admission of minors to public dance houses or halls to concert saloons to theatres and to places where theatrical acrobatic or vaudeville performances or moving picture shows are given and providing the punishment for a violation thereof

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I would like to say this is a bill which regulates the admission of minors into moving picture shows and the admission of minors into dance-halls. It fixes the age for dance-halls at eighteen years, and for moving pictures at fourteen years, unaccompanied by their parents, and also fixes the time during school hours and the time in the evening 9 o'clock. It is a very salutory bill and all objectionable features that may have been in it have been removed by amendment, and I hope the Senate will pass this bill.

And the amendment made theretoi having been printed as required by the Constitution,

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1334 (House Bill No. 1891), as follows:

An Act authorizing the Water Supply Commission of Pennsylvania to establish and maintain gauging stations on certain streams within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania authorizing said Commission to issue flood warnings and making an appropriation therefor

Whereas the recent flood conditions have demonstrated the importance and necessity of establishing and maintaining gauging stations on the streams within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in order that freshet and flood conditions may be telegraphed and telephoned to certain municipalities where flood damage is likely to be caused forecasting as near as may be the probable maximum gauging heights expected to be reached and the probable time of the arrival of such gauge heights therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Water Supply Commission of Pennsylvania is hereby authorized to establish and to maintain such gauging stations on the principal rivers and tributaries thereof as in the judgment of the Commission may be necessary for the determination of the daily height of water in such streams and tributaries thereof as well as the amount of water flowing therein

Section 2 The Commission shall during freshet and flood conditions issue bulletins to be telegraphed or telephoned to such municipalities in the Commonwealth where flood damage is likely to be caused forecasting the probable maximum gauge heights expected to be reached and the probable time of the arrival of such gauge heights

Section 3 The sum of ten thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Water Supply Commission of Pennsylvania for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou art our God. Early will we seek Thee, because Thy loving kindness is better than life, therefore shall our lips praise Thee. Thou has kept kindly watch over us whilst we have slept. Now we have awaked in health to greet with our eyes and hearts this new day. As we enter upon these duties, wilt Thou help us that we may discharge them with all fidelity and earnestness; may no gift of Thine be unused to-day; may no faculty or power which Thou hast conferred be perverted or misspent in the service of sin. Help us, O Lord, to fear Thee always and to walk all day in the light of Thy countenance. And to this end we pray that Thou wilt enlighten our minds that we may know Thee and inspire our souls that we may love Thee and quicken our wills that we may serve Thee. May we have the pure heart and the right spirit; may we be careful not to offend in thought, word or deed; may we speak the truth and earnestly try to do the thing which is right; may we fear to be unfaithful, and have no other fear; may we help each other along the way. These things we ask in the name of Him whose we are and whom we are trying to serve, even the Lord Christ. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when on motion of Mr. E. G. M. Kuhns, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO SONG "PENNSYLVANIA."

Mr. PEACHEY offered the following resolution, which was read and laid over for printing:

RESOLUTION.

Whereas, some one has said, "Let me write the songs of the Nation, and I care not who makes her laws" and

Whereas, there has been offered as official songs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania three compositions, one by Edgar M. Dilley of Philadelphia, one by John E. Barrett of Scranton and another by Arthur H. Haskins of Reynoldsville, and

Whereas, the State of Pennsylvania commends and appreciates the best in song and sentiment as in all things else therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the song entitled "Pennsylvania" composed and sung by a Pennsylvania farm boy Prof. J. W. Yoder of Juniata College, Huntingdon, formerly of Belleville, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby declared and adopted as the official State song of Pennsylvania.

Song as follows:—

"PENNSYLVANIA."

1 Pennsylvania forever, Wonderful Keystone State, Beautiful, rugged glorious, Heaven did thee create Verdure clad hills and mountains,
Rich with abundant store,
Tower in grandeur silent,
Praising thee evermore.

Cho. Pennsylvania dear and grand
Pennsylvania my own land
Endless praise we give to thee,
Service, valor and loyalty
Freedom, honor and peace for Pennsylvania.

2 Pennsylvania, my home land,
Sturdy thy sons of old;
Valley forge tells the struggle,
Fighting against hunger and cold
Gettysburg cries to the millions,
Freedom from bondage sore
Dear is old Philadelphia
Brotherly Love of yore.

Chorus

3 Pennsylvania, beloved
Father of liberty,
Keep thou in sacred nearness,
Keep us in unity.
Guide us in truth and protect us
Teach us forever to be Loyal to Pennsylvania
State of the valiant free.

Chorus

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO SONG "PENNSYLVANIA."

Mr. WATSON offered the following resolution, which was read and laid over for printing.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Whereas, certain resolutions have been offered requesting the appointment by the General Assembly of a committee of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of selecting and endorsing one of several songs which have been proposed

Resolved that a song entitled Pennsylvania composed by Edith Hoak Kinney and music by Hamlin E. Cogswell and dedicated to Honorable Henry Houck, a copy of which is hereto attached be considered with others by said committee, if appointed, as a State song.

PENNSYLVANIA

Respectfully dedicated to the Hon. Henry Houck.

Words by Edith Hope Kinney. Music by Hamlin E. Cogswell.

Fair State, we fain would sing of all For which thou long hast stood—
Thy beauty of thy Christening, For wealth of mine and wood
Thy founder's fame, that thro' thy name, Still breathes of brotherhood,
Thy founder's fame, that thro' thy name, Still breathes of brotherhood!

That bell of Independence Hall, What poeans it did play,
When thro, thy borders rang its voice, A nation's soul to sway!
Still do we boast, in song and toast Thy part in that great day;
Still do we boast, in song and toast Thy part in that great day!

Thy sons to freedom didst thou give, A brave and loyal line,
Aye, Valley Forge and Geetysburg Upon thy pages shine!
And we do to-day the tribute pay Of glory that is shine;
And we do to-day the tribute pay Of glory that is thine.

Chorus. Mixed voices.

O, rest thee well dear Liberty Bell, In the City of Brotherly Love
The old Keystone State watches over thy fate, With the Star Spangled Banner above.
O, rest thee well dear Liberty Bell, In the City of Brotherly Love

RESOLUTION NO. 29.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a motion at this time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McClintock, offers a motion, which is seconded by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut, and will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved that Resolution No. 29, file folio 2637, be now taken from the table.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the motion.

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was then read as follows:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 29.

Whereas It is important that the assessment of real and personal property in the various counties of this Commonwealth should be made upon systems which protect the interest of the Commonwealth and which prevent discrimination between individuals and localities

Therefore be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Speaker of the House of Representatives be and he is hereby authorized to appoint five members of the House of Representatives and that the President pro tempore of the Senate be and he is hereby authorized to appoint three Senators who together shall constitute a commission whose duty it shall be to investigate between the sessions of the Legislature the various systems of assesment of real and personal property in use in this Commonwealth The chairman of said commission shall be elected by the members thereof and all subpoenas issued by said commission shall be signed by him Said commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel attendance of witnesses the production of books documents records and papers as to it in its judgment will assist in the performance of its duties Each member of said commission before entering upon his duties shall take and subscribe to the oath prescribed in the Constitution of the Commonwealth for the faithful performance of his duties The commission shall hold such hearings which shall be public at such times and places at is may deem proper The members of said commission shall serve without compensation but shall be allowed their actual necessary expenses It shall have the right to employ such officers and employes as may be needed to enable it to properly perform its duties and the expenditures thereof shall be limited to the amount provided for in the general appropriation bill Said commission shall make a full and true report in writing of its investigations together with such recommendations and suggestions as it may deem necessary to the next General Assembly of Pennsylvania at its first session the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen

The SPEAKER. When this resolution was last before the House, the question was on the adoption of an amendment which was offered by Mr. McClintock. The amendment will be read.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Resolution No. 29, by adding at the end thereof the following: "The total expenses of the said commission shall not exceed the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) which amount shall be appropriated in the General Appropriation Bill."

The SPEAKER. The question is, will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is a resolution which is without any necessity, without any force. It is for the purpose of doing that which the gentleman who are the Advisory Committee of Mayor Blankenburg are doing without any compensation:; that is the taking up of the dicussion as to whether or not the present system of fixing the assessment on taxable property in Philadelphia, should continue along on the present basis or whether a different system should be adopted for the fixing of such taxation. Men prominent in financial life in Philadelphia—in political life and in business life, are giving their assitance to Mayor Blankenburg. These gentlemen and the gentlemen of the Board of Revision have taken up this discussion on the question of assessment and the matter of assessing properties has been withheld for some thirty days while this question is being discussed. This resolution while it is offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia in good faith and with the very highest purpose, we take exception to it and believe that two thousand dollars need not be expended for any such purpose.

It is not necessary to again create a commission to drain the treasury by useless expenditures. Many prominent men in the councils of Philadelphia, men prominent in the banking interests of Philadelphia and prominent in the large manufacturing interests of Philadelphia are the gentlemen who are taking up this question, and I therefore ask the House to vote down this resolution.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, this resolution provides for the appointment of five members of the House and three Senators, which together shall constitute a commission for the purpose of investigating the best method for assessing real and personal property in the various counties, and to consider the various methods of assessment in operation; the commission to make a full report to the General Assembly of 1915 for the purpose of having legislation enacted whereby a standard system may be provided which will protect the interests of the Commonwealth and which will prevent discriminations between individuals and localities. I have here the signatures of about four to five hundred gentlemen who signed a petition approving this resolution. These gentlemen are part of the fifteen hundred who visited this House in behalf of the Philadelphia enabling act, and the signatures were received on the train. Thousands of similar signatures could have been obtained if we had gone to that trouble. During the past year or so, there have been held several public meetings in the City of Philadelphia on the question of the methods of taxation, but so far no concrete plan has been presented that would bring about the desired standard method or a better one than the present method. I therefore believe that the appointment of this commission is a step in the right direction. I do believe that there is a necessity for such a commission. At the present time we have two bills, or three bills, in the Senate, and we also passed a bill here in this House last night for the purpose of enabling the Board on Revision of Taxes in Philadelphia to make assessments easier by compelling the purchase price of property to be printed and doing away with the present method of putting in the purchase price as nominal. Now, for the last two or three years, this tax question has been before the citizens of Philadelphia, and as I said before no concete plan has been presented whereby any betterment might be brought about. I believe that if we had a commission appointed, this commission during the coming two years could thoroughly investigate the present method and present to this Legislature a better plan, a better system, a newer and more up-to-date system. The present system in Philadelphia has been in vogue for the last thirty or thirty-five years, and the present head of that Board on Revision of Taxes has been identified with it for thirty-one years and no doubt he thinks it is one of the best systems in existence, because he has been the maker of it. He has been with it right along and he can see no wrong in the present method, but the citizenship of Philadelphia does see a wrong and sees a wrong in the one in which assessments are made, and the inequality of taxation; and the only way to get away from the inequality of taxation under the present methor is to procure a new method and a better way. And the way to do this is to have a commission of investigation who can present a bill to this House, something that we will know has been looked into. I think that the best way to get at this question is to give a commission the opportunity of investigating them for a couple of years, and during that time they can come to some concrete idea that will be of benefit to all. I ask the gentlemen of the House to support this resolution.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia who has spoken in favor of this resolution seems to lose sight of the fact that we have had a very able commission, of which our speaker was an honored member, which has been working now for a number of years in relation to the solution of the very question which is involved in this resolution. That commission, Mr. Speaker, was instituted some six years ago at least, and I think has been in active service, with some slight changes in the personnel of the commission, from that time, going along with their investigations which every member of this House well knows by the reports which have been spread before them from session to session. They covered all tax matters in all their phases in this Commonwealth. Recommendations have been made to each session of the Legislature, and the Ways and Means Committee, together with that joint commission, have formulated bills and have presented them on the floor of this House relating to the tax question and working out as the matter could be developed from year to year, mark you, have worked out our present laws on taxation. Now, we all know that perhaps it is not as complete as it might be, but up to this time it has been the best one that has been formed by men who have devoted to the study not only their time during the sessions of the Legislature, but the two year interim between the sessions, and they have come together and boiled down and put in concrete form all that the testimony and their investigations showed. They have put those concrete ideas into bills and those bills have been introduced. Now, the result has been, as we know, that the great majority of those bills have passed upon the floor of this House and have been written into the statute books in relation to taxation. Certain of those bills have been defeated because this House in it wisdom did not agree with the ideas embodied by the commission in those bills. Now, to say, Mr. Speaker, that a commission which has devoted all of these years to this matter should now pass out and in its place a new commission be formed, and in two years present to this House a concrete idea or ideas in concrete form for the purpose of creating a better taxation system, is to the older members of this House and those who have given any study to the question absolutely absurd. This resolution ought to be whipped with an overwhelming defeat at this time.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I may be mistaken, but I believe that the work of the commission which the gentleman from Allegheny speaks about is one reason why this commission should be appointed. The commission that the gentleman from Allegheny speaks about, as I understand it, and I have read part of the report which is a very lengthy article, only acts upon revenue and corporation taxes, not on the real and personal taxes of the State.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, to correct the gentleman's wrong impression, I desire to inform the gentleman that it covers the entire question of taxation, real, personal, mixed, corporate and otherwise.

On the question,

Shall the resolution be adopted as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. McCLINTOCK and Mr. S. B. SCOTT and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE.

SENATE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Resolution entitled as follows, viz:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

[In the Senate, May 13, 1913.

Whereas, The Hon. William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, now the Secretary of State, will pay a visit to the City of Harrisburg on Tuesday, May 13, 1913,

Be it Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur) That Hon. William Jennings Bryan be invited to address both Houses of the Legislature in the Hall of the House of Representatives on that date, and

Be it further Resolved, That the hour for the address be designated by the House of Representatives.

Whereas, The members of the House of Representativs have invited the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, to address them on Tuesday, May 13, 1913, and have designated a Committee to deliver the invitation, therefore, be it Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the Senate join with the members of the House of Representatives in extending said invitation and assemble in the hall of the House with the Representatives to listen to Mr. Bryan's address at an hour to be fixed by the Committee after conference with Mr. Bryan.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1908, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the twelfth day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven entitled "An Act to extend the provisions of an act laying a tax on dogs in certain townships in the county of Chester relative to elections in West Philadelphia and to assessors in Millerstown Perry county approved the eleventh day of March one thousand eight hundred and fifty so far as provides for the taxing of dogs to the township of Londonderry in the county of Chester"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 970, entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and to prevent adulterations in drugs and medicinal preparations in the State of Pennsylvania" approved the twenty-fourth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven and the amendment to section five thereof adopted by the Legislature and approved the twenty-fourth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and five amending section five of said act as heretofore amended providing that applicants for license shall have a preliminary general education and extending the powers and the duties of the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board and empowering the said Board to make rules and regulations to enforce the provisions of this act and providing an appropriation therefor

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section five of the act entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and to prevent adulterations in drugs and medicinal preparations in the State of Pennsylvania" approved the twenty-fourth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven as amended in the act entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of pharmacy and sale of poisons and to prevent adulterations in drugs and medicinal preparations in the State of Pennnsylvania" which was approved the twenty-fourth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven requiring that on and after January first one thousand nine hundred and six all persons applying for certificates of registration as competent pharmacists under the provisions of section five of said act shall be graduates of a reputable college of pharmacy" which reads as follows

"Section 5 That it shall be the duty of said board to meet at least once every three months in the city of Harrisburg or at such other place as they may deem expedient and examine all persons who shall desire to carry on the business of a retail apothecary or that of retailing drugs chemicals or poisons or of compounding physicians' prescriptions touching their competency and qualification and they the said board or a majority of them shall grant to such persons as may be qualified certificates of competency or qualifications which shall entitle the holder thereof either to conduct or carry on the business or to act as a qualified assistant therein as may be expressed upon the said certificate and such certificate together with its renewals shall be good and sufficient evidence of registration under this act

All persons applying for examination for certificates to entitle them to conduct and carry on the retail drug or apothecary business must produce satisfactory evidence of having had not less than four years' practical experience in the business of retailing compounding for dispensing of drugs chemicals and poisons and of compounding physicians' prescriptions and of being a graduate of some reputable and properly chartered college of pharmacy And those applying for examination for certificates as qualified assistants therein must produce evidence of having not less than two years' experience in and business be and the same is hereby amended so that the same shall read as follows

Section 5 That it shall be the duty of the said board to meet at least once every three months in the city of Harrisburg or at such other places as they may deem expedient and examine all persons who shall desire to carry on the business of a retail apothecary or that of retailing drugs chemicals or poisons or of compounding physicians' prescriptions touching their competency and qualifications and they the said board or a majority of them shall grant to such persons as may be qualified certificates of competency or qualifications which shall entitle the holder thereof either to conduct or carry on the said business or to act as a qualified assistant therein as may be expressed upon the said certificate and such certificate together with its renewals shall be good and sufficient evidence of registration under this act

Section 4 The sum of fifteen thousand dollars or as much thereof as may be necessary be and hereby is appropriated for carrying out the provisions of this act

Section 5 Nothing in this act contained shall in any wise impair or abridge the rights powers and duties now vested in said State Pharmaceutical Examining Board under existing laws but the powers and duties hereby conferred shall be in addition to all rights powers and duties now vested in said Board

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. SNYDER. This bill is intended to raise the standard of education of druggists. It gives the Pharmaceutical Examining Board power to prescribe what course of study must be completed before students can qualify as qualified assistants or registered pharmacists. It also empowers the Board to recognize certain colleges of pharmacy, thus enabling them to prevent other states from discriminating against registered pharmacists from Pennsylvania. As Pennsylvania has as good colleges of pharmacy as any in the country this is wise provision. The bill is a good one and should pass.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 17 of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed. House Bill No. 1844, Senate Bill No. 417.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1844 (Senate No. 417), entitled:

An act to amend the first section of an act entitled "An act to provide efficient and practical means for the prevention control and eradication of a disease affecting chestnut trees commonly called the chestnut-tree blight providing for the destruction of trees so affected creating a commission to carry out the purpose of this act fixing penalties for violation of the provisions hereof and making an appropriation therefor" approved June fourteen one thousand nine hundred eleven (Pamphlet Laws page nine hundred twenty-two) extending the provisions thereof in certain cases to other species of trees

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, before we vote on this measure, I deem it necessary that we should have a little information on this subject from some of the members of the House who are more familiar with this bill than we are. The bill as it appears on your file folio today is not the bill as it was passed by the Senate. The sponsor of the bill, is Senator Endsley who comes from the same county that I do. The bill as amended in the Committee is such that the sponsor of the bill himself would hardly recognize it as being his own bill. The subject of Chestnut Blight has received a great deal of attention in our State for the last few years, and the General Assembly of 1911 appropriated $275,000.00 to try and stamp out the disease known as Chestnut Tree Blight. A commission was created by the authority of that act and has been at work ever since trying to stamp out the disease. As to what their success has been, some proof should be given to the members of this House before they are asked to extend the life of the Commission two years longer and subsequent to the extending of its life there will be another appropriation bill calling for an appropriation of $275,000.00 more, or a total of $550,000.00, as an experiment with the Chestnut Tree Blight. The members who are in favor of this measure argue that this is a system of quarantine necessary to save the chestnut timber of this Commonwealth, and they argue that it should be and is the duty of the owner of the chestnut timber to destroy that timber and take such precautionary measures as may be needed to prevent the spreading of the blight. In the case of tuberculosis among cattle, if certain animals are found to be diseased, the State pays a certain proportion of the value so that the loss is not entirely with the owner. In cases of smallpox or diphtheria were parties are quarantined, the expense of the quarantining and guarding of the same is not placed upon the persons having smallpox, but on the State at large. This bill should incorporate such provisions as would relieve the owner of the timber from paying the entire expense of destroying his timber, of cutting it down and burning it. Since I have been a member of this Legislature, I have received petitions from my county signed by between four hundred and five hundred taxpayers protesting against the manner in which the agents of the Chestnut Tree Blight Commission are operating in our county in asking the people to cut down the timber and burn it on the stump, and no timber can be marketed unless the diseased parts are taken out and the limbs burned on the stump. We have a market for that timber in our county in the mines, and there is no danger of any contamination there if we were so allowed to use it. I submit it to you as members of this House as a proposition whether it is right to ask the persons owning the timber to bear the expense of cutting it down and burning it when they are not allowed to take from it any part of it and market the timber and realize something on it. There are sections of forests in this State where the expense of cutting down the diseased trees and burning them in accordance with the directions of the Chestnut Tree Blight Commission would be in excess of the value of the land with the timber on it. In other words, there are large sections of chestnut timber land that are assessed for one or two dollars an acre that can be had for ten or fifteen dollars an acre, and the cost that would have to be borne by the people in our county in order to comply with the directions of that Commission would be probably between fifty and a hundred dollars per acre, to destroy that timber, so we are up against the proposition of not finding people in the near future who are willing to own chestnut tree land, from the fact that they would be called upon at any time to expend a large amount of money to destroy the timber. So far as eradicating this disease entirely as a working proposition is concerned, no doubt the members of this House will agree with me that it has not been shown conclusively up to this time that chestnut blight can be controlled, and I, for my part, am willing that a scientific investigation of the disease should be made, but when it means the expenditure of $550,000.00 to experiment it is a different question, and I think, for that reason, we should consider this question very carefully before we vote to extend the life of this Commission. As this bill now stands, with the amendments added by the Committee of the House, it practically enforced the old bill and gives the chestnut tree blight commission an extended life of two years longer. That is all that remains, that is the only change that is made by this bill. When it comes to eradicating the disease in a small tract of land, such as an orchard, it is a different question. But in our community we have chestnut timber land in one stretch which is at least forty miles in length and seven miles in width. It would take an army of men to go through that ground, and take out the diseased trees, if such trees are diseased. It would take an army of men to go through there and just take a glance at the different trees, and I think it is a proposition that is unreasonable. I think it is unreasonable that we should be called upon to expend so large a sum of money with no assurance at the present time that the disease can be eradicated. On the other hand, if the owners of that land are allowed to deal with the timber in their own way, they will be able to save some of the value of that timber, and the timber land will not be an entire loss to them. The Chestnut Tree Commission will answer that they will in every way possible endeavor to find a market for this timber, and that the timber after the diseased parts are cut out will be allowed to be sold. That is all right as far as it goes, but they require that the owner shall cut down the tree within ten or twenty days time and destroy the diseased parts, so it works a great hardship to the parties where the chestnut blight is found. There is another point for this Legislature to consider. We are told that revenue is needed to carry on the current expenses of our State. When we come to the proposition of taxing coal, as we did on a recent day in this session, as it leaves the mouth of the mine, which tax no doubt reverts to the poor man, and the taxpayer, when it is necessary to go to such extremes in order to raise sufficient revenue to carry on the current expenses of the State, then I think it is necessary that we should be very careful how we expend this money, and I think that we should cut out this unwise expenditure of the people's money to experiment along this line on a proposition that is doubtful in the extreme. They have practically given up this idea as hopeless in the eastern part of the State, and they are now trying to get rid of it in the western part. For this reason I think that it is a hopeless task and I am opposed to the bill. We should weight the matter carefully,, and you should act upon it as you find it in your community or in your section of the State. Weigh the matter carefully, and if you think it is good legislation to extend the life of this commission two years more and to expend $275,000.00 more, then vote for this measure, and do not let anyone I say influence you to vote against it. If you think it is a hopeless task, and an unwise expenditure of the people's money, then vote against the bill.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, last night when I asked to have this bill postponed, I was not aware of the contents of the bill. This measure merely extends the life of the Commission for two years. It carries no appropriation. I believe it is well that we should vote to extend this commission in order to permit them to try to control the disease, and then, afterwards, if you want to enlarge the amount of the appropriation, we can give these men ample power to cope with the disease. I do not see anything seriously wrong with the bill, nor do I think any harm can come from it. It simply perpetuates the life of the commission. When we come to the general appropriation bill we can take care of the particular subject of a further appropriation for the commission.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it is an easy matter to answer the question of the gentleman from Somerset, as to what this bill in its present shape comprises; it does only two things—it extends the life of the Chestnut Tree Blight Commission two years and it also gives the commission power to investigate other kinds of trees than chestnut trees in case it shall develope that this same disease has spread to trees of other species. This chestnut blight has been a veritable angel of death to the magnificent forests of chestnut trees which this State possesses and unless a line is drawn some place that disease in its inevitable progress will cover this whole State and from this State it will spread southward to the whole Appalachian chain of mountains and it will not stop until the Gulf of Mexico is reached and we ought to put ourselves into a position to check this mysterious disease. The United States government has recognized this fact and is co-operating substantially with this State; it has recognized the good that has been done by co-operation of investigation on the part of the officials of the United States government. We have tried this thing for two years with a large and substantial measure of success and the result that has been obtained has been gratifying. It has been discovered what the nature of the disease is but as yet, there has not been discovered an absolute cure except the simple act of the destruction of that part of the timber that is diseased. Evidently it is impossible with present facilities and under existing conditions to cover the timber that is affected—to cover so large an area and a large part of the State has no yet been touched, and might not be. But it is possible to draw a line and say to this disease "So far shalt thou go and no further," and that has been done. Now, of course along the line where the disease has been treated it bas been found necessary to destroy a considerable portion of the timber as without that it would be impossible to destroy the disease. It is necesary to destroy that part of the tree that is affected by the blight or cut the timber that is affected and the misfortune falls on the tree only because it is destroyed, just as the misfortune falls on a man when he has a disease that must be individually treated; but when the State advises him, the man who owns or is interested in those chestnut trees as to whom it is necessary to cut his trees, it will assist him. It will be helpful to him and it is helpful to him in giving him the best assistance and advice and will help him to secure special railroad rates and tell him what is the best way and when is the best time to cut the timber and so lessen this loss that has been brought upon him by this disease so that it shall be minimized to the greatest possible degree. The time will come when it will be necessary for the State of Pennsylvania to say "Hands up. We can do no more." But certain it is that we should not lie down now and allow the commission to lapse. This bill does not appropriate money; the money necessary will be appropriated in the General Appropriation bill. This bill simply gives the commission power to go along and indicate how to carry on this work and do it effectively. I think it ought to be done.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to state to the House that the gentlemen who are serving on this commission are serving without pay and without expense to the State. I want to say that it is the belief in this State that if the State of New Jersey and the State of New York when this blight made its first appearance in those states had pursued the course Pennsylvania is now pursuing, we would not be threatened with this scourge. This bill does not provide a dollar of revenue; it simply gives life to the commission whic his workin gor the love of the State of Pennsylvania and all the Appalachian chain of mountains.

Mr. WILLIAMS in the Chair.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. LOHR. Mr. Speaker, I call for the verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified,

Which was done as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of 11 o'clock having arrived, the special order of business for this hour, being the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 183, file folio 8227, will now be taken up

On the question,

Will the House dispense with the Committee of the Whole?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think the House ought not dispense with the Committee on the Whole on a bill of this importance. It is likely that some members will make more than one speech, at least I expect to hear from some members more than once, and I think we ought to go into the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. ALTER in the Chair.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, there has been some thought expressed by different members interested in this bill in relation to going into Committee of the Whole, and I understand that when we are in Committee of the Whole a roll call cannot be demanded. If we go along in the regular order we can demand a roll call upon any question, and in view of that I prefer, as sponsor of the bill, to go on in the regular order.

I move that we dispense with the Committee of the Whole.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 183, entitled:

An Act defining public service companies prescribing and defining the duties and liabilities of public service companies prescribing defining and limiting the powers of public service companies and regulating the creation of such companies establishing creating the establishing a public service commission for the supervision and regulation of public service companies prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such commission and its officers and providing for the salaries and compensation of the members of the commission its officers counsel and employees prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such commission and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders by the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin county and giving such court exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals and of all injunctions mandamus or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the commission and to restrain sch orders subject to an appeal from all decrees of said court to the Supreme Court prescribing penalties fines and imprisonment for the violation of such orders or of the provisions of this act and repealing the act approved May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and seven which provided for the appointment of a Railroad Commission and all other legislation inconsistent with this act and making it the duty of the Public Service Commission to enforce the provisions of the act of June nineteenth one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers to properly man their trains"

Mr. WILLIAMS in the Chair.

The first section of Article One of the bill was read as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Article II, Section 1, line 7. Strike out the word "employes" and insert in lieu thereof the word "employees."

Article II, Section 1, line 39. Strike out the word "ditsribution" and insert the word "distribution."

Article II, Section 1, line 74. After the word "provisions" insert the words "of this act or shall particapate in any such tariff or schedule."

Article II, Section 1, line 98. Strike out "incease" and insert the word "increase."

Article II, Section 1, line 130. Strike out "acounts" and insert the word "accounts."

Article II, Section 1, line 142. Strike out "valuation" and insert the word "valuation."

Article II, Section 1, line 234. Strike out "compensaion" and insert the word "compensation."

Article II, Section 1, line 241. Before the first word "and" insert the words "or incline plane corporation."

Article II, Section 1, line 243. After "tions" insert "or incline corporations."

Article II, Section 1, line 290. Strike the "corporaton" and insert the word "corporation."

Article II, Section 1, line 306. Strike out "corporatoin" and insert the word "corporation."

Article II, Section 1, line 313. Strike out the word "in" and insert the word "upon."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read as follows:

Page 12. Amend Article 2, Section 1, sub-division (q) by striking out from and including the words "and by the most" on line 200 to and including the word "require" on line 204.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. The provision requiring shipments to be made by direct route unless another route is designated by the shipper, would render useless the millions of dollars which have been expended in the State of Pennsylvania in the construction of relief freight lines for the purpose of taking freight trains away from the passenger trains and thus removing a constant source of danger. In the majority of these cases the relief line so constructed is longer than the passenger line. Under the provision of the bill, the Railroad Companies would be obliged to send all freight by their passenger lines which would result in hopeless congestion on those lines. Example: The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has three routes out of Harrisburg to the East. Under this provision of the bill only one route would be used for freight, namely, the one at present over which passengers are carried. This would result in the hopeless blocking of this route within less than twenty-four hours.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Blair, (Mr. Irwin).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Blair, in the amendment provided, whether it would not only apply to freight but also apply to passengers; whether or not there is not a provision in the bill as it now stands without unreasonable interruption for delay. Does that cover your objection?

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. I do not know who would be the judge of the unreasonable interruption and delay.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I asked whether or not that does not meet with the objection that he has to this section, and whether the amendment is not in itself doing more harm than good?

Mr. GEORGE C. IRWIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe the bill at present is in the best shape. I do not see where the amendment can do any harm.

Another thing. Mr. Speaker, the commission should not be given the power to prescribe the time of transit for shipments. Time in transit varies day to day according to operating conditions and the amount of traffic, interruption due to storms, etc. Under the bill a violation of the order of the Commission is made a criminal offence. Therefore, if a storm or congestion would interfere with the shipments making the movement prescribed by the order of the commission, the officers of the company under this provision would be guilty of a criminal violation of the law.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

Mr CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Page 14 of Bill: Amend Article 2. Section 1, sub-division (s1) by striking out the entire sub-division, and inserting in lieu thereof the following (being part of Section 3, Interstate Commerce Act):

(s) If a railroad company to afford all reasonable proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic with other railroad companies and for the receiving forwarding and delivering of passengers and property to and from their several lines and those connecting therewith but this shall not be construed as requiring any such railroad company to give the use of its tracks or terminal facilities to another common carrier."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, this amendment is a draft of the Interstate Commerce Act. It allows the general supervision and management of its terminals and to afford the facilities necessary for the regular and proper operation, but it does not reserve the right to the companies or it rather prohibits other common carriers from using the rails and tracks of the company that has built the terminal. In other words, any company would be able under the operations of this bill and its provisions to have the same interest in that terminal as the company that built it. It would necessarily discourage the building of terminals and consequently I believe, would not work to the benefit of the public generally. This amendment is in the exact words of the Interstate Commerce Act and I believe would be in harmony with the bill generally.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

On page 17 amend Article II, Section 1, line 337, by adding at the end thereof "Section Z. When the Commission shall find that the public interest demands and shall so order, to render in accordance with the provisions of this act, any service it may have power to furnish although the exercise of such power may be optional with said company.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this amendment is to place in the hands of the Commission the power to require the corporation to use all the powers that it has under its charter to serve the public interests rather than allowing the company itself or corporation to say whether or not they will use it, having it optional with them.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the proposed amendment is entirely unnecessary, that the provisions of this act cover the matter in this amendment, or the matter which is sought to be amended. While, perhaps, it may not do any harm, it simply lumbers up the bill and makes it more trouble to digest.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that paragraph "Y" to which this provision is added seems to cover practically everything. Even if it does, the addition of what has been suggested is only empathic and certainly takes away nothing from section "Y" which reads as follows:

"To observe and obey all and singular the lawful orders and regulations which may be issued or made by the Commission in the exercise of the powers conferred upon it by this act."

That is the power delegated to it by its corporate rights, although the exercise of such power may be optional with said company. Now, how frequently, Mr. Speaker, do you find that a public service corporation will ask in order to fool the public, will ask for everything in their charter They will ask for all the rights that can be conferred, but when the exercise of those rights are optional with that company, how often do they put them in operation unless they are money-getters. Now, the purpose of this amendment is simply this: to leave in the hands of this Commission, or rather to place in the hands of this commission the power to tell that corporation to what limits it shall go for inasmuch as you have been chartered to serve the public in a particular way and are not doing it, we, as the Commission, say the power having been conferred upon you, and the public demanding and requiring it, you shall serve them in that way. It takes away from the corporate interests the optional power, and places the prerogative in the hands of the Commission to dictate. That is what this means. If you want to serve the public interests you are for the amendment, and if you don't, you want to let it stand as it is.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

On page 8, article 2, section 1, paragraph g, in lines 92 and 93 amend by striking out the words "within a period of three years after such determination."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of the amendment is simply this: that under the provisions of the bill as it is drawn, such regulations and conditions and changes as are suggested by the corporation must be made, in order to be acted upon within three years from the time that this act goes into effect. By striking out the three-year period, the same authority which the Commission has to grant, to-wit, the approval or these rights becomes operative at any time and not within a three-year period but eternally as long as time lasts, and the amendment ought to stand.

The question recurring,

Will the House agreed to the amendment?

The SPEAKER announced that the Noes appeared to have it.

Whereupon,

A division was called for.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the call for a division, and call for a yea and nay vote.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I second the call for a yea and nay vote.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as the gentleman has called for the yeas and nays, I desire to say a few words in explanation in relation to the proposed amendment. It seems to me that the gentleman has misconstrued the purposes of this section. The Interstate Commerce law has a section in it in relation to this same subject, and the limit in that law is two years. At the request of the people interested in this, and you will see the change if you look at page eight, the change was made from two to three years to make it a more reasonable and workable act, and the amendment offered would certainly cripple this bill and make its purposes ineffective.

Mr. ALLEN. How?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it would in this respect: if the company had made a change in pursuance to an order of the Commission, they could immediately go out and make another change after the Commission had fixed the change prescribed and this limit of three years was put in so that they could not make this application at all times, and keep the matter stirred up. The amendment should not go in.

The question recurring,

Will the House agreed to the amendment?

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, decline to vote on this amendment or any other amendments that may be offered to the Public Utilities bill and my reasons for that at this time shall also apply to the bill on third reading and final passage and I ask that the reasons be read at the conclusion of the roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. RICHARDS, and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The reasons of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shern, for not voting on the Public Utilities Bill will now be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the reasons as follows:

MR. SHERN'S REASON FOR NOT VOTING ON HOUSE BILL NO. 183.

Daniel J. Shern declines to vote on House Bill No. 183, known as the Public Utilities Bill, under the provisions of the Constitution, Article III, Sec. 33, which provides that a member of the General Assembly shall not vote on any bill proposed or pending wherein he has a personal or private interest.

At the present time, I am counsel for the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, a public service corporation of Philadelphia, affected by the provisions of this bill, and I, therefore, feel that I am bound by the provisions of the Constitution to make this fact known to the House.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment on page 14, article 2, section one, paragraph S., line 238.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend article 2, section one, paragraph S, line 238, by striking out the words "part of the system of the said street railway corporation or inclined plane corporation" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "street railway or inclined plane or between different parts of any street railway system."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think the House will readily grasp the idea that is attempted to be embodied in the bill by this amendment. Under the section as it stands relating to transfers for a street railway corporation or inclined plane corporation whenever the commission deems it appropriate for the accommodation of passengers or for their safety or for the public convenience, for passengers to transfer such passengers to or from, as the bill reads "another part of the system of the said street railway corporation or inclined plane corporation, etc." Now, the provisions of the bill as originally prepared, that lies before you, simply provides for the transfer from one part of the system of the street railway to another part of the same system of the street railway. Now, that then dwindles down to this: That where in a city or in a town there may be two systems of railways crossing each other or meeting at a certain common point where a transfer would be a great accommodation to the public to reach certain other points of transfer, unless it may be another route reach the same point. Under the provisions of this bill by the injection of the amendment by striking out the "part of the system" and inserting in lieu thereof the amendment as prepared, it will then read as follows, "commencing at transfer; "transfer such passenger to or from another street railway or inclined plane or between different parts of any street railway system." Now, by doing that then if there be two or more systems, which meet at a common point, the commission has the right to say to the people who run these systems. "You shall transfer your passengers at this point for the passenger's convenience to reach another point on your system or within a certain fare radius." It is only fair and no one can take exceptions to that provision.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, certainly.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if this amendment would not compel one street railway company, an entirely independent corporation, to transfer its passengers to another entirely independent street railway company without any charge?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, there is nothing said in relation to the charge. That would be a matter for the two companies to work out by a contractual working relation existing between the two companies. They might make a contract to carry each other's passengers from such point where there is no exchange. They may say "For every transfer you make, we will pay you two cents and for every one we make, we will reimburse you two cents," and then they go to a clearing house, so to speak, and balance their accounts. It is all subject, if you please, to the supervision of the commission which is appointed under the supervision of this bill and no doubt would be worked out equitably with two or more systems which may be involved.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman misconstrues the purpose of this section and the meaning of the word "transfer." The meaning of the word "transfer" involves as a remedy a free transfer; if I have to pay a five cent fare on one branch of a certain system and my transfer being without extra charge to another branch to reach my destination on the same system. It involves one fare with a transfer. If the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny would go in, it would work a hardship upon the street railway corporation. It is really not intended to work a hardship; it is intended to give the public the best reasonable possible service that can be worked out in this respect. I wish to make a little explanation. This bill is what might truly be called a compromise bill. There were three bills along the public service line introduced into the House; one by the gentleman from Crawford, one by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, and another one in the Senate. After a number of conferences the proposition was on which one we could get together and get a suitable bill that could be supported by all parties interested, and this bill was the result. In pursuance of this effort, a joint committee of the Senate and the House met or was created and met with that purpose in view—of trying to agree upon a bill which could be adopted by the House and taken before the Senate and passed without all the fighting and bickerings that sometimes come up on a bill of this character. After the creation of this joint committee of the Senate and the House, four public meetings were held and in addition to that, three or four executive meetings were held and this bill which bears my name as sponsor, although I did not draft it, was taken as a basis. It was thought that the best features of the other bills were taken out and that it was the intention to insert them into this bill. Thus making a compromise bill which would meet the best wishes of all the people interested in a public service corporation. Now, probably every one of the amendments that have been offered so far and I think I may safely say all that will be offered in this second reading here, have been offered before the committee; some of them once, and some of them twice and some of them three times, and have been considered formally by the Committee and some of them have been rejected and some of them have been modified. This section, upon which we are now acting, was changed to meet the wishes of certain interests of the City of Pittsburgh. It was believed by the Committee that the section was then just as they wanted it. Now, if we go to adopting this amendment which the gentleman offers, it seems to me as I have said, that we are going to defeat one of the very purposes that is sought to be met by this public service bill.

This provision provides for free transfers between sections of the same companies. The amendment would provide for free transfers between different companies and would work a hardship on the companies, and that is not sought by the purpose of this bill, and I trust this amendment will not be adopted.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say one word in reply to the gentleman from Tioga, inasmuch as he seems to have involved me or the bill for which I stand sponsor in the question of a compromise between the bills. I want to deny that this bill is a compromise of the three bills, and I want to deny that the persons representing all three bills were considered in the drafting of this bill, and to say that it is merely a compromise of the sponsors of two of the bills.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if I misrepresented the gentlemen in anything I said about his being interested in any compromise or [illegible] withdraw it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding all that has been said by the gentleman on the other side of the House, who seems to speak, or rather echo, from a department of this State as he is now surrounded, I must say to the members of this House that the matter now under consideration is one of the most important that is embodied in this bill. We from the City of Pittsburgh know from hearsay what a transfer is—from hearsay, I say—we know what a transfer means, and I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman will not echo an answer otner than that the commission has the right to establish between any two or three or more companies that may be concerned, what concessions may be made by each to the other, in order to carry out the purposes of this bill. We are members of this House are not saying whether it shall be the full fare turned over, four cents or 80 per cent. of it, three cents or 60 per cent. of it two cents or 40 per cent. of it one cent or 20 per cent. of it or any other amount. We are not saying that, but we are simply saying by this amendment that the people who pay their fare when they go upon a car, when they reach a point that they desire to take another line, shall have a transfer. Now, we do not say by this bill that they shall pay five cents originally and ride till eternity or till doomsday. That is in the wisdom of the commission and rests in their hands. The whole thing is very easy, Mr. Speaker, if you please, but we do say that when there is one system, or when there are two systems, or when there are three systems, or half a dozen systems, and it takes that many systems, the entire lot, if you please, for the passenger to reach his destination under the fare that he pays from his house to the point which he expects to reach, he shall pay his fare, and when he reaches the common point at which he wants a transfer he shall receive a transfer. That is what it does and that is what it means and I ask the support of the House on that proposition.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROCKWELL and Mr. R. J. BALDWIN and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I call the Chair's attention to rule 39 of this House, which provides that none but members of the Senate, their officers, the Governor and heads of State Departments, judges of the courts of this Commonwealth, former members of the Legislature when introduced by a member of the present House, and others who may be specially introduced by a member, by permission of the Speaker, shall be permitted to come upon the floor of the House during its session; and no person not a member of the Legislature, shall be permitted to come upon the floor of the House, or sit in any seats appropriated for the members, or interrupt a member by speaking to him in his seat, while the House is in session; and it shall be the duty of the sergeant-at-arms or doorkeeper to give notice to any person offending against this rule.

Mr. Speaker, this rule has been in operation since this House convened and the rules were adopted, and I ask for its enforcement at this time, and the reason that I do that, Mr. Speaker, is simply this: Those gentlemen to whom I object at this time sitting where they do and conferring as they do and acting as they do in relation to matters to which this House is giving its attention, have already had their say fully before the Committee, which has deeply and thoroughly considered this bill and I feel that it is an injustice to us member who have not had the advisory capacity of that Committee or of those gentlemen, or of anybody else, and who have acted upon this bill solely as their reason and conscience dictates, to have them or anybody else that is not a member of this House dealing in the purposes and processes by which this bill is being perfected.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I assume that this question of personal privilege is aimed at the Honorable Attorney General of Pennsylvania.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, so that the gentleman may not be mistaken, it is to him and to his assistants.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I stated a few moments ago, while this bill bears my name, I am not the drafter of the bill. Two years ago a bill was gotten up, known as the Public Service Corporations and introduced in this House and sponsored by the gentleman from Allegheny, our present Speaker. The bill of two years ago was drafted by the same party who drafted this bill. The bill was given to me to introduce and Mr. Speaker I will fairly and frankly state that I do not understand all the provisions of this bill, and I think I am not out of place when I state that there is not a member in the House who will get upon the floor and say that he does.

Mr. Speaker, it was at my personal request that the Attorney General sits in the hall of this House, and when amendments or propositions come up that need explanation, if I could get any light from him, in view of his immense time and study he has put upon this proposition, that I could get it and explain the purposes of this bill to this House. I do not believe that in view of the way that this House has been handled the whole session, when time after time the whole audience room has been filled and the aisles packed so that the members could not get through, that it is the proper time now to call this rule particularly into order, and Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of this rule for the purpose of considering this bill.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I doubt the wisdom of the suspension of the rule, but I do move as a matter of consideration to the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, that the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, be given permission to sit beside the gentleman from Tioga during the consideration of this bill.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am perfectly willing that the gentleman shall be allowed to sit by Mr. Rockwell. during the process of working out this bill, but I do not think it is fair to the members of this House that he be seated where the members of this House are seated. If Mr. Rockwell sees fit to withdraw himself to a place where other visitors are assigned, I am perfectly in harmony with that thought—

Cries of "No, No."

Mr. ALLEN.——I will be heard——but I do not think that it is right for the suggestions which the gentleman gives to Mr. Rockwell, either in relation to argument or any other matter in connection with this bill, that it shall be within a radius whereby other members may be influenced. If they are at a point at which they can confer I am perfectly willing that Mr. Rockwell shall be advised from any source whatever.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion in favor of the suggestion of the gentleman from Allegheny, that the Attorney General be given permission to sit by me in the House in an advisory capacity.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, that is not the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny. It was that he was given permission to sit beside the sponsor of this bill. There is no privilege given to the Attorney General to come upon the floor other than such privilege of sitting by the sponsor.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not mean to sit on the floor of the House other than as covered by the motion of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Alter.

On the question recurring?
Will the House agree to the motion?
It was agreed to.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendment.

The amendment as read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend article 11, section 1, sub-section F, line 74, on page 8, by inserting after the word "provisions," the following "of this act or shall participate in any such tariff or schedule."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in explanation of the amendment, I simply want to say that these words are to be inserted where they were left out in the printing of the bill. It simply makes the reading of that proviso clear, that is all. It is not plain the way it reads.

On the question recurring?
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendment.

The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

On page 14, line 241, article 11, section 1, sub-section S, amend by inserting before the first word "and" the words "or inclined plan corporation."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Line 243, amend by inserting after the first letters in the line "tions" the words "or inclined plane corporation."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.

Mr. LENKER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment at this time.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend article 11, section 1, sub-section T, lines 273 and 274, on page 15, by striking out the word "Commismission" and inserting the word "Commission."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to Article II as amended?
It was agreed to.

The first section of Article III, was then read and agreed to as follows:

ARTICLE III

Creation Power and Limitation of Powers of Public Service Companies

Section 1 It shall be lawful for every public service company

(a) To demand collect and receive fair just and reasonable prices rates fares tolls charges or other compensation for each and every public service rendered or to be rendered by it to any person or corporation or to any other public service company with whom it interchanges facilities and services

To establish a sliding scale of rates fares or charges provided that a schedule showing such scale of rates fares or charges shall first have been filed with the Commission and approved by it

To establish with the consent of the Commission a scale of charges subject to automatic adjustment in relation to the dividends to be paid to the stockholders of such public service company or the profit to be realized by any person engaged in like business

To participate to such an extent as may be permitted by the Commission and deemed by the Commission wise for the purpose of encouraging economies effciencies or improvements in methods or service in the additional profits which will be afforded by such economies effciencies or improvements in methods or service

(b) To employ in the conduct and management of its business suitable and reasonable classifications of its service patrons and rates and such classification may in any proper case take into account the nature of the use and quantity used the time when used the purpose for which used the kind bulk value and facility of handling of commodities and any other reasonable consideration

(c) To have reasonable rules and regulations subject to eisting law and the provisions of this act governing the conduct of its business and the conditions under which it shall be required to render services

It may require the payment of charges in advance the making of reasonable minimum payments and deposits to secure future payments of such charges or it may allow discounts for prompt payments of the same or impose penalties for failure to pay promptly provided that such advance charges minimum payments deposits discounts or penalties are reasonable and apply equally and without discrimination or preference to all shippers consumers and patrons under like conditions and under similar circumstances

(d) To apply to the Commission by complaint in the manner hereinafter provided in this act whenever such company claims to be aggrieved by any ruling regulation classification or order which it is or has been required by the Commission to observe or carry into effect and thereupon such public service company shall be entitled to a full and fair hearing and a speedy determination of its complaint on the merits by the Commission and to all just and reasonable relief consistent with the rights and duties of such public service company

(e) Whenever any owner of property transported by any common carrier or any user or patron of any other public service company renders directly or indirectly any service connected with such transportation or other public service the charge and allowance therefor shall be no more than is just and reasonable and the Commission may after hearing on its own motion or upon complaint determine what is a reasonable charge as a maximum to be paid by the carrier or other public service company for the use of the service so furnished or rendered and what is a proper proportion of the said cost and fix the same by appropriate order to be observed and enforced by the parties concerned

Section 2 of Article 3 was read as follows:

Section 2 Upon the approval of the Commission evidenced by its Certificate of Public Convenience first had and obtained and not otherwise it shall be lawful for any proposed public service company

(a) To be incorporated organized or created provided that existing laws relative to the incorporation organization and creation of such companies shall first have been complied with prior to the application to the commission for its "Certificate of Public Convenience"

(b) To begin the exercise of any right power franchise or privilege under and ordinance municipal contract or otherwise

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

On page 20, amend article 3, section 2, by striking out all of section 2.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of section 2. as I read this bill, is that all companies organized or created must be done by or with the approval of this Commission.

and that is the sole purpose of Section 2. The amendment which would strike out this provision simply leaves the matter in this way: the law as already standing on our statute books provides how corporations shall be formed. Under the provisions of Section 2, and Section 3, which follows, even if a municipality were to seek to obtain its own ownership over public service corporations they would have to have the consent and approval of this Commission in order to do so. By striking out the entire section, which is the proposed amendment I have offered, it would leave the right of municipalities whether they be great or small, to create and bring into being and establish under the law as now provided any public service corporation without the approbation of this Commission. That is all there is to it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The third section of Article 3 was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 3 Upon like approval of the Commission first had and obtained as aforesaid and upon compliance with existing laws and not otherwise it shall be lawful

(a) For any public service company to renew its charter or obtain any additional rights powers franchises or privileges by any amendment or supplement to its charter or otherwise

The provisions in this act contained in regard to Certificates of Notification and Certificates of Valuation shall not apply to the issuance of bonds notes or evidences of indebtedness payable at periods of twelve months or less nor to the pledging or depledging of stocks trust certificates bonds or other evidences of indebtedness to secure such bonds notes or evidences of indebtedness payable at periods of twelve months or less but if such bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness shall in whole or in part directly or indirectly be refunded by any issue of bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness running for more than twelve months then the said mentioned provisions with regard to Certificates of Notification and Valuation shall apply

Neither the filing with the Commision of any Certificate of Notification nor the issuing by the Commission of any Certificate of Public Convenience or Certificate of Valuation and nothing therein or in this act contained nor any hearing had nor finding nor order nor decree made by the Commission nor any act or thing done by any public service Company in pursuance thereof nor any act or thing done by the Commission under the provisions of this act shall in any wise affect the validity or invalidity of any stocks trust certificates bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities issued prior to the approval of this act or other securities issued prior to the date when this act shall become affected by a public service company

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer amendments to the section.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend House Bill No. 183, file folio 8227, article 3, section 4, by striking out all of the section and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Section 4: No public service company as herein defined shall hereafter issue any stocks, stock certificates, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness until it shall have first obtained authority from the Commission for such proposed issue, excepting obligations maturing in more than one year from date, and issued for cash in the ordinary course of business of such public service company. No stocks, stock certificates, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness shall be issued by any public service company orgainzed under the provisions of an Act of Assembly approved the eighth day of April, A. D. 1861, entitled "An Act concerning the sale of railroads, canals, turnpikes, bridges and plank roads," or any supplement thereto, until it shall have first obtained authority from the Commission for such issue."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, this is the amendment that is aimed at watered stock, and the purposes of this amendment is to require public service companies to first secure the consent of the Commission before they can issue stocks and bonds. It is a proposition that is a part of every public utilities commission law in existence in this country. Under the bill as drafted it is only necessary that the public utilities company shall notify the Commission of the issues of stocks and bonds, and there is no power vested in the Commission by which it can adequately see that no watered stocks are issued. If we are to create a Commission, we must assume that it will be a competent Commission, and it will be the duty of that Commission to protect the public. In protecting the public it will be necessary for them to fix rates, and in order to fix rates they must, in order to prevent the confiscation of property in the fixing of rates, be in a position to know just what proper rates, from the standpoint of the Public Utilities Commission, are, and they must know just what rates the public is entitled to, and the two propositions are inseparably connected and without this provision the hands of the Commission are tied; without this provision, in addition to the difficulty in the matter of fixing rates, we have left the public service companies of this State free to loot and plunder the public in the sale of fraudulent or watered stocks and bonds. I believe that this bill without this provision will be without one, and the one most meritorious feature contained in every public utility law in this country. The provisions of this bill, as it comes here, are absolutely an experiment, never incorporated in any law nor never tried out in any State. It strikes me that we might better profit by the very efficient and profitable experience of other States than to undertake to branch out in a new and untried field. That is just what this bill will do unless this amendment is incorporated, and Mr. Speaker, when this amendment comes before the House, I demand the yeas and nays.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as has been stated by the gentleman from Crawford, this is a vital clause and section in this bill. In some of the drafts of the public service bills it was thought by able men who drafted them that no provision at all should be embodied in the bill in relation to the issuing of stocks and bonds. Why? Because the primary aim of a public service bill is to regualte rates and public facilities to the benefit of the people. Others thought that such regulation should be put in. In the bill drafted two years ago, which passed this House almost unanimously, I think the section as read and proposed to be inserted in lieu of Section 4 here was in the public service bill. It is a section that is practically the same as in the Wisconsin Public Utilities Bill, the New York State Bill and the New Jersey Bill, but experience has taught those who have investigated this proposition that the working out of that drastic clause is bad. The amendment offered by the gentleman from Crawford makes an ironclad rule that no public service corporation can issue any stocks or bonds or other evidence of indebtedness running over a period of one year without first applying to the Commission and getting its permit. If we adopted such an ironclad rule as that, you are hampering capital and you are tying up corporations to such an extent that it will cripple them to a great degree. I understand the experience of some of the States where this provision, as suggested by this amendment, is in force, that the Commission, instead of followning out the real purposes of the bill which created them, are compelled to spend fifty per cent. or more of of their time in going into the financial conditions of all companies that applied to them for a permit to issue stocks and bonds or other evidences of indebtedness. In one instance, it was cited before the Committee of an application for a certain street railway company in the City of Buffalo that it took the New York State Commission practically a year, and at an expense of from seventy to one hundred thousand dollars to first ascertain the condition of that company before it could approve the issuance of those stocks and bonds. Now, gentlemen, I do not want to tire you, but I wish to explain the provisions of the bill as it now stands. If I can, in a few words, I want to state the two propositions again. The first one is that if a public service corporation desires to make an extension, or desires to change its financial plan or something of that kind in a case of emergency arising, the bill provides that it can notify the Commission, and this notification we call in the bill, a certificate of notification. This certificate of notification shall contain the purposes for which the new stocks and bonds are to be issued, and the total amount thereof outstanding prior to the date of such certificate, the number and amount thereof to be issued and the purposes for which they are issued, the number and amount tereof remaining unissued, and if the issue of shares of stock, the certificate shall also show the par value thereof and the number of then outstanding shares previously issued.

Now, gentlemen, without going further, these certificates of notification provide a complete set of restrictions around the issuing of these stocks and bonds and other evidences of indebtedness which is a protection to the public; and the bill provides that it shall be followed up by a sworn statement of the officers of the company that it is true in every particular. And it is followed up further by a provision that if any officer or director of the company shall make a false statement, upon conviction thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, the penalty being a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or to undergo an imprisonment for a term of years not to exceed five, or both, or either, at the discretion of the Court.

That provision is an emergency provision so as not to hamper the public service corporations and tie them up, so that they cannot introduce new branches or do their business in a proper manner. This section, as I have outlined it, is known as the Hadley section. The history is this: That in the working out of the United States inter-state commerce law, it was found that something was needed to provide for the proper regulation for the issuing of stocks and bonds of these public service corporations. The matter was investigated and it was then decided what to do. I think the President of the United States sent a special message to Congress asking for the appointing of a commission to investigate this matter. In pursuance of that message, a commission was created known as the Hadley Commission. This commission I believe was composed of seven men who spent a number of months investigating this proposition and held some thirty public meetings in United States investigating the work and thought in several states who have public service laws and then went to Europe investigating the methods in foreign countries, including England and Germany and I believe some others and this commission reported back to Congress this plan of notification which is know as the Hadley Plan to those who have studied this proposition. They think, and I believe, that it is a good idea and one far better than the iron clad rules which the gentleman from Crawford has offered. This commission considered the proposition as embodied in the iron clad rule and also this proposition as embodied in this bill. In a further section of this bill there is another clause, a companion clause which provides that if any public service company is in a hurry or is in need of urgency to get its stocks and bonds out to meet the money market or to meet the advancement of new propositions of public service corporations, they can come and apply to the public service commission for a certificate and the commission investigates and if they find that the proposed issuance of new stocks and bonds are appropriate they will act at once. There you have the two systems in combination working in harmony. Thus, if in the first instance, it is necessary to finance a new proposition a corporation can by filing this notification issue its stock and if any statement is untrue the officers and directors can be prosecuted and fined and put behind prison bars. It is deemed that this drastic protection is amply sufficient to protect the public. It is further believed that if this plan goes through that we will have two classes of certificates; one which the corporation applies directly to the commission and one which is issued upon a notification blank. If you or I go to a stock broker and ask for the quotation on this class of stock, he will show you two kinds. He will ask you which one will you prefer? We may ask him "Is this one approved by the commission?" "Yes this one is approved but the other one is not; the one is issued by the notification plan; the other is on the certificate of the commission." We will probably say "I will take the one that has the approval of the commission." That then makes it clear that you will have two classes of security. It is the belief and the firm belief that in time all will come under this proposed plan after they have taken care of these—in cases of emergency in order to get the approval of the commission and the result will be as proposed by this amendment that you will not hamper the corporation and tie them up so that they cannot advance their interests for the benefit of the people. It is hard to speak and make myself plain and I trust that I have explained in as few words as possible what I intended to bring before you and if there are any questions that any one desires to ask, I will endeavor to answer them. I believe the provisions of the bill has written it in every proper clause and the amendments should not be adopted.

RECESS.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now take a recess untill 2:30 o'clock.

The SPEAKER. The hour of one o'clock having arrived the House will take a recess until 2:30 o'clock.

AFTER RECESS.

The House reconvened at 2:30 o'clock P. M.

Mr. WILLIAMS in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. When the House took a recess it had under consideration the amendment offered by the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, to section four of Article III on page 21.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the amendment that was offered by the gentleman from Crawford is positively the most important amendment that will be offered to this bill. That amendment is for the purpose of preventing the sale of watered stock. There were three bills, Mr. Speaker, that were submitted to this Legislature known as the public utilities bills. One is the administration bill; one is the bill that was drafted by the committee headed by Dr. Lewis of the University of Pennsylvania, presented by Mr. Scott, of Philadelphia; and the third bill was offered by Mr. Humes, of Crawford. In one of those bills, that drafted by the Dean of the University, had no provision whatever for the supervision of the issuing of stocks and bonds, the contention of the sponsor of that bill being that the public utilities commission should have no concern, so far as the issue of stocks and bonds was concerned. The bill that was presented by the gentleman from Crawford provided the same as he now provides in the amendment he offers today, It is the supervision of stocks and bonds, together with the duties of supervising service and rates. The bill that has been offered by the administration is a sort of a middle-of-the-road bill between those two positions; and while that bill provides for the supervision of service and rates and makes a pretence at the supervision of stocks and bonds, it does in a manner leave open the door so far as the issuing of fictitious, valueless stocks is concerned and is no protection whatever. Mr. Speaker, those who advocate a utilities bill who say that the question of rates is alone the question or the bill, is alone the duty of the Legislature, take a most ridiculous position. Their contention practically is that while the public should be protected against a dishonest rate, it should not be protected against the dishonesty that arises from the sale of watered stock. What a ridiculous position for legislation to say that only a slight part of the money of the public is to be protected from the ravages of the dishonest, and the large bulk that is evidenced by the purchase of watered stock should not be protected. The bill as offered by the administration and the bill that was offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott, will allow the issuance of watered stock in the continuation of the evil that for years has been round about us.

Take for instance, Mr. Speaker, a small company purchasing a water fall, establishing its power house, establish ing its line and supplying to nearby towns electricity. Say that that utilities actually cost in the labor, in the construction, a half million dollars. There is nothing in this bill to prevent that company from sending its certificate of notification to the Utilities Commission setting forth their valuation at a million dollars, and then, after having sent that notification or communication to the Commission, to issue and sell those mulion dollars of stock to the various citizens or patrons or customers or people round about the community; and then, after that five hundred thousand dollars of dishonest money had been placed in the pocket of the promoters, then it, Mr. Speaker, that the Commission comes forward and either puts its stamp of approval or stamp of disapproval upon that issue of stock. But what protection is it to the people, after the stock has been sold, after the people have been plundered, after their money has been taken from them, what answer is it to them to have the Utilities Commission then find that the actual value of that company was but a half million dollars? The answer to that, by those who advocate the administration bill, is that there is a penalty of five years imprisonment upon the one who gives a false notification, the one who knowingly gives the false information. But, Mr. Speaker, what is that? What protection is that? What protection is that to the widow who has placed her money in that stock. What protection is that to any citizens who has placed his fortune in that stock, and based on the honesty of the stock to say that the criminal can be sent on to prison? Mr. Speaker, the administration bill is but a subterfuge in that respect. But what have we here with this amendment? If this amendment prevails, no such conduct could take place. The five hundred thousand dollar company would have to be capitalized at five hundred thousand dollars, because, before a dollar's worth of stock could be issued, there would have to be the stamp of that Commission, its approval placed upon the issue of that stock. Now we have been met by many reasons why this approval should not prevail. Some tell us that the approval of the stock makes the Commonwealth a guarantor. That is nonsense. That approval merely means that the Commission has investigated and found that value actually exists. We are met with the other suggestion that the Commission would be inefficient or would be venal and therefore the work that ought to be in the hands of the Board of Directors would be placed in the hands of a Commission which would do the work either without proper efficiency or do it venally. Mr. Speaker, if that is so, then legislation for public utility is a failure, then this whole legislation should be stricken down. But the people do not believe it. The people believe in the public utility commission. It has been tried in other states. It is legislation that is advance legislation, and that argument does not meet with the approval here by the people. They are now suggesting by their administration bill this present system, this mere subterfuge, and this mere loop hole that means the loss of some of the people's money. This means that it allows the stealing of the people's money by the watered stock to continue. They advance that on the theory that it is beneficial to the corporation and beneficial to the people and they tell us that the other States that have had the utility bill have found the present system as advanced and offered by this amendment to be a failure. Mr. Speaker, there are four or five States in the Union that have the Utility Bill, that have the stock supervision provision in it and not one of them do we hear by legislation has changed that condition. We do not hear a complaint from the head of the government. We do not hear a complaint from the Legislature. We do not hear a complaint from the people. But who do we hear a complaint from? We hear a complaint from the political financier who has made his great wealth on public utilities by the sale of watered stock. We hear no other complaint. We hear no other request. What do they advance us here? They advance what they call the Hadley system. A system that has been advocated by the Hadley Commission, advocated for federal law, advocated 18 months ago, but we have yet to hear of the Federal Legislature either passing or attempting to pass any law that is covered by this Hadley system. Then why, Mr. Speaker, are we to accept this experiment. Why are we to accept this bill. Why are we to change from our position of last session. Why, Mr. Speaker, they tell us that we should have no control of stock; that we should merely listen to the complaints so far as the rates are concerned; but that rates should be based on actual value and not based upon the issue of stock. Take the illustration that I made but a moment ago, of the five hundred thousand dollar company that had been improperly capitalized for one million dollars, and say that the rate was established that would make a return on one million dollars. It would be an honest company if the rate was established upon an amount that would pay the carrying charges and an amount that would make a return of six per cent. upon five hundred thousand dollars. But if the rate has been fixed so as to make a return upon one million dollars, then that is a dishonest rate. Say, Mr. Speaker, that after that stock has been issued, after that rate has been established, when the people's money has gone into the pockets of the promoters, that the Commission discover that the rates were based upon a fictitious valuation and they cut the rate, who suffers? Is it the promoter with his five hundred thousand dollars of ill gotten wealth in his pocket, or is it rather the self-same public who have been looted of their five hundred thousand dollars? They are the ones who feel the operation, the stockholders of the company feel the pressure of the reducing of that rate. Why, Mr. Speaker, to say that stock has nothing to do with fixing the rates, as an answer to this question,—that has no logic upon it.

But, Mr. Speaker, there is much behind the opposition to this amendment. We have seen the great force that opposes this amendment. Not only, Mr. Speaker, do we see it now in this Legislature, not only have we seen evidence of it in the subsidized press and in the editorial column; not only have we seen it with the great power that is pressed on the various members of this House; but we saw it last session. Mr. Speaker, when the Governor of this Commonwealth and his brilliant Attorney General stood strongly before the people and advocated a public utilities bill with a provision in it that this very amendment calls for. We saw that same power that today is pressing against this amendment come up and trouble that Governor and take from that Attorney General his ambition to bring before the Legislature and pass into a law a utilities bill that would serve the people and be a monument for the administration. Nay, we saw more than that: We saw those same corporate powers come forth and actually destroy that bill in the Senate of this Legislature. That was that same influence now moulding the utilities bill without its tooth, molding the administration bill, without the control of watered stock. Mr. Speaker, why do we see now the same corporations with their powers, with their agents, with their attorneys who last session flew at the throats of their political allies and demanded that the Governor whom they had helped to elect abandon his ambition? Why do we see those same corporations today walking hand in hand with this same administration, that would a couple of years ago have destroyed to all intents this utilities bill. It is not, Mr. Speaker, because there is a change in the provision as to the supervision of service. It is not because there is a change in the supervision of rates, because the two bills are almost identical upon those two provisions. But it is, Mr. Speaker, because there is a great change between the bill of last session and the bill of this present session, and the change is the removal of the approval by the Commission of the issue of stocks and bonds before they can be issued. Why, all this change, in the attitude of the corporations? Why all this change in the attitude of those great financial influences?

Has it been that this administration has been able to change that corporate interest's point of view, or rather has it been that this great corporate influence has been able to change the administration's point of view. Mr. Speaker, this amendment means much. It means much in the legilation that we have just passed. It means much so far as the All-Philadelphia Bills are concerned. We passed a few hours ago an enabling bill that allowed the subways and the elevated roads to be established on Broad Street and on other avenues in the City of Philadelphia. We have passed the bills that allow the establishing of a great public service corporation, and whether that corporation is dealt with, or deals with the public as an independent company, or whether it deals with the public as amalgamated with other large public utilities, this present utilities law will have great force and power over that company, if we put this amendment in the bill. If we do not, we will have those great utilities companies issuing their millions of dollars of fictitious stock, issuing their great watered output, looting the people of many millions of dollars, and there will be no means of reaching them. For the sponsor and for the advocates of this bill as it is now before the House to say that the penalty of imprisonment portion of that act will deter it, we merely answer by saying that the Constitution of 1874 had denied it, but still we know that from that day to this the watered stock was issued, the public looted and the millionaire had made his great fortune from the sale of the watered stock. Mr. Speaker, the vote of this House to-day will indicate whether that great force that has been able, through unseen and hidden, to direct the legislation of this House, to advance it, to mould it, or to stifle it, whether that same influence whether that same power, has now the power to make us bow our knee, and admit its force. Mr. Speaker, without the amendment offered by the gentleman from Crawford. this utilities bill is a nullity; without the amendment offered by the gentleman from Crawford this bill should never go on the statute books. Those who have this bill before the House, who now advocate it with this change from last session, I ask them, Mr. Speaker, for one logical reason for the change in the last session's bill. I ask them why the Hadley system is now adopted? If there is complaint in the other states, I ask why the Legislatures of those other states have not advanced the Hadley system? Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I hope there will be no question about the adoption of this amendment. It means the life of this bill. It means the force of this bill. Without it in this bill the public is yet subject to the wolfish ravages of the political financier whose harvest, whose golden harvest, is the sale of the watered stock.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, to my mind, my friend from Philadelphia is again trying to draw a picture that is not true nor correct as relates to these two propositions. I do not think the House cares to have any pictures drawn. We all know that we are here, not any of us. under the influences that my friend from Philadelphia, perhaps not intentionally, but has certainly given the House to understand is back of those who oppose this amendment. Now I know that I do not want to say to the House that the members who are supporting this bill as it now stands are in no way nor have they any right to be subjected to any such criticism. Those who are going to support this bill, if it be but myself, (and I can say that I have tried to understand the effect of this bill, I have tried to understand the effect of the proposition submitted by the gentleman from Crawford) are not deserving of such criticism. There must be two sides to this proposition. This proposition of having a utilties commission is one that has been talked about for several years. It has only been within a very few years that there has been placed upon the statute books of the different states legislation of this character. We all appreciate that there was a time in our history when we were begging and coaxing the captains of industry to embark in large enterprises to develop our resources. In those days large corporations did not stand in disrepute, but it is also true, and we all know it, that that corporate power has brought about great abuses. But I question very much whether the proposition offered by the gentleman from Crawford will better curb, and at the same time not interfere with honest development, and give to the captains of industry proper power to bring about their great enterprises. That is what this Legislature wants to do. I know it and every man of you wants to do it. No doubt the gentleman from Philadelphia wants to do that. There is a difference of opinion, isn't there, as to whether that amendment should go into the bill, or whether the present bill is better without it. In other words, whether since two years ago, after careful study, after the examining the effects of this class of legislation in the various states of the Union, whether the Legislature of Pennsylvania can now be guided by the experience and by the investigations that have been made not only by the different states, and the effects of the laws in the different states, but the investigation carried on by the National Government that not only reached out and over and through all of this great Republic of ours, but that went over and examined the proposition in continental Europe. There is no doubt that those two years of investigations have taught the men who have examined this proposition something at least. They were hunting for the honest truth. They were trying to solve one of the difficult problems of this social organization, and that is to prevent men of large means, and men who undertake large enterprises that the average investor cannot investigate, to protect the average investor from the dishonest man who is in that business and fositing upon him dishonest stock, and at the same time not tying the hands of the man who honestly goes out and does those things which results in the great development of our country. It is not easily done. Men have studied over the proposition ever since corporate power appeared to become dangerous. Our magazines have printed columns and columns and pages and pages of solutions. Gradually from time to time a little grain of wheat has been found and has been added to the grain of suggestion of another man's mind until we have in operation the utilities law. When put in operation certain defects were discovered. What were the defects that were discovered as corporated in the laws of the different states as suggested by the gentleman from Crawford. The weaknesses were these. In the State of New Jersey the work of that Commission to-day is eighteen months in arrears. If one of the corporations of the State of New Jersey were to-day to desire to extend its business, be it a railroad, be it a water power company, be it a gas company, be it an electric light company, or be it a trolley company, or any of these utility propositions contained in this bill; what does this mean to those captains of industry, those honest men who never issued a dollar's worth of bogus stock, and who have taken no action whatever excepting for the benefit of their community. That proposition means to the men of New Jersey that they will have to wait eighteen months to find out whether they can float an issue of bonds. But it is no matter if my friend from Philadelphia does say that the different Legislatures of the several states have not taken any action. Why, my friends, you all know as well as I do, that these statutes in these different states are not over a year, or two years, or three or four years old at the most, and the impracticability of certain features have not yet shown themselves so that if the voice comes back, we hear it not in the State of Pennsylvania, but you could hear it in these other states. Magazine articles have called attention to it, and those of you who have read those articles know that what I say is correct, and for the very reason that the tremendous character of the work that you are going to throw on the hands of that commission you will practically, or in its practical effect, it will in practice have a very demoralizing effect and will react against the interests of the people, not the captains of industry particularly, but the rank and file who make their daily wage and whose living depends upon the success of these various institutions. You are not going to pass any legislation of that character if you know it. Now, my friend from Philadelphia tells you that this bill does not amply protect the public. Now, I want to say frankly to you that it more amply protects the public than the provision contained in the suggestion offered by my friend from Crawford. What does this bill do. The provisions of this bill are this. If a utilities company desires to float additional stocks or additional bonds, in other words, desires to borrow additional money, to lengthen or enlarge or make more practical the particular utility, what is required under the provisions of this bill. It requires, before they can issue a single bond, that they must, under a sworn statement present to the Utilities Commission a sworn statement of their financial condition, what property they have, and what their bonded indebtedness is and what ever debts they may have. They must make that statement and make it under oath, and if they do not tell the truth, the penalty is five thousand dollars and five years imprisonment as a maximum. Gentlemen, do you think that any citizen of this State would deliberately take a pen and sign his name to a statement that means imprisonment, not a prima facia case, but the absolute evidence, and into jail you go. Now that is one of the teeth that is in this bill. Isn't it a pretty good tooth? Let us see what the effect of it will be. But I might go on and say what the other provisions in this bill provide. Under the provisions of this bill, the corporations will have to do the things that are provided for.

But in practice what else would be the effect? That the water company, perhaps undertaking to float it bonds, will simply send or get a statement filed and may perhaps find that the commercial world don't want it. This bill provides that you can go before the Commission and pursue the same course as the suggestion of the gentleman from Crawford provides. Thus, in fact, you will find this: That if there is any man in this House who has handled large affairs or has handled large bond issues he knows very well that, notwithstanding the fact that the State of New Jersey, the so-called commission may have O. K.'ed the bond issue. If the facts were laid down so that he, having a practical knowledge, can and may form his own opinion which of the two provisions of the act do you suppose he would accept or prefer? Would not any man prefer to go in and take the sworn statement as to the proposition of the moneys to be used if as to the total indebtedness that exceeds at this time and form his own opinion as to whether he wanted to float that bond issue. Under the proposition of the gentleman from Crawford, such a thing is not available because here we might call your attention to that, but there is so much to say about it. Under the provisions of the New York and New Jersey laws, there is the danger they are speaking about. What do you suppose it cost the State of New York to put in operation what he wants you, are asked, to vote to ingraft on this bill. It cost the State of New York one million dollars. Why? Because under its provisions the State is at the expense of getting that information. Under the provisions of this bill, the information is furnished at the expense of the institution that desires to float the bond. When my friend from Philadelphia tells you that this proposition of his or the gentleman's proposition from Crawford, introduced, is the one we should follow because others have followed; because it is the law somewhere else, it is a very lame proposition. He has mentioned the Hadley method. What does that mean? It means that Mr. Hadley of Yale was one of the Commissioners appointed by our National Government to go into one of the most careful investigations of this proposition and as a result that commission decided that this was the most practical and the safer method to follow. Now, I don't suppose that there is a man in this House who has any doubt about the integrity of Mr. Lewis in Philadelphia. Do you think that the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia indirectly suggests that he has been influenced—and I want to say I have the most unqualified confidence in his honesty, and more than that, for two years he has studied that proposition and has examined all of these laws and arrived at this conclusion; and that even last summer, when he felt that perhaps the utility commission could not wisely determine on such a great amount of work, he has still been further carefully investigating and does any one feel that this is not the manner in which the bill should be drawn. Would you take the opinion of my friend from Philadelphia pitted against a man that has given his time almost entirely to the consideration for three long years of this proposition. Don't you think that our Attorney General and that Doctor Lewis, of the University of Pennsylvania, are safer men to follow than the suggestions of those who have formed their opinions hastily and who I don't think really appreciate the fact that here is a law that is more drastic than theirs because experience has shown in the States where there are these laws in operation that the drastic feature of their bills, because of their drastic and impractical effect in operation has resulted adversely just as I understood not long ago on the floor of the House, against the practicable and successful working out of the feature. The drastic punishment does not accomplish the purpose intended. You will go to a jury on these lines and the jury decides contrary to the fact because the punishment is not made to fit the crime. In operation we have on the statute books of our State now several of them and we all know that they are not strictly observed. Now just as soon as you have to break away from the strict letter of the law, you are in chaos and immediately in this measure instead of an amendment being a protection to the public in my judgment it is a backward step. It has been so decided by those who have studied it and I don't think any member in the House could bring any argument against this bill. Now, I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that those who are undoubtedly striving for the best interests of our State, who are not influenced by the so-called great powers that my friend speaks of, we think we can reach the issue and believe that there is a man in this State of ours who is not effected by the so-called great interests, and we have a right at least to say that we do agree with the representatives of the University of Pennsylvania. I wish to say that I have the highest regard for the Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania; that he is doing that which I feel that he is capable of doing, and more capable than any man in this House of forming an accurate opinion and he knows and understands every provision of this bill. He understands the effect of every part of this bill. He knows what every amendment offered here means and what is conveyed or intended by those that are presented. He is familiar with every section of the bill and I know that only last week he went over this bill from page to page from one end to the other and I believe that this House can pin its faith on that bill and vote for it as it stands and push all amendments to aside except those that are necessary or intended to correct the language of the bill and correct whatever mistakes may be made in this bill; correct whatever shortcomings there may be in the language, but for gracious sake let us pass a utility bill. It will be simply in force for two years and is it not a wiser course to pursue, to not make the law at first too drastic and not overdo what you are trying to do or you will defeat your whole purpose. I don't believe a bill of this character should be too drastic. We have no place to turn to see the effect of this utility act. There is no State similar to the State of Pennsylvania. The conditions are entirely different. If you were to apply the law of Texas or Wisconsin or Oregon to the State of Pennsylvania you may be doing a very wrong thing. We have a proposition here of eight millions of people and all those great interests these enormous institutions and this bill will reach them and you don't want to put them out of business because if you do, it is not them you are hurting; you are not hurting them, it is the wage-earner that they are employing, whom you will hurt. When you destroy them you are doing that which is of interest to the common people. The law under this bill undoubtedly should be passed as it stands. When the language is corrected, if it be anything it should not be too drastic. At the next session of the Legislature two years hence you can correct it and I hope that you will not impair this bill by the adoption of this amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponser of this bill, the gentleman from Tioga.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Tioga whether or not the commission as provided for in this bill has a right to regulate the rates of corporations so that the same may be reasonable?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I so understand it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask whether or not it requires the consent of the commission for a corporation to increase the issue of additional stock?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, not under the first section of this act. Not under section four.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I say under the provisions of the bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, not under the first clause; not in relation to that although under another clause of the bill, yes.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, where.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in that relation where a corporation applies directly to a commission to issue bonds.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, is it optional as to whether or not it applies to the commission or is it mandatory?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it is optional.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, that is all. Now, Mr. Speaker, we are face to face with this condition. I had better say to you that it was my purpose from the beginning of the agitation of this question and is now and will be until this bill on some form goes through, to vote for a utilities bill. The thing that we are fighting for is to make a bill that will reflect credit upon this body. We as members of this House have lived and thrived and are living in an age of pure food and pure thought and pure everything as the laws that are introduced into this body have shown. A few days ago, just a few hours ago in fact, at the instance and at the suggestion of that great Commonwealth in itself, the City of Philadelphia, we passed in this House a bill which made it necessary to show upon it the date or day, by affidavit, the actual consideration that was paid. In this bill we seek to do what I have understood this very gentleman, the sponsor of this bill, to refer to. They must stand for the members of this House as we consider the proposition which is now facing us and say whether or not they will amend this bill; and that is this, that in the first place the commission can regulate the rate so that the income or the profits will be reasonable. All that the company or corporation on its own commission can do any time issues now. Under the provisions of the bill as it now stands. What have you? You have this proposition, this one alone. If the capital stock of a corporation to-day be one million dollars and the profits of that corporation be such as that commission thinks is unreasonable, they may be able to decrease the rates. But what if the company says that its profits are too great on the capital stock then issued what will it do? In answer again, I will use the words of the gentleman, the sponsor of this bill, "It involves the issuance of its capital stock" and what it gets is not half the percentage of profit. Is that a regulation of the corporation or is the corporation regulating its own condition? Which? Is it not making a statement which the commission cannot review and say that it is unreasonable. Your income and your profits have been decreased to something that sounds reasonable. Have you reached the desired point? Not by any manner of means. Not at all. I listened, Mr. Speaker, to the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, for whose opinion I have the greatest respect. I listened for him to point to one meritorious feature in the proposition now under consideration, to-wit: the bill as it stands. I listened for him to say one word in opposition to the proposition which is now before us, to-wit: the amendment which has been offered; but not one word as to the merits or one word as to the demerits of the proposition emanated in his mind or flowed from his lips. Not one. The whole thought and the whole argument was of he who prepared this bill. Think who prepared this bill, and when you think, tremble, shiver, shake and bow. Let us look at the bill in a reasonable way; that is what we are here for, Mr. Speaker. Every member upon the floor of this House has a right to exercise his common sense, his own judgment in matters of this kind, and think of its great importance and effect. I believe, Mr. Speaker, if any architect of a legal proposition or of a great building is called to account by an ordinary man, oftentimes a flaw can be seen and readily seen somewhere, and it is those flaws that we are after at this time. I want to call the attention of the House, Mr. Speaker, since Mr. Hadley and his railroad commission has been so paraded before this House; I want to call the House's attention to one feature of this bill that is embodied in Section four, and then I want to know why just before reaching that point this statement was made a few moments ago: That the indebtedness must be shown by a corporation before bonds or stocks can be issued. I quite agree, Mr. Speaker, that certain indebtedness is provided to be shown by the provisions of this bill. I also desire to call the House's attention to the further fact that there is a certain indebtedness—no, not a certain indebtedness—but a great uncertainty that can be concealed, and I ask why? It is provided in this bill that such floating indebtedness as may be due up to twelve months may not appear in the statement. Look at section (d). Now I want to take up this section and show you where it is rather clear to my mind, first, either, Mr. Speaker, that some certain interests are being subserved, or else that somebody is seriously mistaken and I care not which horn of the dilemma you take. If some certain interests are being subserved, then and in that event, we as members of this House are justified in standing here and protecting the rights of the people of this great Commonwealth. If somebody on the other hand has made a mistake, then and in that event we are justified in correcting that error. Now, Mr. Speaker, if you turn to page twenty-two of this Section 4 which we are now discussing, and you turn to line twenty on that page, and if you turn to the Hadley commission report and you turn over to page forty-nine under suggestions relating to publicity indicating points upon which amendments to the act to regulate commerce might be passed, and if you commence where it says "first," you will find from the word "first" to the bottom of page forty-nine all that is embraced on page twenty-two of this bill. If you turn over again to page fifty, you will find that which is embraced in Roman characters at the top of page twenty-three of this bill. If you go on down further, you will find the same indentical language written into this bill as is used in the Hadley report. But, now, Mr. Speaker, comes the test, and I desire to call the attention of the Chair to this fact. Beginning at line sixty-three on page twenty-three there are several of the reports which I now hold in my hand, the Hadley report on the floor of this House—the gentleman from Delaware has one in his hand—he will follow me in the reading of this bill and the members will follow me in the bill itself, commencing at line sixty-three on page twenty-three, I commence reading, Mr. Speaker, at the third paragraph on page fifty, commencing with the words "The provisions," which are the exact words at the beginning of line sixty-three:

"The provisions in regard to Certificates of Notification shall apply to notes or evidences of indebtedness running for periods of twelve months or less and to the pledging or repledging of stocks, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness to secure such notes or evidences of indebtedness running for priods of twelve months or less, except that such certificates may be filed within ten days after the issue thereof instead of on or prior to the date of said issue."

Did you note that at the end of line sixty-four, the last full word on that line is injected contrary to the express provisions of the Hadley recommendation, which had been so scrupulously followed and which has been lauded to the skies. Why, before a company can issue its stocks or bonds, the provisions laid down in section (d) which I just read to you shall be and must be followed. Now to say, Mr. Speaker, for a company to issue its short notes for less than one year, a new company, if you please, a company whose capital stock is $1,000,000, the short notes or short indebtedness, the script or anything else falling due in thirty, sixty, ninety or one hundred and twenty days, six months, if you please, nine months up to twelve months, may in itself be half a million dollars, but that need not show in your report. Then what? Your report is absolutely false, and when that company appears before the commission with its report which winks at that $500,000 item and does not appear any place, it receives the stamp of approval of that commission, and not only that but it absolutely falsifies the conditions in which it appears before the public. Is anybody robbed? Most assuredly, yes. Would not your bonds due in one, two, three, four or five years appear anyhow? Certainly they would. Then, how does it happen, Mr. Speaker, under the provisions of this bill which has been lauded to the skies, which is immaculate and must not be touched, profit, if you please, follows the Hadley system? How does it happen that the very contingency which the Hadley recommendation attached to each is wiped out in this bill and is absolutely contrary to the requirements upon a corporation of this kind. I again say that one of two things is evident: Some purposes are being subserved or some party has made a mistake. Now, Mr. Speaker, taken on the other hand. On the other hand you have something which begins with the inception, if you please, of the formation of a corporation. It sees that the foundation is laid firmly as in cement. It sees that there is a foundation upon which it stands. It does not go around with just simply a scum on the outside and say, "There is a shell; we do not know whether the inside is solid or not." It doesn't build you a picture house; it makes you a real house, because it starts with the foundation and works up. Is it greater to say that a man shall ride so far for so much money upon a public railway, upon a common carrier in this State, or is it greater to protect the reaching down into the pockets and taking out the savings of a life time perhaps of the innocent purchaser of stock without any merit or without any worth. Mr. Speaker, the real vitals of this bill, the life blood which by this amendment is intended to be injected into it, and by the elimination of section four as it stands in this bill, nothing but absolute poison and putrid flesh is extracted.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the House that Mr. Bryan is in the building and will be here in a few minutes. Therefore, with the permission of the House, a recess will be declared and the pages will be permitted to bring in some chairs for the Senators.

RECESS.

Whereupon, (at 3.45 o'clock P. M.) the House took a recess.

DURING RECESS.

The SPEAKER. Gentlemen of the Senate and House, the Secretary of State.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE W. J. BRYAN, SECRETARY OF STATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Members of the Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen:—I appreciate the honor you do me, or possibly to speak more correctly, the honor you do the office which I temporarily occupy, in inviting me to address you. I am over here to attend a Democratic banquet and make a Democratic speech and possibly I better get all of the non-partisanship out of my system before to-night. (Applause). You know I belong to that department of the Government upon which reserve is most emphatically imposed. My Department has to deal with those subjects which we discuss with least freedom, the subjects relating to international affairs, and I have been trying to bring myself within the proprieties of the office, and if I seem to any of you to talk even now more than I ought to, you will be charitable towards me if you will remember how much less I talk now than I used. (Laughter). But to-night I think I shall feel more freedom in speaking than I usually do. This afternoon I desire to say a word to you as legislators. I shall not occupy your time to any great extent. There are many things that might be said on an occasion of this kind for such an occasion is fruitful in suggestion, but I prefer to deal with the fundamental idea that seems to me to be appropriate for discussion at this time.

A century ago Thomas Jefferson said that there were just two parties in every land and that where speech was free those two parties would manifest themselves; and these two parties, natural parties, to be found every where, he described as an aristocratic party and a democratic party. Of course, he did not have reference to our Democratic party when he said this, for at that time the party which we now call Democratic was called the Republican party, so handicapped were we in a name in the beginning.

He was not using the party names that come and go. He was rather describing the spirit that animates parties. He said that the aristocratic party would naturally draw to itself those who did not believe in the people and did not trust them and that the Democratic party would as naturally draw to itself those who did believe in the people and did trust them. Now this is the line that the greatest constructive statesmen drew among men, and is the only permanent line that can be drawn everywhere and always in society. It is the line that separates the man who is at heart a democratic from the man who is at heart an aristocrat; and my reason for referring at this time to this fundamental distinction is to make an application of it to representative government. You will find these two ideals manifesting themselves in every form of government, because in every country where they have any sort of participation by the people in government you will find the struggle between those who want to bring the government near to the people, who want to make the government more responsive to the will of the people, and those who are trying to restrain progress in this direction and obstruct every step toward popular government; and you will find that among those who believe in representative government there are these two ideas, and it is a matter of great importance to know whether the representative holds to the democratic idea of representative government or to the aristocratic idea of representative government. The aristocratic idea of representative government is that the people select men to think for them. That is the aristocratic idea of representative government, that the people have not enough intelligence to do their thinking for them. That is the aristocratic idea. The democratic idea is that the people think for themselves and elect representatives to do for them what they would do for themselves if they could do it. (Applause.)

And when you analyze the conduct of members of any Legislature you will find it difficult to understand the votes that are cast unless you first find which view the legislator takes of representative government. And I may say to you that it makes a difference when you investigate his views. For the aristocratic views of representative government prevails much more after election than before the election. (Laughter.) I do not know, in an extended experience in public affairs, of any man who ever ran for office and in his platform presented the aristocratic views of the government; but I have known some who ran on a democratic view and then adopted the aristocratic view after they had secured authority from their constituents.

Now the democratic view is the popular view. How do I know? I know it by the manner in which candidates act when they come before the people. They desire to know what the people want. Why should a candidate desire to know what the people want, unless it is for his gudiance and instruction? If it is immaterial to the man what his constituents desire, why should he consult them? So the very attitude of the candidate gives a means of knowing that during the campaign he takes the democratic view. What other reason have we for believing that the democratic view is the popular view? Because we have platforms and you cannot explain a platform on any other theory than the democratic theory. If the people select men of superior intelligence to think for them and to act for them, regardless of the wishes of the people themselves, then why should the man in office be restrained and hampered by a platform? The fact that we not only have platforms, but that platforms are becoming more specific year after year is conclusive proof that the people believe in the democratic theory and they write their platforms because they believe, and those who run upon them lead the voters to believe, that they believe that the platform is binding upon those who stand upon it. (Applause.) And as a believer in the democratic theory of representative government, I desire to announce it as a settled principle not to be questioned in this country, that a platform is binding upon every honest man who runs upon that platform. (Applause.) I have heard it said by men after an election that they could not conscientiously support something in their platform, and it raises a very important question whether a man should violate his conscience as a public servant, and I frankly will tell you that I believe no man should violate his conscience either as an individual or as a public servant. Far be it from me to say that any man elected to any office should, as an official, do a thing that his conscience condemns. But does that mean that a man ought to violate his platform? No, it means that his conscience should commence to work before the election and not hibernate until after the election. (Applause.

If a man after election finds out that his platform contains something that he cannot honestly support, what ought he to do? Violate his conscience? No. What? Resign and let his constituents select somebody who can conscieutiously do what they conscientiously want. Is that not a plain proposition? What is the alternative? That a man must put his conscience above the conscience of his constituents? Have not the constituents' consciences also and have they not a right to have their consciences represented? Has a representative a monopoly of the consciences of his district? I lay it down as a proposition, and I am prepared to defend it anywhere, that the representative who secures office upon a platform and then holds the office and betrays the people who elect him, is a criminal worse than the man who embezzles money entrusted to him.

What is money to government if you would compare their value. It has cost the world hundreds of millions of money, and millions of human lives to secure popular government. It has cost the world the lives of the best and bravest that have lived to secure the right to control their government, and that money has been squandered to no purpose, and that blood has been spent in vain if when the people secure representative government those whom they have selected can betray them, and mock them, and spit upon them will they betray them. Does this sound radical doctrine to you? There was a time when I seemed radical, but now I have to hurry to keep up with the times. Does this seem like radical doctrine? The country has already caught up with this doctrine. We have gone through a great controversy in this country and the fight has been finished and the victory has been won, and if there are any who have not yet caught the spirit of the time, they are as dead, as unburied members of the world. I cannot better illustrate what has been going on for almost a generation than in this way. It is like a great criminal suit, where a man has been charged with a crime, a man rich and powerful in friends. He employs the ablest of counsel. They contest every inch of the ground. They not only dispute every proposition laid down by the prosecution, but they attempt to break down the character of every witness called by the prosecution, and, finally, the evidence is all in, and then the attorney for the defendant rises and says: "Your Honor, the defendant desires to withdraw the plea of not guilty and substitute the plea of guilty, and throw himself on the mercy of the court." That is what happened in this country. We have had for generations a struggle between democracy and plutocracy. We have combined and organized wealth corrupting our legislatures, many of our governors and overawing the parties of this land, and at last the aroused people have taken the matter in their own hands and the people are facing to the front, and woe be to the man or State that does not keep step with the profession. Time fights on the side of trtuh. When I was a young man, I was impatient. I thought because a thing was right it ought to be secured at once. But I have learned to be patient. I have found that only those who are in error need to win at once. Those who are right can wait. There is nothing that goes but the truth. Nothing is sure of victory but that which is right. And, if you will look over the history of the last few years, you will find much to encourage you to believe that nothing is impossible if it is a thing that the people need. Did this Legislature endorse the Income Tax Amendment, this State? Do you think they would have done it fifteen years ago? That Income Tax Amendment was submitted at the request of a Republican President. It passed a Republican Senate. It passed a Republican House. It was endorsed by more than two-thirds of the States of this Union, and they have before Congress now an Income Tax bill. Nineteen years ago I helped to write an income tax bill, and it was not a graded bill. It was a bill with an exemption, and only one rate above that. If the men of wealth had been willing then to pay their share of the expenses of government they might have been able to get along with a fiat rate, but they refused, they resisted, but the tide grew stronger until after a while a popular sentiment swept this country, and now we were to have a graded income tax, more severe on large fortunes than the tax of nineteen years ago that I helped to write. Twenty-three years ago we began the fight for the election of Senators by the direct vote of the people, and yesterday they notified me that we had received the last State necessary, and now thirty-six States have notified the State Department that they had ratified this amendment to provide for the popular election of Senators, and it is to be my pleasure, aye, my delight, within a few days to affix my signature to the last formality to put the United States Senate in the hands of the people, and Pennsylvania was one of the thirty-six States. Would Pennsylvania have done this fifteen years ago? I mention this to show the progress that has taken place. Here are two great reforms that are accomplished. Now, let me tell you something that is going to be accomplished. The day of the boss has bassed in the United States. The day is coming when the people at home will nominate their own candidates and write their own platform. And reform is sweeping over the country surely as did the election of Senators by the people, as did the demand for an Income Tax. You can stand in the way, you can prevent it for a while, but you are not strong enough to resist the conscience of a nation, or the conscience of a State like Pennsylvania. Not only is the boss being driven from State politics, and the government of parties put in the hands of the voters of the parties, but I venture to predict that we have seen the last great National Convention. I saw two great conventions last Fall. Ordinarily I only see one. But it looked as if our convention was going to be so tame that I went to the Republican Convention rather than miss the loss upon my system of this quadrennial stimulant. If I had known what was going to happen at Baltimore, I might not have gone to Chicago. I saw two great conventions, one dividing a party that had been united for half a century, and the other uniting a party that had been divided years and years. They were great conventions. We shall see no more such. For, if I mistake not the signs of the time, we will find that before another Presidential election rolls around, the Presidential primaries will be so universal that the President, instead of being nominated by the leaders in convention, will be nominated by the voters at home to act as the Servant for all the people. I am not specially interested in what this Legislature, or any Legislature, may do at any particular time. My faith is becoming so strong in the power of the people to compel their Legislatures to obey their will, that if a Legislature does not do right today, I simply say, "Well, to-morrow it will be different." And as the people are taking control of these things it gives a man an opportunity to tell whether they are on the side of the people or against the people. And, my friends, when I look over a legislative body, with the experience through which we have passed during the last two decades, as I look over a legislative body, I feel that whether the legislators do their duty or not, is a matter that concerns them much more than it does their constituents. Because if they do not do what their constituents want, they will not represent their constituents long, so that the injury that they do is short, but if they do not do what they ought to do, their memory of their misdeeds will follow them as long as they live. And what is the purpose of this movement to put the Government in the hands of the people? What is the purpose? It is to advance civilization. It is to protect the rights of the people. It is to safeguard the welfare of the masses of the people. When a few control government, then they manage the government so that the few may enjoy privileges. But, when the many control government, they so control it that the rights of all will be respected. And what rights are we dealing with now throughout the country? We are dealing with all the rights of all the people. And as the people's power increases, you will find legislatures considering questions that touch not merely the present, but the future. And what question touches the future? The question that affects the child. And if I mistake not one of the richest fruits of this people's movement is that the greedy corporations will no more be able to grind into dollars the blood of little children to the impairment of posterity. My friends, this is a large subject. All fundamental principles are large in their application.

I used to think when I began to study questions of government that they were difficult to understand, but the more I studied them, the simpler they seemed and I found in a little while that two of the great commandments were really the foundation of most of the things we had to consider. They were "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not kill." I had a speech to make in New York about five years ago. It was just before I expected to be nominated and I knew they would be watching me closely to see what I said. I decided to take a subject that nobody could object to; I decided to make a speech that nobody could find fault with and I took for my subject, "Thou shalt not steal." I suppose I hurt the feelings of more people in that speech than any other speech that I have delivered. Everybody in New York thought that I was making a personal attack on them. After I had made that speech, I thought I had made a serious mistake. Immediately after I was through I was a little conscious stricken because I began to feel that possibly I ought to have made the speech in Pennsylvania, instead of New York.

You take the abuses that need to be remedied and analyze them and what will you find? You will find that if they are abuses, they are such because they violate a great moral principle and the two moral principles that are the most violated are the commandments which I have mentioned, "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not kill." All injustice wrought by law is merely a form of larceny: every dollar that by law enables a man to take unjustly, without return, from the pocket of another man is a violation of the commandment "Thou shalt not steal," and the conditions that you permit to exist that grind men down and drive them to ruin and to death and violate the commandment "Thou shalt not kill," but pardon me. I am not here to make a speech and I may if I speak a little longer, and I shall have gone beyond the mere form of an address and entered upon a speech. I came here to make a speech to the Democrats and I appreciate the honor that you have conferred upon me in inviting me to address you and as I appreciate that honor, I felt that I must show it by dealing with the largest question to which I could get your attention. I brought to your attention the largest question connected with government with which I am familiar, the distinction between aristocracy and democracy. I have just elaborated enough to show you how large a subject it is; how far reaching in its application and for the encouragement of those who believe in the democratic idea of representative government, I have given some illustrations to show the triumph of this idea in our own land and for your encouragement, I will add, in conclusion, that this is not a progress that is confined to this country. This is a progress that is world wide. Sometimes in our enthusiasm we attempt to credit this man or that man with exerting a large influence in the securing of the things that the people are securing in this country. We are quite prone to overestimate the personal element. We are quite prone to give more credit to those with whom we act than they really deserve. The great reform that has swept this country and has not yet reached its culmination is not the work of one man: it is not the work of a few men; it is the expression of the conscience of a nation, and as our nation move forward with militant step to the tune of democracy, it moves in harmony with the marching hosts of all the world; onward it goes everywhere and the ideals of Jefferson are the growing ideals; go everywhere and you will find in every country there is a band and in some countries it is much larger than in others. But in every country, there is a band of men fighting to make the government the people's government; fighting to put the people in control of their destiny. Not on the theory that the people will not make mistakes but on the democratic theory that the people have a right to make their own mistakes and that no given few have a right to make mistakes for the rest of the people. Trust the people, Representatives. You dare not distrust them. For if by your conduct, you suggest that the people have not intelligence enought to decide these questions you may reach the suggestion that it was their lack of intelligence that allowed them to entrust their intelligence to you. Therefore, your own pride as well as principle ought to lead you to have full faith in your people and the best way to prove your faith in your people is to bring your government as soon as possible under your people and let it be theirs for better or for worse. Trust them. They deserve your confidence and when the government is theirs, you will find that every wrong will have its remedy and that the more effort there is to express yourselves to have their law obeyed, the sooner will the remedy be applied and therefore, the easier will the remedy be to endure. I thank you.

AFTER RECESS.

The House reconvened at 4:30 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the remarks of the Secretary of State be spread on the Journal of the House.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, after the tonic address which we have just listened to, it behooves us to take up the consideration of our immediate problems in the same spirit which we have heard exemplified before us, which means I think that we should try to decide for ourselves which of these two alternate propositions are best for the people, to-day and for all time. I think it is some importance that we should divest ourselves from certain influences that may surround us. I think, for instance, that we ought to attempt to gain a sudden and new reputation for devotion to the interests of the people. I think also that we ought not to be actuated by a blind desire to injure the administration and to condemn whatever may be the products of its industry, and I think also that we ought not to be actuated by the desire to produce political power for the consummation of a party long out of power in Pennsylvania. I desire then carefully to analyze the merits, but before I start in to do that and while the speeches of the other members are still fresh in your memory, I desire to give an answer to one or two of the propositions which they laid down. One of the strong arguments that was made by the gentlemen from my own County and of my own name, was that in other states where the utilities bills have the same prohibition as the amendment now before us, that there had been heard no note of complaint and no effort to retrace their steps. In answer to that proposition, I now hand the gentlemen the special message of the Governor of Massachusetts in which he speaks of a new and improved public utilities bill which omits all reference to passing on stocks and bonds by the public utilities commission. Now, Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Allegheny, who has seen fit to find flaws in the bill, because in adopting in general the Hadley plan it did not contain one particular feature thereof. His complaint is that in the certificate of notification, it is not necessary to set out the fact of the issue of temporary obligations. In the first place, I desire to call attention to this striking fact: That in all those states where they require the passing upon obligations by the commission—in other words, in the states which he would have us follow—it is not necessary to get the consent of the commission to the issuance of these short term obligations. I also wish to call his attention to the fact that while it is true that this bill does not require absolutely that such information shall be given, it does provide that if the commission desires such information, it shall be given, so that if there is any complaint or any hardship or it is found that the public necessities need such information, it is only necessary for the Commission to pass a general order to that affect and the thing is done. There will be a certificate of notification in such form as the Commission may from time to time determine and prescribe. Among other things which may be required by the Commission, are all the things which are set forth in the bill. Now, Mr. Speaker, the general line of argument which has been adopted by the supporters of this amendment is based upon a deep-rooted fallacy and confusion of mind which not only vitiates their argument but which, if carried into the bill, would vitiate the bill from the beginning to the end. They seem, somehow or other, to have the idea that the regulation of rates and services is inextricably confused with the proper value of the stocks and bonds outstanding. Now, Mr. Speaker, those things have been confused in the public mind in the past, and it is just on account of that confusion that the passing or issuing of watered stocks and bonds has been in the past possible. Why, then. of course there is a strong argument towards making those stocks and bonds valuable by allowing the utility to make a return which will make it valuable, but once you make that clear and distinct that a just rate has absolutely no connection with the proper value of the stocks and bonds outstanding, you have made it possible to arrive at a fair and just rate without being influenced by whatever the utility may have done in the way of issuing their stocks and bonds. Now, as a matter of fact, Mr. Speaker, the subject of the regulation of public utilities in their rates and in their service and the subject of the protection of the innocent investor are two separate and distinct subjects of legislation. If you attempt in this bill to place the emphasis upon the interests of the investor, you have a very vague and a very partial answer from that point of view, because the selling of fraudulent stocks to the public is by no means confined to stocks of public utilities, but consists in all stocks where a market can be found and a gullible investor exists. And so those who have these things in minds have drafted a special type of legislation to meet the needs of the protection of the public. Mr. Speaker, when we are thinking definitely along lines to protect the public from fraudulent securities, we are thinking of the prohibition of the issuance of corporate securities which have no foundation in real value. Now, it is proper that the public utilities law should see that the public utilities do not take part in any fraudulent games upon the public, but that is not where the emphasis should lie. That subject, as I have said before, is one that is a totally different subject of legislation. Now, in that connection, I desire to point out that when the Legislature is thinking solely upon the question of how it shall protect the innocent investor, and when it is passing this "blue sky" law such as we passed just last night, such as I myself introduced, what did it do? Did it create a commission which would pass upon a corporate bond issue? It did not. It simply provides for the utmost publicity. for the most careful statement of facts, and for securing the responsibility of the people who handle the security, and with that it stopped. In other words, those who are advocating this amendment to this bill are asking that the public utilities bill shall go farther in the way of protecting the public than would a bill which was drafted for that specific purpose and for that specific purpose alone. Now, Mr. Speaker, with these general expressions, I desire shortly to analyze the amendment and show what its influence upon the whole public situation would be. Let us look upon the operation of the amendment in the first light from the point of view of the commission. You will not in the first place, after transferring to the commission all that type of functions which comes rather under the "blue sky" theory, we have given them an enormous amount of work, which is not properly and logically a part of their functions. Their function is to see that the people of this State are provided with adequate service, with safe service and at a just rate, and to saddle them with the duties of the protection of the investor is giving them a large duty which is outside the purview of their corporate functions. Now, since men only have twenty-four hours in the day, and since every man only has one brain, and since the regulation of the rates and the service of all the public utilities in this State is a task staggering the abilities of a court of geniuses, it must follow that if you give them work which does not belong to their functions, you must reduce the efficiency of their functions when they come to exercise their own. In the second place, Mr. Speaker, from the point of view of the commission, you will find that if you ask them to validate the issue of securities of corporations, you will estop them. That is to say, they will estop themselves from the exercise probably of other than their own functions, and when I say that I refer to a very read danger. It is unthinkable that after a Commission has considered the proposed issue of securities and found that they were to be issued for full value and the exigencies of the public utility required their issue, I say it is unthinkable that then the Commission would not allow that utility to charge a rate which would protect a return upon these securities which the Commission itself has approved. But it may be found that in the old days, prior to the issuing of those securities, there had been stock issued by that utility and skilfully watered, and when those old stocks were watered and the new validated stock had been issued and were all on the market indiscriminately commingled, then if the commission was to allow a rate determined upon the validity of the stock, they must of necessity permit a return upon the old watered stock. And that is what I mean when I say that the action of approval in one case estops them from a proper exercise of their functions in another. From the Commission's point of view, Mr. Speaker, there is a third embarrassment which this duty would bring upon them. Because a commission approves of an issue of stock, it does not necessarily mean that that stock issue will continue to be sound. It may be that bad management or misfortune or the thousand and one exigencies of the business situation may cause that stock to decline in the market and subsequently become valueless. and then how would the Commission appear in the public eye?

I think there is greater danger to the public in putting the stamp of approval upon the bonds and stocks of a corporation than there is in simply providing the public with all the information, because in the first place you encourage the public to accept the judgment of the Commission instead of their own judgment; but in the method employed in the bill you ask the public to do what every responsible man ought to do, namely, in the first place satisfy himself of the facts and then exercise his own independent judgment.

Now, Mr. Speaker, let us turn our attention for a moment to the consideration of the operation of this amendment, from the point of view of the utility and remember that when we are legislating it ought to be our attempt to give all interests a fair deal and a square play in legislation. It is not a virtue to destroy except to destroy evil and it certainly is not a virtue to unnecessarily harm the industries of our State which provide for public service; therefore, from the point of view of the utility, the suggestion that they cannot borrow any money or increase their capitalization until they have gained the consent of the commission, means that before any new capital can go into the public service in this State that all the delays incident to waiting upon the pleasure of the Commission must be endured and in the delicate matter of marketing securities that delay, which is not fanciful, but which is a matter of proof and expenience and some times lasts for months and months,—that delay may be the same as the delay to a patient in time of illness—it may mean the differece between life and death, and it is almost certain to mean the difference between a favorable market and an unfavorable market. Now, Mr. Speaker, that difference always reflects itself in the rate of interest which the utility must pay. The rate of interest reflects itself in the gross operating expenses of the corporations and that reflects itself again in the fair profit of the corporation, and the fair profit of the corporation reflects itself in the rate which the commission will allow the utility to charge the consumer; and, therefore, the unfavorable market for the issuance of securities is paid for by the people of the State who use the securities. Not only that, Mr. Speaker, but when you require the consent of the Commission to the issuance of the securities, you mean that the utility cannot make any of its bank arrangements until after your public knows of the intended issue; that is to say, all the troubles of undue publicity by the little stockholders who have stock which has only a nuisance value; that is to say, every man who owns one share of stock with fifty dollars, but knows that he can go into court and get an injunction and therefore may have to be bought off to prevent his blocking the whole thing for months by the ordinary delays of justice, no matter how unrighteous his cause may be I say you give a nuisance value to shares of stock of that charaacter to an enormous and unprecedented degree. Now, Mr. Speaker, from the point of view of the marketability of the stocks and bonds of a corporation. I think it will generally be conceded that there will be an increased marketability for stocks and bonds which have been approved by the Commission and therefore the natural tendency of corporations who are not pressed for time and to whom no publicity or delay would be a consideration, it will be the natural tendency for them to come to the Commission and ask for its consent and get the benefit in the market of its approval, and the natural competition between shares which have been so approved and shares which have not been approved will in a great majority of the cases result in the natural, unforced, proper business like, thorough and effective approval of securities at the proper time. But there of course, will be a minority of the shares of public service corporations which will not be approved in that way and it is about the minority of those securities which we have such strenuous complaint here this afternoon.

Now let us proceed for a moment to analyze what will be the prospect confronting the promotor of fraudulent public utilities stocks in the future under this bill. The gentleman from Philadelphia gave a hypothetical case of a water power company which has bought a water fall, which then proceeds to over-capitalize it and sell it to the unsuspecting public. Let us place ourselves for a moment in the shoes of those promoters and find where we are. In the first place, they must send before they can issue a single stock or bond, —to the Public Utilities Commission on a certificate of notification which will have in it everything that the Commission care to require, in addition to those things which the bill says it must specifically set out. In there must be put a statement of the value of their water fall, and if they state that incorrectly for fraudulent purposes they are liable to a jail penalty, and I call the gentleman's attention to the criminal cases which have recently been brought in the United States about states in Mexico, which were overvalued, to show him that that prison sentence is by no means an idle threat. In the second place, that certificate has been made and if anybody has the slightest suggestion that there is any error or fraud in that certification all that any interested party has to do is to make complaint to the Commission and then the Commission has the amplest powers to investigate, and they can find out whether there has been any over valuation and they can do on their motion exactly what the commission would under the bill require them to do in the first place. Then, Mr. Speaker, if there has been any over-valuation, any issue of stocks or bonds not for value, the bill says that these stocks and bonds are void. It makes a right of action against the corporation for the value to anybody who has been defrauded and so you have that civil action against the company. You have your criminal action against the authorities and officers of the company and you have your appeal to the commission to find out the facts, and in addition you have spread before you in the certificate of notification a whole history of the facts.

This being the fact, Mr. Speaker, let me summarize: We have in this bill as much as in any Blue Sky Law in any State and as much as the House thought wise to put in the Blue Sky Law in this State. We have in this bill all that is necessary to safeguard the public and we have no unnecessary restrictions upon the employment of the capital in our service and no onerous provisions which will simply end in the raising of the prices of the service to use, and with this consideration, Mr. Speaker, I believe that we are legislating in the interests of the whole people if we reject the amendment.

Mr. WILLIAMS in the Chair.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say a word or two in reference to some of the arguments that have been presented while this amendment has been pending and I want to call the attention of the House to some of the arguments and suggestions that have been made by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Baldwin, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott. I really thought that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott, was going to make a consistent argument from the standpoint of the public service corporations until he spoiled his argument with his conclusions. He, as well as the gentleman from Delaware, have called attention to the fact that there is a provision in this bill, as it stands, which leaves it optional to the public service company to do just what we would require of the public service company by this amendment and the gentlemen say with that provision in the bill in a short time all the public service companies would see the advantage and feel that there was more benefit to be derived by them from going to the Commission for an approval, and that subsequently and ultimately they would all get approval from the Commission.

So I say that if it is the purpose of the gentlemen who are back of this bill to bring the corporations concerned, not acting as common carriers, to bring them under the provisions of that section which provides for a certificate, then that is an absolute indication of their position which should be required by them in the first instance. I am quite surprised that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, would contend even for the purposes that are embraced in this bill, and I am surprised that the gentleman from Delaware would contend that this is a result of great study and thought of the men interested, and of Dean Lewis, when he, Dean Lewis states as an absolute certainty that he has always been opposed to any provisions in the bill providing for the issuance of stock.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not in his presence Dean Lewis did not say that he stood for this provision?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, Dean Lewis said in my presence that he thought that the Attorney General had worked out a very good compromise of the proposition, but for his part he believed there should be no provision in the laws on that subject, but that in deference to the Attorney General he had decided to go along with him on the provisions of this bill. The gentleman from Philadelphia contends that this subject should be taken care of with a blue-sky law and I want to call attention to the fact of the blue-sky law that this House passed last night especially exempting public service corporations, and I want to say this, that I think that the people who are interested in preventing the insertion of this amendment had a hand in the drafting of the blue-sky law which we passed last night. The arguments that are made against this bill are purely arguments from the standpoint of the public service corporations, and the arguments that are made are naturally made by attorney, one representing the public service corporations of the State. There are two sides presented her. One is as to the inconvenience to the public service corporations, and the other the expense to the State. I am surprised that the gentleman from Delaware would contend for one moment that the question of expense should be eliminated from this bill when he said that the question of expense should not interfere in any way in the passage of the Fire Marshal Bill that required the expenditure of some three hundred thousand dollars. Under the same argument, we might abolish our Courts, and eliminate their control and jurisdiction, and abolish other offices in the different departments of the State of Pennsylvania. The State of Pennsylvania has a duty to perform, and that duty is to protect the people from the unjust revenue from watered stock, and the only way it can be done is by this provision. Only a few days ago, I heard one of the men who has taken a very important part in the drafting of this bill, when the question of the position of the public service companies was being pointed out to him declare with reference to the purchase of stock, "Let the people beware." He contended that the State had nothing to do with the protecting of the people from a fraudulent or watered stock issue. I say there are only two sides to this question, and the two sides are the two pointed out to us to-day in the address of the eminent Secretary of State. We have a choice here between aristocracy and plutocracy and democracy. We have the choice between the control of the public service corporations of this State and the control of the rights of the people, and our responsibility to the people is on the side of the amendment that will make these men finally do what is proper, and the arguments on the other side of the question are merely the arguments of the convenience of the public service corporations of the state. I trust that the House will for once,—I do not mean for once—but I hope they will do in this case as they have done repeatedly in this session of the Legislature, stand on the side of the people and give them the protection to which they are entitled by this amendment.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am not responsible, of course, for the understanding of the gentleman from Crawford as to what Mr. Lewis said, but I want to say that he said in the presence of the Committee that of course he was not in favor of that drastic measure, but was in full sympathy and hearty support of the provisions as contained in this bill. In answer to what the gentleman from Philadelphia said, in regard to the report of the National Commission, I want to say that the very thing he read provides that these temporary loans, so-called, that they shall have ten days to make these returns. Then I want to read to the House what the Commission did say in relation to loans of this character and in regard to the provisions of this bill. I do not want the House to be misinformed. Here is what the Commission said in its report, which will be found on page 16. "Your commissioner nevertheless prefers the second alternative and doubts the expediency under the present conditions of a general law forbidding railroads to sell securities without specific authorization in advance." That second proposition means the proposition that is contained in the provisions of this bill. Now, in answer to the proposition of my friend from Philadelphia who holds that there is no revision or control over these bonds or loans secured for terms of less than one year, or twelve months, as is the language of the bill. Now the gentlemen know that no bonds are issued for a term of one year by any public utilities corporation. They never have been issued in the ordinary course of business but in the conduct of their affairs they sometime need a temporary loan. Now, the Constitution provides the following, and if you will read the Constitution of our State you will read these facts: "No corporation shall issue stocks or bonds except for money, labor done, or property actually received." Now, if these corporations should make a temporary loan, as I term it, in other words, a loan of less than twelve months. I do not want the House to have the impression that they cannot be punished under this bill.

Any wrong-doing on their part calls for a maximum imprisonment of five years and a maximum penalty of five thousand dollars, and the same punishment as is provided for in this bill for permanent loans is meted out in case of any rascality in the temporary loans, so that the gentleman from Pittsburgh, while he may understand the bill as it is presented to the House, he certainly is incorrect in the amendment he proposes to this bill. This class of loans is as carefully protected under the present bill, and more so, than it would be under his proposed amendment, and I again want to call the attention of the House to the fact that the gentleman was certainly wrong so far as the temporary loans are concerned, and that the provision did not require any statement to be filed within ten days. In my judgment the public would be as well protected under this bill as under the amendment offered.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I will.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire as to whether or not it is a fact that the Hadley Commission Report is based solely upon the expediency and advisability of the Federal Government undertaking to control the issuing of stocks and bonds of corporations not created under the Federal law.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I did not quite understand the question of the gentleman from Crawford.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I will try to state the question more briefly. Is it not a fact that the Commission Report does not advise in any way against the provisions embraced in this amendment in State laws?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would say this to the House, that as I read the report, and have read it, I gather the impression without a doubt that they have graved out, that they have disagreed in the purposes presented in the amendment of the gentleman from Crawford, and I cannot make it plainer than to refer to their own language on page sixteen of the Report. There is their own language where they argued the provisions contained in this bill. If the gentleman does not think this is correct, I am not responsible for his conclusion, but I do hold myself responsible for the conclusions that I draw from their report which was, no doubt, published at the expense of the National Government. It is here for all of us to read, and if the gentleman does not approve of the conclusions drawn there, I am not responsible.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the House to the Hadley Report, which has been cited in this debate, and which has absolutely no application to the question involved here. It is true that this Commission in its conclusions argued something similar to the conclusions embraced in this bill but they did it for this reason, because of the fact that the Federal Government, not creating Interstate Commerce carriers by Federal law, could not have the facilities to properly regulate the issuance of stocks and bonds, and on page thirteen of that Report, I want to call the attention of the House to the reasons: "So long as the railways engaged in interstate commerce are chartered by the States and subject to State laws regarding their securities, added Federal restrictions will tend to create further confusion in a situation already too complex." and further they say: "Recent attempts to capitalize expected profits in connection with other public service corporations, or with industrials do not come within the scope of this inquiry. A Federal law requiring full payment of all stock issued, without special machinery to enforce it, could be evaded as State laws have been evaded in the past. In fact, the liability to evasion might be greater because in some parts of the country a statutory requirement of this kind imposed by the Federal Government would be regarded as an interference with the rights of the several States; and local companies attempting to build new lines with stock not fully paid might have the support of local public sentiment in so doing. It is possible that in some instances the Federal Government could not even count upon the vigorous assistance of the State authorities themselves in trying to enforce such an act at all rigidly. Such a Federal requirement superadded to the State requirement might simply mean that every company would be led to make two deceptive returns instead of one. A Federal requirement conflicting with a State requirement might leave us in a even worse case; for the impossibility of obeying both authorities would be made an excuse of obeying neither. This would clearly be true until the paramount authority of the Federal Government was established."

Mr. SPEAKER, the States to-day have jurisdiction over these companies, and this commission intimates in that report that if the Federal Government had jurisdiction over the public service corporations that this might be a very proper division; but in the absence of that control and supervision they think it is inexpedient for the Federal Government to undertake it.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that this proposition has been debated at considerable length this afternoon. I will, of necessity, be very brief in what I have to say, but it is plain to all persons who have followed this bill that even the most vigorous advocates of this stock amendment consider this a very excellent public utilities bill, so that the only point of difference as far as the House is concerned, is on this proposed stock amendment. It does seem to me that on this stock amendment wherein the investor is sought to be given special protection that we can very well assume that the investing public are not the gullible public that will buy everything and anything in the way of stock and that they are capable, as a rule, of judgment and discretion and that the ultra conservative investor, among them the widow, that my friend from Philadelphia speaks about, who wants to be absolutely sure that her little pittance shall be invested in gilt-edge security, would use the very easy alternative of buying the bonds on the stock, but it might very well be eliminated for the moment as the conversative investor who is given his or her protection by the certificate of valuation of stock, and it might be that under certain business exigencies it might be required for the putting through of some worthy business transaction where haste would be of the very essence of the transaction and there would be no time to get the commission to issue its certificate of valuation in that stock and which company might not be concerned in selling its stock broadcast to the public. It seems to me in this connection we have a very easy proposition to solve as to which provision before us we shall retain in the bill. As it now stands, because the conservative investor has protection and if he gives proper business energy and proper business exigency it is right to put through this business deal without any particular delay. We are seeking here, it seems to me to get absolute protection and the thought is pooh poohed that the jail sentence is going to prevent the issue of fraudulent stock. That leads back to the whole proposition of our social order in which every man in this House rests secure in the thought that it gives to that man protection because of the fact and the assertion that the man would not be prevented by a jail sentence, and because of that it is absolutely an essential on us to put in the amendments suggested by the gentleman from Crawford, on the ground that water stock people are absolutely fearless of a jail sentence. It seems to me that absolute protection is given to everybody by this bill from the fact that the man who would water stock could be very readily found out and it would soon be dicovered whether or not he was watering stock. It seems to me to follow in the footsteps of our distinguished friend from Crawford who quoted from the words of the Secretary of State a moment ago, that it would be well to bear in mind that we have here a well-balanced bill. However, much all persons concerned may have been guided by their own best judgment and by experience, they have gathered in these two years that which will best protect the investor who wishes to be protected and then benefiting the business enterprises, yet all under proper restrictions and restraint, and quoting from the words of the Secretary of State. "I find that only those who are in error need to win at once." Those who are right can wait. It seems to me that this bill gives ample protection and if our penitentiaries in the next two years are crowded with watering stock directors then the Legislature can make changes that may be necessary. This, it seems to me, is a well-balanced bill drawn up by men who were actuated by desires to protect all the people as well as the industries of the State.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I don't rise to discuss this bill in any particular, but simply to express my admiration for the manner in which the question at issue has just been stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney. It seems to me that if we were to stay here all evening, that the meat of this situation; that the question as it is, could not be better stated than he has stated it in a few sentences. Therefore, desiring to conserve the time of this House, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members:

Messrs. Adams, Alworth, R. J. Baldwin, Conrade, Cox, Currier, Curry, Flynn, Gransback, Heyburn, Josiah Howard, H. H. Irwin, Leslie, Morrow, North, Ramsey, Sassaman, Snyder, Speiser, Strauss, Ulerich, Whitaker, Wiltbank, Zimmerman and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question.

On the question,

Shall the main question be put?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. On the question of the adoption of the amendments under consideration, a roll call has been demanded, those in favor of the amendment will vote aye, those opposed, no.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HUMES and Mr. MATT.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I call for the verification of the roll.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

Gramley,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question, recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Aritcle III, Section 4, page 23, line 47. Amend by inserting the following after the word "redeemed:"

"All of the foregoing provisions relating to certificates of notification shall apply to notes or evidences of indebtedness running for periods of twelve months or less evidences of ining or repledging of stocks, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness to secure such notes or other evidence of indebtedness running for periods of twelve months or less, except that such certificates may be filed within ten days after the issuance thereof instead of on or prior to the date of such issuance."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, in relation to the amendment which has just been read, I desire to say but a word. The bill, commencing at line 28 on page 22, has followed literally the suggestions made by the report of the railroad securities commission to the president up to the word "redeemed," following those recommendations verbatim. The provision which is now handed up is an amendment corresponding with a further recommendation and is in the language used by the commission and is for the purpose which was suggested a moment ago in relation to the paragraph, or the section as a whole, so that the report which is filed by a corporation shall be a true report and not a false report, that the indebtedness which is a floating indebtedness whether evidenced by script or short time notes, or by what not, the indebtedness which has one year or less to run shall appear in the report. Otherwise, as was suggested a short time ago, Mr. Speaker, thousands, tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of indebtedness can be and would be concealed without this provision thrown in. Now, if it be for the matter of protection, we have failed now in having the corporations make a statement, or rather the commission's taking charge of those corporations and build up from the ground. But isn't it fair, and should not the corporation be compelled, when it files its report, to at least file a true report? If the short time indebtedness does not appear, then the report is false. If the report be false, then the people who are acting in the verly best faith on this commission, fails to carry out with any honest purpose the very conditions which it is called upon face to face to meet and thereby protect the public. This amendment is simple as can be and simply covers that floating indebtedness which can be, and as many members of this House perhaps know to their sorrow, has been time and time again concealed; and I defy the sponsor of the bill or any other member on the floor of this House to point out in any section of this bill where there is the provision provided for in this amendment, as made or as provided for in the bill as it now stands. If you want such a provision in, the only manner in which you can get it in is to accept this amendment. If you want this bill left open so that it may be worked out on a dishonest, unfair and unjust basis, both to the people and to the commission, then and in that event refuse the injection of this amendment.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the very natural reason for not putting that amendment in, is that it would be absolutely an absurd nuisance; every time a public service company wanted to go to bank and borrow fifty dollars it would have to file a notification certificate. It is intended to cover all of these things such as minor transactions. In the ordinary course of business it would be intolerably clogged if it had to go through that rigamorole of going to the Commission. Now there is a provision in our present constitutional law to be considered. Our Constitution provides that where a corporation desires to increase its indebtedness it must get the consent of its stockholders and that consent cannot be waived. But in the ordinary transaction of business, the issuance of ordinary promissory notes, it has been held and very clearly held that the consent to the stockholders is not necessary. Thus a very clear distinction exists in our law ever since the constitution of 1874, between a real increase of indebtedness and between the issuance of short time securities in the ordinary course of business, and it is simply to carry out that same distinction that it is desired that the amendment be not included. I want to emphasize what I said before, that where the provisions of our present law are in force, they have not anything to do with the securities and stocks and bonds issued for short term of one year.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as a whole?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section of article III was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 5 Upon the approval of the Commission evidenced by its Certificate of Public Convenience first had and obtained and not otherwise it shall be lawful for any railroad corporation or street railway corporation to construct its tracks or other facilities across the tracks or other facilities of any other railroad corporation or street railway corporation or across any public highway at grade or above or below grade or for any public service company to construct any of its facilities across the facilities of any road corporation or street railway corporation at grade or above or below grade or for any public service company to construct any of its facilities across the facilities of any other public service company at the same or different levels And it shall be lawful upon like approval first had and obtained and not otherwise for any public service company to alter re-locate remove or abolish any such crossing Provided however that in all cases in which the tracks or other facilities of a railroad corporation or street railway corporation cross the tracks ofother facilities of another railroad corporation or street railway corporation or a public highway at grade and such crossing it at the time this act becomes effective in process of abolition under and in accordance with an agreement or contract entered into with any municipality providing for such abolition it shall be lawful to proceed with the consummation of such abolition as provided in such agreement or contract without the aforesaid approval of the Commission first being obtained

The sixth section of Article three was then read as follows:

Section 6 It shall be unlawful for any public service company

(a) To capitalize its franchises rights powers privileges or right to own and operate or enjoy any such franchises rights and powers or privileges in excess of the amount paid to the State or any political sub-division thereof as the consideration for the grant thereof or to capitalize any lease or contract of sale or contract for consolidatoin or merger of two or more public service companies or to issue by way of substitution any capital stock trust certificates or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities for any consolidated or merged company exceeding the aggregate values of the properties of the companies so consolidated or merged and any additional sum actually paid in cash and any additional property or labor actually contributed Provided that any such public service company or companies may apply to the Commission to determine such consideration or value aforesaid

(b) In the case of any reorganization under the provisions of the Act of Assembly approved the eighth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one entitled "An Act concerning the sale of railroads canals turnpikes bridges and plank roads" or any supplement thereto or amendment thereof to issue any stock trust certificates bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities in excess of the amount paid to the State or any political-subdivision thereof as the consideration for the grant of any franchises rights powers or privileges and the value of the property of suuch reorganized corporation (and any additional sum actually paid in cash and any additional properties or labor actually contributed) Provided that any such public service company may apply to the Commission to determine such consideration or value aoresaid

(c) To purchase acquire take or hold either in absolute ownership or in pledge or as collarteral security directly or indirectly any controlling right title or interest legal or equitable in the capital stock bonds trust certificates securities or other evidences of indebtedness issued by or other public service company without the consent and approval of the Commission but the purchase taking and holding aforesaid of any right title or interest in any such capital stock bonds trust certificates securities or other evidences of indebtedness or of any other right title or interest in any other public service company which shall amount to less than the aforesaid controlling right title or interest of any nature or kind shall be lawful without the approval of the Commission so far as the same may be lawful under existing laws provided however that nothing in this act shall be construed to affect the holding of stock bonds trust certificates securities or other evidences of indebtedness heretofore legally acquired and held or in any way diminish lessen or impair the rights of a public service company as a holder of such stocks trust certificates bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities heretofore acquired and held or to prevent the future acquisition of such stocks trust certificates bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities of a public service company where the major interest therein has been acquired and held by a public service company prior to the date when this act shall become effective or to prevent the future acquisition holding or cancellation by a public service company of trust certificates bonds notes or other evidences of indebtedness or other securities secured by stock theretofore legally acquired and owned by a public service company and pledged as security therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the sixth section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 6, Article III, line 6, by striking out the word "State" and inserting the word "Commonwealth."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend House Bill 183, file folio 8227, Article III, Section 6, sub-section "c," by striking out all of subsection "c" commencing with the word "but" in line 38 down to and including the last word of the subsection on line 61.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I do not care to discuss that matter at length, but I do not think it is fair to pass this section without letting the House know what it provides for and I have offered the amendment for that purpose and the portion of the section which is proposed to be stricken out is that which authorizes or legalizes the monopoly of public service companies and if you want to legalize monopolies the provisions of the bill cover that, but if you are opposed to legalizing monopolies then this amendment ought to be incorporated in the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the sixth section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The seventh section of Article three was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 7 It shall be unlawful for any public service company after the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and fourteen to render or furnish or to offer to render or furnish within this Commonwealth any service of the kind or character rendered or furnished by it until it shall have filed and posted its tariffs and schedules in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (e) of section one of article two

The eighth section of Article three was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 8 It shall be unlawful for any public service company

(a) To charge demand collect or receive directly or indirectly by any special rate rebate drawback abatement or other device whatsoever from any person or corporation for any service rendered or to be rendered a geater or less compensation or sum than it shall demand charge collect or receive from any other person or corporation for a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under substantially similar circumstances and conditions

Provided however that where as the result of a bona fide mistake or error of a common carrier the full tariff charges are not collected in the first instance and the balance is subsequently found to be due and outstanding the collection of such balance may be waived by the carrier provided the matter is submitted to the Commission and its approval of such waiver is first had and obtained

(b) To make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or charge in favor of or to any person or corporation or any locality or any particular kind or desciption of taffic or service in any respect whatsoever or to subject any particular person or corporation or locality or any particular kind or description of traffic or service to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever

The ninth section of Article three was read as follows:

Section 9 It shall be unlawful for any common carrier (a) To charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the conveyance of passengers or property of the same class for a shorter than for a longe distance ove the same line in the same direction the shorter being included within the longer distance or unless specially authorized by the Commission to charge any greater compensation as a through rate than the aggregate of the intermediate rates but this shall not be construed as authorizing any common carrier to charge and receive as great a compensation for a shorter as for a longer distance provided however that nothing in this section contained shall prohibit common carriers from establishing reasonable zone systems of charges.

(b) To knowingly assist suffer or permit any person or corporation to obtain transportation for any passengers or property between points within this Commonwealth at less than the rates established by such common carrier or by order of the Commission by means of false billing false classification false weight or weighing or false report of weight or by any other means or device whatsoever

Any common carrier may however issue at special rates of fare excursion and commutation tickets but before any common carrier may issue any such excursion or commutation tickets it shall file with the Commission and shall post in the same manner as required by this act in the case of other rates or charges copies of the tariffs or schedules of the rates fares or charges on which such tickets are to be based and issued and any common carrier may grant free passes or passes at a discount to any officer or employe or such carrier

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend House Bill 183, file folio 8227, page 29, article III, section 9, sub-section "a" by striking out all of said section after the word "distance" in line 11.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentlemen who are saying "no" why they are saying it, if they know what this section is like. Mr. Speaker, this is the section that provides for the establishment of zone systems of fares for street cars and while it probably affects you gentlemen from the larger cities more than it does those of us that come from the smaller localities, yet I scarcely think the time has come when we would care to open the door to permit anything but a uniform charge for street car fares in our cities and this opens up the question so that there can be zones established in the cities and have different charges of fares to different parts of the city, and it strikes me that it is a step that this Legislature would scarcely care to take, even though they are wedded to this bill without regard to its provisions, simply because of its author, and I move the adoption of the amendment.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was not agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the ninth section?

It was agreed to.

The tenth section of Article three was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 10 It shall be unlawful for any telephone or telegraph corporation or person or persons engaged in like business to charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transmission of any message or conversation for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line or route in the same direction the shorter being included within the longer distance or unless specially authorized by the Commission to charge any greater compensation as a through rate than the aggregate of the intermediate rates but this shall not be construed as authorizing any such telephone or telegraph corporation person or persons engaged in like business to charge and receive as great a compensation for a shorter as for a longer distance Upon application to the Commission the Commission may in special cases after investigation authorize such telephone or telegraph corporation or person or persons engaged in like business to charge less for a longer than for a shorter distance but the order must specify and prescribe the extent to which relief from the operation of this section is given provided that nothing in this section contained shall prohibit telephone or telegraph corporations from establishing reasonable zone systems of charges

The eleventh section of Article three was read as follows:

Section 11 A municipal corporation shall have power whenever the Commission shall have refused the application of such municipal corporation to operate any plant or other facilities for the rendering or furnishing of any service to the public of a kind or character already being rendered or furnished by any public service company to the inhabitants of the said municipal corporation to purchase and acquire the property of such public service company at a valuation to be determined by the Commission under section 19, of article five of this act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Article III, section 11, line 9, page 30, by striking out the word "nineteen" and insereing in lieu thereof the word "twenty-one."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer further amendments to this section.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Page 30. Amend Article 3, section 11, line 1 by striking out the word "whenever" strike out lines 2 and 3, 4, 5, 6 and down to and including words "Municipal Corporation" in line 7.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I expected to hear "noes" before rising but unlike the gentleman from Crawford I will not inquire why, but I will suggest why these amendments should go in. If you read the section as it stands, before a municipal corporation shall have the power to purchase it shall have applied to the commission to establish a public service corporation and have been refused; afterwards it may purchase. Now is there any reason for that? Is there any reason why any municipality within this great Commonwealth, if the people of that municipality see fit so to do and can arrange with any public service corporation,—why that municipality should not have the right to purchase. If you say "no," you will have answered why this amendment should not be injected into the bill. If you say there is no reason why they should not have the right of purchase, then you will have answered why the amendment should be injected into the bill. The bill as it reads, says:

A municipal corporation shall have power whenever the Commission shall have refused the application of such municipal corporation to operate any plant or other facilities for the rendering or furnishing of any service to the public of a kind or character already being rendered or furnished by any public service company to the inhabitants of the said municipal corporation to purchase and acquire the property of such public service company at a valuation to be determined by the Commission under section nineteen of article five of this act

Now by striging out, as we suggest in this amendment, what have you? "A municipal corporation shall have power to purchase and acquire the property of such public service company at a valuation to be determined by the commission under section twenty-one of article five of this act."

And, Mr. Speaker, under the provisions of the amendment which has been offered, I purpose that the House shall intelligently vote upon this amendment. The provision as laid down in the bill as it now stands means this and nothing more: that if in the City of Harrisburg, or any other municipality within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania there already be established a public service corporation such as a street car line in this city, and that street car line fails to give the service that the people of this community think they should have, this municipality cannot, Mr. Speaker, this municipality cannot either establish, if you please, Mr. Speaker, a competing company to oppose that company to serve the people. It must apply to the Commission first. But if that Commission says, in its exceedingly great wisdom, if that Commission says that the City of Harrisburg cannot establish a company to compete with that local company, then and in that event, providing all the other conditions are met, the company can be acquired. Now what have you? What have you? You have simply this, Mr. Speaker, and nothing more. You have an absolutely false price fixed upon this corporation which already has their corporate rights and franchises established within any municipality within this great Commonwealth. You have that why? Because of the fact that the Commission can either say aye or no to the appeals of any community and every time that they say no you cannot enter this field. And, mark you, that is left open, absolutely open, to that Commission established in this bill. Every time they do that they create one more monopoly in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and set their stamp of approval upon it. What does it do so far as that corporation as to the relation that corporation bears to the outside world, if you please, Mr. Speaker? If the Commission has once turned down the appeal of any municipality of this great Commonwealth to enter into competition with any public service corporation within its limits, when it has turned it down once, thereby a false price is fixed, if you please, upon the stock of the company which is then operating and which is protected from any competing company by the act of the Public Service Commission. Is that fair? Is that fair to any community. Is there a member upon the floor of this House, I care not what may have happened, is there any member upon the floor of this House who will say, into the hands of the Commission we give the authority to create a monopoly in relation to every public service corporation in every municipality now in existence in this Commonwealth? If you want to go home and face your constituents under such circumstances, dare to vote down this amendment. If you are here responsible to the people whom you represent and in order to serve their interests, if you are here and want to say to the people whom you represent that when you can arrange under conditions which are justly fair at any time, with any corporation which exists in your municipality, if you can arrange to purchase, you have the absolute right under this bill. Will any gentleman, Mr. Speaker, the sponsor of this bill or anyone else upon the floor of this House tell me why, under the provisions of this bill this enormous power, this vital, this far reaching power, should be granted to any Commission to stifle the rights of action of a community and say first to that community that you have been refused by this Commission before you can even purchase a corporate right which exists in your midst, and which the corporation may be willing to sell and you may be willing to buy. And yet that is absolutely and positively what is done, and you cannot read in it, you cannot read into it any other construction. I read again just as it would stand if the elimination is made that is asked for by this amendment: I read you the bill. "A municipal corporation shall have power to purchase and acquire all the property of such public service company at a value to be determined by the Commission under section 21, or article 5 of this act." And that municipal corporation does not have to be refused the right to enter a competing company before it does that, and why should it?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny seem to me to be perfectly proper if he were against the provisions of this bill. If we have not in our innermost hearts confidence in the Executive of this State to appoint a Commission, known as the Public Service Commission, that will be an honest, fair, just and reasonable commission, then we had better not pass the bill. Under the present common law the municipality has the right to purchase a public service corporation, like a water works company, and section 21 provides that it shall purchase it at a valuation fixed by the Commission. Now the section which he undertakes to amend is to meet another exigency. We will say that a municipality has in it a public service corporation and does not desire to purchase it in the first instance, but desires to enter into competition with it and create a new utility of its own volition. After we have regulated the rates of public service corporations they ought to be reasonably protected in the use of their rights. So this bill provides that when a municipalty wants to establish a public service operation in opposition to the one already existing that they must apply to the commission for a certificate of public convenience. If after a fair honest investigation by the Commission, the Commission decides that the municipality is not large enough, or for other reasons, that the Commission thinks it would not be wise to allow the municipality to create another one, they would so decide. Then the municipality has another recourse, and can come back and say, we will purchase the existing utility at a valuation as provided for in section 21 of this bill. Now, it seems to me that this is a perfectly fair and reasonable circumstance and would not tend to create any monopoly as the gentleman would have us believe.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. I will.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Tioga why the provision then is made in this section as suggested that the municipality may purchase the corporation, the public service corporation?

Mr. ROCKWELL. It may purchase it in a sense when the Commission has stated that it is unwise for the municipality to enter into competition and there would not be room for two. Then it provides that it can take over the existing one.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not if the Commission has stated to the municipality which has applied for rights to exercise the same privileges and rights exercised by the then existingg public service corporation, whether or not after that refusal is made the value of the then existing corporation would not be increased.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it would not if you have an honest public service commission and can trust them in the exercise of their duties.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman further if this is the only provision in this bill which allows municipal corporations to apply to the public service commission for rights to exercise public service corporation rights.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it is as I recall it. They do not have to under the present common law right.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, does this provision apply when if there by not then existing public service corporation within that municipality.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, no, it would not.

Mr. ALLEN. Then, Mr. Speaker, there must be another provision in relation to municipalities establishing public service corporations.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, the municipality under the present common law now has the right to do this.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, under the common law, I ask the gentleman if a municipality has not the right to purchase now?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, Then I ask the gentleman why it is that the municipality should first apply to the commission and refused a right to establish something which they now have the right to do before they can purchase?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, because it is a peculiar species of condemnation to give them the right of eminent domain in a larger sense than now.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not the provision as made in this section does not establish an absolute monopoly for the public service corporations now in existence, any public service corporation?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if I thought so, I would not vote for the bill.

Mr. SAMUEL B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, it is my clear belief that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny has emanated from a total misunderstanding of the section as it now stands. This section is not for the purpose of giving the city the power to purchase, the power which it unquestionably has, and nobody here would wish for a minute to take it away. The purpose of this section is to give it the power to purchase it at a fixed price against the wish of the corporation. In other words, it is enlarging the powers of the municipal corporation to take against its will the property of the public utilities corporation. Now that is very carefully guarded as you will find by a reference to the section carried on to section 19, article 5, which states it at large and completely the method that the Commission shall follow in getting at the value so that there is no possible danger or any increase in valuation on account of what the gentleman says is in the section, but it is no restriction of the power of the public service corporation, but it enlarges the power of the public service corporation to condemn, and when you are giving such a tremendous increase of power, it is, of course, proper that you should restrict it to such cases where the Commission for some reason or other has said to the municipal corporation that it shall not compete by erecting a public utility corporation of its own. It has two methods of procedure—either to ask the Commission to allow it to build its own public service utilities, or if for any reason the Commision says that it is not proper to compete with this public service corporation, then this bill gives the Commission power of condemnation and the power of placing a value upon the corporation, and giving it over into the control of the municipality.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia whether or not the city has any authority as a city to condemn the public utilities?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, they have so far as the rights of corporations are concerned.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask is that power given by statute or is it the power under the common law?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, by a number of specific cases and by statute under other cases. By common law, it would require a whole digest to go into it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the gentleman if the whole right that the common law gives the municipalities in relation to the public services, has a right of condemnation and not of purchase?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, my answer to that is absolutely no. A municipality can buy anything which it has the power to own and to operate.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman if the whole power is a constitutional power which is granted to them under the constitution, a power which is granted by the Legislature?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I call for a yea and nay vote.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. BERGEY and were as follows:

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn until ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, out of regard to our Democratic brethren and in the hope that they may hear something that will do them good I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and at 6.25 P. M. the House adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, MAY 14, 1913. No. 66.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, May 14, 1913.

The Senate met at 10 o'clock.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. D. P. Gerberich) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

"They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion which cannot be removed, but abideth forever." Help us to realize, O Lord, that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul." Help each one of us to say at this time, "My will is mine to make it Thine." Be Thou our Guide throughout this, another day; give Thine angels charge concerning us. And now, O Lord, once more we bow in submission to the Eternal Will. Again, and yet again, very recently our hearts have been shocked as one by one a colleague has gone from us. And now the sad tidings reach us again that one whose hand we have clasped in fraternity has been called to eternity. Help us to realize the lesson. Be Thou with those who gather around the desolate hearthstone—the father gone. Help us to act, and act in the living present, heart within and God overhead. We ask it in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senators being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 841 (House Bill No. 701), as follows:

An Act establishing a commisison of water works in boroughs and incorporated towns of this Commonwealth providing for the appointment of commissioners of water works and prescribing their powers and duties

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in boroughs or incorporated towns of this Commonwealth owning and maintaining water works or which shall hereafter acquire and maintain water works there may be establishel a commission of water works to be composed of three citizens of said borough or incorporated town who shall be known as Commisioners of Water Works

Section 2 Any borough or incorporated town within this Commonwealth desiring to avail itself of the provisions of this act shall by resolution duly passed by council and recorded in its minutes apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the proper county for the appointment of commissioners of water works

Section 3 It shall be the duty of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas upon application of any incorporated town or borough council as aforesaid to appoint such commissioners of water works one of whom shall be appointed to serve for one year one for two years and one for three years and annually thereafter the judges of said court shall appoint one citizen to serve as a commission of water works for a term of three years In case of a vacancy the said court shall fill the same for the unexpired term thereof Such commissioners of water works shall not receive salary for their services but shall be paid all such sums necessarly expended in the performance of their duty Provided however That after three years from the first appointment under this act the borough or town council may at any time rescind the resolution asking for the appointment of a commissioner of water works When such resolution shall be so rescinded the court shall make no further appointment of commissioner of water works until a resolution shall again be passed by council asking for such appointment

Section 4 It shall be the duty of the commisisoners of water works in each borough or incorporated town of the Commonwealth where a commission of water works is established to meet within ten days after their appointment and annually thereafter and organize by electing a president and secretary

Section 5 It shall be the duty of said commissioners after having duly organized to take full charge and control of the water works of such borough or incorporated town Said commissioners shall have power to appoint all necessary officers and agents and take from them respectively such security for the faithful performance of their duty as they shall deem proper and to fix the salaries and wages of such officers and agents to provide for the repair extension improvement and maintenance of said water works and the erection of new water works subject to the provisions of existing laws to collect water rents and to make and establish the rates terms and conditions upon which water will be furnished to applicants therefor and to make by-laws rules and regulations for the economical and efficient management and protection of said water works

Section 6 The council of any borough or incorporated town within this Commonwealth may upon request of the commissioners of water works issue bonds for the extension of water works or the erection of new water works Said bonds shall be issued in the form and manner now provided for by law and shall be designated "water works bonds" They shall be delivered to said commissioners from time to time upon their requisition after the commencement of the work for the payment of which such bonds were issued Each such requisition shall be accompanied by a detailed statement of the work done and materials purchased Said bonds shall not be sold for less than par and the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the purposes for which said bonds were issued and no other

Section 7 The said commissioners shall prepare plans and specifications of all work to be performed and materials necessary for the repair maintenance and extension of such water works or the erection of new water works and shall after plans and specifications for the extension of water works or the erection of new water works have been submitted to and approved by the Department of Health in accordance with the provisions of an act of Assembly approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand nine hundred and five entitled "An Act to preserve the purity of the waters of the State for the protection of the public health" and a permit granted therefor by the Commissioner of Health by due public notice invite proposals for the performing of such work and the furnishing of such materials and shall in all cases let the contracts therefor to the lowest responsible bidder and shall take adequate security for the performance of such contracts

Section 8 Said commissioners shall make a monthly report to the council of the borough or incorporated town of the receipts and disbursements during the preceding month and annually make a detailed report of the condition of said water works which shall be published by the council of said borough or incorporated town for the information of the public Said commisisoners shall cause all moneys collected to be deposited weekly by the collectors with the borough treasurer who shall return a receipt therefor to the said commissinoners All moneys so collected shall be kept in a separate fund and shall be used for the purpose of repairing maintaining and extending said water works the erection of new water works or the payment of any indebtedness on said water works and for no other purpose No money shall be drawn from said fund except upon order countersigned by the president and secretary of said commission

Section 9 All by-laws rules and regulations not inconsistent with the laws of the Commonwealth the rules and regulations of the Department of Health or the Water Supply Commission when made by said commissioners shall have the force and effect of ordinances of said borough or incorporated town and the penalties imposed thereby shall be collected in the same manner as penalties imposed by incorporated town or borough ordinances are now by law collected

Section 10 Whenever two or more boroughs or any borough and township having united in the construction or acquisition and maintenance of water works or hereafter uniting for the purpose of constructing or acquiring and maintaining water works desire to avail themselves of the provisions of this act the councils of such boroughs and the commissioners or supervisors of such townships shall by joint action after ordinance or resolution duly passed apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the proper county for the appointment of a commission of water works in accordance with this act Said commission shall be composed of citizens of each of said boroughs and townships so uniting

Section 11 All acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent with this act are repealed but this repeal shall not become effective in any borough or incorporated town until the authorities thereof shall by appropriate ordinance accept the provisions of this act Provided always however That anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding the act of Assembly entitled "An Act authorizing the erection of water works in the borough or Sewickley by commissioners and the issue of borough bonds and the levy of a special water tax" approved February twenty-first one thousand eight hundred and seventy three (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and forty-seven) shall in no wise be affected or repealed by this act

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, when this bill came from the House, it was referred to Committee in the Senate and some objections were lodged to it in regard to the power of the Commissioners to be appointed by the Court. I now submit to the members of the Senate that the Water Commission of the State and Health Board of which Doctor Dixon is head, took this bill and proposed amendments which have now been inserted in it and every objectionable feature that could be raised to this bill I submit has been remedied and it is a proper bill for this Senate to pass upon. The purpose of this bill is that whenever a council of a borough or a city see fit to ask the Court to appoint as commissioners men of authority and knowledge with regard to water to take charge of their water works, the Court can upon their application under proper ordinance, appoint these commissioners for a period of three years. At the end of three years, on account of the municipal officers now serving four years, if the town council or borough desire to ask the Court not to appoint commissioners again, they can so do and the Court will under that resolution have to refuse to appoint the commissioners and let the water works be run by the borough authorities again. Now that authority of the water commissioners is limited entirely by existing laws so far as it refers to the jurisdiction of the Water Commission of the State and the Health Department and I submit that a municipality should have the authority if it so desires to ask the Court to appoint commissioners to take charge of its water works. It is the desire of several of the municipalities of the County of Schuylkill to do so and I do not see any objection on the principle that each borough should have the right of home rule and to be ruled by a commission form of government if it so desires. I can't see any objection to this bill. There has been objection made that the power of the Commissioners regarding the rules and regulations have the same potency as an act of Assembly. That has been stricken out of the bill and the bill simply gives the right to the Court to appoint commissioners and they shall run the water works subject to the Water Commission and the Health Department of the State.

An Act to classify certain surface lands as auxiliary forest reserves to prescribe the terms and conditions for their continuance in said classification or their withdrawal therefrom and to provide for the expenses attendant thereon

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in order to encourage the growing of such trees now existing or hereafter produced as will at the proper age be suitable for merchantable forest products whether such be of natural reproduction or from seed sown or trees planted out or all combined surface land which may be set apart according to the provisions of this act and exclusively used for growing such trees is hereby constituted a separate and distinct class of land to be known as auxiliary forest reserves

Section 2 When any owner of surface land desires to have such land placed in the class established by section one of this act such owner shall notify the "State Forestry Reservation Commission" of his desire in the manner and form to be prescribed by said Commission Said notice shall contain a description of the land its location boundary area and character and shall state as far as practicable the species character and condition of the trees growing thereon and whether they are of natural reproduction or are from seed sown for the purpose or have been set out on said land or all combined and such other information as the Commission may require If upon receipt and consideration of this notice the Commission shall in its discretion deem the conditions such as to warrant action on its part to determine whether such land should rightfully be placed in the class established by section one of this act it shall cause the same to be examined by some person learned in the practice and principles of forestry and a report made thereon and if upon receipt and consideration of such report it decides that such land should be placed in the class established by section one of this act it shall so declare and certify to the commissioners of the county in which said land is located

Section 3 Upon receipt by the county commissioners of such certificate of the Commission it shall be their duty at once to place said surface land in the class established by section one of this act and keep the same therein until the trees growing thereon shall in the judgment of the Commission become sufficiently large and suitable for merchantable forest products or the land be devoted to other purposes provided however that the certificate of the decomission shall not become operative to place said surface land in the class established by section one of this act until the owner of said surface land has agreed in writing with the Commission to care for the trees growing thereon according to the instructive and directions of the Commission up to such time as such trees become suitable for merchantable forest products and if any such owner at any time fails to care for the trees growing on said land as agreed with the Commission and due proof thereof is made the Commission may remove said surface land from the class established by section one of this act In case of such removal either through failure of the owner to care tor the trees or on his expressed desire for removal before the trees shall have been cut at maturity and tax paid thereon the county commissioners shall on notice from the Commission proceed to recover from said owner for the of the county and township by an appropriate action at law if necessary the difference in the amount of tax which would have been paid by the said owner at the rates established for the years for which recovery is sought and the rate provided for auxiliary forest reserves with costs of suit to be recoverable from the time when such land was placed in the class of auxiliary forest reserves And the Commission shall remove said surface land from the class established by section one of this act at any time that the then owner shall in writing notify the Commission that he desires such removal

Section 4 Whenever trees growing on said surface land have become suitable for merchantable forest products the Commission shall at the request of the owner or on its own motion make an examination of said land and designate for the owner the kind and number of trees most suitable to be cut if in the judgment of the Commission there be any and the cutting and removal of said trees so designated shall be in accordance with the instructions of the Commission

Section 5 If the owner of said surface land faithfully carried out the instructions of the Commission with regard to the removal and marketing of such mature or other trees as may be designated in the instructions of the said Commission and shall immediately replant other trees of valuable species or so protect the young growth that the said land may immediately become covered with young forest growth and does so with the approval of the Commission then such surface land shall remain in the said class established by section one of this act otherwise the Commission shall notify the county commissioners that the said land is not being maintained in accordance with the written agreement of the owner and the instructions of the Commission in which event the county commissioners shall immediately remove said land from the class established by section one of this act All expenses attendant upon the examination of said surface land by the Commission shall be paid out of moneys appropriated for the maintenance of the Department of Forestry in like manner as other expenses for maintenance of said Department are now paid

Section 6 The owner of the said auxiliary forest reserves shall at all times have the right to remove therefrom trees or portions of trees which may be killed by fire thrown or broken by the wind or injured by other natural causes and shall under the direction of the Commission be privileged to make necessary thinnings or removal of undesirable species of trees in order to improve the condition of the remaining trees and under the same direction may be privileged to remove therefrom such timber from time to time as may be necessary and essential for use upon the neighboring cleared lands of the said owner for general farm purposes

Section 7 Any tract of land while remaining in the class of auxiliary forest reserves as above provided may nevertheless be sold or incumbered by or through the owner thereof but no sale or incumbrance whether voluntary under any statutory or judicial proceeding whatsoever whether of any state or of the United States shall effect a discharge of any obligation imposed under this act and said land shall be removed from said class only in accordance with the provisions hereof

Section 8 That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, May 14th, 1913.

The House met at 10 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, (Rev. J. E. Wright) offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou Father almighty, maker of Heaven and earth, what is man that Thou art mindful of him, or the Son of Man that Thou dost visit him. We rejoice that although Thou hast created us a little lower than the angels, Thou hast crowned us with honor and glory. Thou hast impressed Thine image upon us. Thou hast gifted us with immortality. Thou hast implanted within us aspirations and desires which make us restless till we rest in Thee. May we reverence this, Thine image, of which we are conscious. May we fear to say or to do anything in thought, or word, or deed which shall despoil it or deface it. May we lift our eyes and our hearts each day to the God of the Heaven that this life may be renewed and whatsoever things are true and honest and just and lovely and of good report, may we think upon these things.

And now, as we set our hands to the work of this day, help us to remember our dignity, our duty. May we honestly and earnestly try to realize Thy purpose and to fulfill our mission. We ask it in His name Who has taught us to say: Our Father Who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the proceedings of the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the proceedings of the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. Savacool, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

Section 12 If for any reason the license aforesaid is not paid on or before the first day of July in each year a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of said taxes shall be added and collected by the city or county treasurer as aforesaid

Where suit is brought for the recovery of such license fees for which the party shall be liable it shall be the duty of the city or county treasurer to collect in addition to said license fee assessed against such party a penalty of fifty per centum of the license fee so assessed

The city or county treasurer shall at the expiration of each month forward to the State Treasurer the amount of said license fees collected by him including the said penalties as aforesaid

Section 13 It shall be the duty of every Mercantile Appraiser or Board of Mercantile Appraisers in counties where such board exists on or before the first day of May of each year to certify to the city or county treasurer the correct list of all persons assessed giving the names and business address of the person liable to the payment of the license fees as herein provided and the amount of license due by each This list shall be kept by the city or county treasurer in collecting said license fees If appeals have been made and exonerations made a corrected list shall be certified by the city or county treasurer to the Auditor General on or before the first day of January of each and every year

Section 14 The rate of commission allowed city or county treasurers for their services in collecting fees as aforesaid shall be the same as in the case of mercantile license

Section 15 If upon the presentation of proof satisfactory to the city or county treasurer after hearing all persons under oath or affirmation which he is hereby empowered to administer it shall be shown that the exhibition performances given under any license issued are in violation of the provisions of this act or any other act of Assembly or ordinance of such city borough or township he shall have full power to vacate annual and render void and of no effect the license or licenses which shall have been obtained under the provisions of this act and the city or county treasurer shall have full power to prevent any exhibition performance entertainment from being exhibited or performed until the provisions of this act have been fully complied with

Section 16 The proper municipal officers of the first class shall have full power to inquire into any immoral tendencies or any other matters or things unlawful or hurtful to the public at large that may be charged in writing as being the purpose of such exhibition performance entertainment and shall further if said charges are proven to be true (after notice to all the parties in interest) forbid such exhibitions performances entertainments and for that purpose shall have full power to direct the proper officers to close the said places of amusement buildings or building tents or enclosures in which said exhibitions performances entertainments are intended to be held and prevent the entrance therein of any person or persons except the owner or owners or lessee or lessees of said place of amusement buildings tents or enclosures

Section 17 Any person or persons owner or owners lessee or lessees of any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures who shall feel aggrieved at the act of the city or county treasurer or the director of public safety of cities of the first class or proper municipal officers of cities of the second and third class boroughs or townships in granting the certificate or certificates as herein provided or refusing to grant a license or in revoking any license so issued or in forbidding any exhibition performance or entertainment or closing any such place of amusement buildings tents or enclosures shall have the right to appeal in writing to the court of Common Pleas of the county wherein any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures are situated which said court shall within ten days after said appeal is taken and filed hear the person or persons aggrieved and determine the character of the applicant nature of the exhibition or permormance and whether such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures have been erected constructed or altered and in actual use as a place of amusement or as a moving picture place (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not or as a theatre in accordance with the laws and ordinances regulating the erection construction or alteration of such places at the time of the erection construction or alteration thereof either as a place of amusement or as a moving picture place (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) or as a theatre as to the said court may seem just and right and for that purpose shall have full and ample power if upon a reversal of the proceedings to direct what the city or county treasurer or director of public safety of cities of the first class or the proper municipal officers of cities of the second and third class or boroughs and townships shall do or perform in the premises

Section 18 The license fees herein provided for shall be in lieu of all license fees heretofore required by law to be paid to the use of the Commonwealth but this act shall not exempt any such places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures from the payment of such license fee as may be lawfully imposed on it by any city borough or township of this Commonwealth

Section 19 The act of June eghth Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three entitled "An Act amending section one of article three of an act entitled 'An Act for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth' approved the first day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five regulating the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings" and the act of May fifth one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine entitled "An Act to create a Bureau of Building Inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class and the amendment or supplement thereto of June fifth one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act supplemental to an act entitled 'An Act to create a Bureau of Building Inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class' approved the fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine" shall be held not only to apply to theatres places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures which have been erected constructed or altered and are now in actual use as a theatre or moving picture place where songs dances acrobatic or vaudeville acts (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) are exhibited in addition thereto for the purpose of compelling the owner or lessee thereof to erect alter or construct said building as a theatre if the same has been built altered or constructed in accordance with the laws and ordinances regulating the erection construction or alteration thereof as a theatre place of amusement or moving picture place at the time of such erection construction or alteration

Section 20 If any owner or owners or lessee or lessees of any such building tent or enclosure shall hold or allow to be held in any place of amusement building tent or enclosure any such exhibition performance entertainment as herein provided in any city borough or township of this Commonwealth without first having had and obtained a license as aforesaid he or they so offending shall in addition to the payment of the license fee and the penalty assessed be liable to indictment and upon conviction thereof shall pay for each such offence a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor greater than five hundred dollars at the discretion of the court trying the said offence and all such fines shall be paid into the treasury of the county where such conviction shall take place for the use of the Commonwealth

Section 21 If any person liable to the payment of the license fee as herein provided shall open any such building tent or enclosure between the calendar year commencing May first of each year they shall be permitted to pay a proportionate part or share of the said license fees for which they may be liable from the date of the opening thereof until the end of the license year

Section 22 This act shall not apply to any exhibition or performance given by any agriculture or zoological societies duly chartered under the laws of this Commonwealth or any exhibition of the products of arts or handicraft given by any society or association having charge of the same or shall it apply to any single or occasional exhibition performance or contest given by any church or charitable association society public or private schools or any institution of learning

Section 23 The words "owner" "lessee" "applicant" "person" or "party" wherever used in this act shall include a partnership or corporation

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

THE HOUSE RESUMES CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL NO. 183.

The SPEAKER. The House will now resume the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 183.

The twelfth section of article three was then read as follows:

Section 12 Any public service company except street passenger railway mentioned in section nine of article seventeen of the Constitution of this Commonwealth shall have power with the approval of the Commission to construct its facilities to pass through the territorial limits of any municipal corporation and the consent or approval of the local authorities shall not be necessary therefor Provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to permit any public service company for the purpose of rendering or furnishing its service to the inhabitants of the municipal corporation or for any street railway aforesaid to construct or extend or operate its facilities within the limits of any municipal corporation without the consent of the local authorities thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section 12, article 3, page 31, by striking out the entire section.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, for fear that the members of the House fail to realize the import of this section, I wish to call your attention especially to the effect of this provision of the bill. This is the section that destroys the last vestage of home rule in every community of this State in so far as public service corporations are concerned. Under this section any public service corporation may be granted the right of eminent domain to go through a municipal corporation at any time or place without the consent of the local authorities, and from the terms of the section itself, you scarcely realize the scope of the section. Under the definitions given in this act, even the county is a municipal corporation, and consequently the public service commission may give to a corporation the right of eminent domain to go through a whole county, or through a city, or through the county of Alegheny or Dauphin, or through the City of Pittsburgh, or through the City of Harrisburg, or through any borough or township in the State, and I scarcely believe that the time has come when we care to relinquish the home rule, or the control by the local authorities. I trust that the members of the House will support this amendment.

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Speaker, I want to say a word about this amendment to strike out this section. I ask the House to consider this amendment, because I think it comes from a friend of the bill. It is one of the Democratic platform principles that we pass the Utilities bill. I am in favor of the bill, but I think that this section can be taken out of it without hurting the bill one iota, and if we find that it is necessary hereafter, we can at any time put this section back into the bill. With this section cut out, it would be just as perfect a bill as it would be if we passed it as it originally was. The bill is perfect without it. If you will look at the section, you will find that street railways are excepted under the provisions of this section. Why are street railways excepted? There is this provision in the Constitution, Section 9, Article 17. It says: "No street passenger railways shall be constructed within the limits of any city, borough or township, without the consent of its local authorities." If this provision stood in the Constitution, it is safe and sound principle for this House to follow that provision through in so far as any public utilities company is concerned, because they ought all to be on the same plan. Now, I believe we are going to pass the commission form of government bill. On pages 90, 91 and 92, you will find this:

nual appropriation ordinance And provided further that no franchise or consent to occupy the public streets highways or other places in any of said cities shall be given or granted to any person or persons railroad railway gas water electrict light telegraph or telephone company or to any other public service corporation except by ordinance and no ordinance for such purpose shall go into effect for thirty days after its approval or for thirty days after the time it would otherwise have become a law If within said thirty days a petition prepared advertised and perfected in all respects complying with the provisions of article nineteen section one is addressed to the council signed by electors of the city equal in number to at least twenty per centum of the total number of registered voters as shown by the last preceding registration protesting against the passage of said ordinance the latter shall be suspended It shall be the duty of the city clerk within ten days after said petition is filed with him to examine and ascertain from the registry of votes whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of electors and of necessary the council shall allow the said clerk extra help for said purposes When the said clerk has made said examination he shall attach his certificate to said petition showing the result of his examination and if it shall appear that the petition has not the requisite number of electors as petitioners no further action shall be taken but this shall not prevent the filing of another petition in like manner within said thirty days and in case such petition is presented the same proceedings shall be had thereon as in the first petition If no petition having the twenty per centum of electors as hereinabove provided is presented or filed with the city clerk within said thirty days the said ordinance shall then go into immediate effect unless otherwise provided in the ordinance.

The question should first be left to the people, to a vote of that municipality. By this section you would wipe away one of the most important clauses of the initiative and referendum off of the statute books. We were told only yesterday, and we have been told time and time again during the last campaign, that we should give the people a larger share in the government. Why this bill would strike away the last vestage of the people's rights in these matters. Will the gentlemen who fear this amendment show to me why a public utilities company should be permitted to go through a municipality and dig up its streets and do anything they want just because seven men say they can, without the consent of the local authorities? when the people of the locality do not desire it? This is a blow at local self-government. Leave this power in the hands of the people, and if we find hereafter that it is necessary that the people should not exercise this right of self-government any longer, we can put it in hereafter. I think that this House should strike out this section from the bill, and the bill will be better then than it is now. Although I intend to vote for the bill, even with this clause in it, I could do so with better feeling if it were cut out.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I believe in home rule, for things which pertain to localities themselves, but where the question is one that has to do with more than one locality, when it has to do with the arrangement of conflicting interests of several communities then I am not. We have our courts to decide conflicting claims, and for the same reason we should have the Utilities Commission to arbitrate between the conflicting claims of the various localities, and that is all this section is intended to do. If you will read the last half of the section, you will see that the Utilities Company is not allowed to put its service through a locality in question, without the consent of that locality. But public utilities, such as a pipe line, or telegraph line, or telephone line, which is in one locality and desires to pass through an intervening locality to another locality, the matter is up to the Public Utilities Commission to decide. And I think it is rightly so.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, this section was not in the original bill as introduced by myself. It was in the bill introduced by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, which was drawn by Dean Lewis. It is not a vital feature of the bill, although who have given the matter careful study and consideration believe that it should be retained in it. The point is simply this. That one small municipality shall not by its arbitrary power hold up the extension of a public utilities like a high power company, and refuse to permit it to go through that smaller municipality to serve a larger one, or if it is a utilities that is demanded by the public. Let me give you a concrete example. Suppose there is a corporation in Sunbury, on the Susquehanna River, a high power utilities that has been created, and that it wanted to come to Harrisburg. Coming down the river it would have to pass through the little Borough of Dauphin with its high power wires. It is not intended to serve the people of Dauphin, but the City of Harrisburg, but the Borough of Dauphin says, "No, you can't go through here."

Then this section provides under such reasonable rules and regulations as the Commission may provide, that high power service companies can go through the Borough of Dauphin without its consent. This section is so drawn that it does not apply to street railways and it does not apply to take away the consent of the municipality to serve the people of that municipality in any shape, form or manner. It seems to me that it is carefully drawn and aimed to hit a particular purpose. A number of instances were cited of concrete examples at the public hearings before the Judiciary General Committee where some small municipality had held up a public service benefit just by reason of arbitrary power and this section was drawn to meet these conditions. The friends of the measure who have given it careful study believe that it ought to be written in the bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have been thinking of the startling statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, that he was for Home Rule. I take that statement with quite a grain of salt and would say that if he would limit his statement by saying a limited class of his own of Home Rule, I would take the statement on its worth. Then, the suggestion that has been made in relation to the provision of this secton by the sponsor of the bill I believe is correct, in that the section was not in the original bill as prepared. I am advised to believe that this is a broad open country and it seems to me that there is reason why this has been injected into the bill and that reason is to serve the interests of long distance companies, such as the telephone, telegraph, water works, electric light, motive power and what not, by giving a direct route instead of a route that might be slightly circuitous. I know of no place in this great land that the rights and privileges of any community need be made subservient to the interests of certain corporations and providing that they shall pass through and over the rights of that municipality instead of in a around about way in that municipality. We don't want you to say, which you might do, that there would be some little interfering borough somewhere, some borough, if you please, through which a company would like to go directly across for the purpose of saving a half mile around, with high tension wires or something else that may be very dangerous to the community. That municipality says we don't want you to go through here. Why should we be able to say to this great corporation is under the Public Service Commission of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and pay no attention to what that owner or that borough says, and you have to step back because that is a Public Service Commission corporation and if it wants to go through, let it go through. That is the proposition. Boil it down absolutely and that is it. There is nothing else to it. If there were any reason why this company could not get in, in any other way, where perhaps it would have to pay a right of way for the establishment of its poles over some farmer's land or over a right of way for its pipe line about five feet in width through his land; in such event we ought to protect the great interests which is seeking to get to a certain terminal point beyond from a terminal point here, by saying to them you can go as you please. But when there is a right of way through which they can go, why should we not say: "You cannot go in any way you see fit, notwithstanding the rules and sincere objections of an entire municipality, or here or there or yonder, if you please." Take it in our great City of Pittsburgh. Take it in the great City of Philadelphia which embodies the whole County of Philadelphia. Is there any place along the borders of that great city in the east that a corporation which is established in that city cannot and must not go through a borough? Is there any place that it cannot go in and through a rural district without going through a borough? In the City of Pittsburgh we have seventeen boroughs adjoining that city, separated from it by imaginary lines and you cannot conceive of the establishment of a corporation which desires to reach a certain point within or inside of that city without passing through some borough. You cannot conceive of it because it is not possible. You may say, take the borough in which I live, surrounded on one side by the Borough of St. Clair, on the other side by the City of Pittsburgh and on the other side by Knoxville and by the Borough of Carrick; a little municipality surrounded by other and larger municipalities, and if the borough of Mt. Oliver should see fit to make arrangements with a public service corporation to serve these interests and then in that event that public service corporation should have the right to cross the borough of St. Clair, run into or through the Boroughs of Carrick, Knoxville and run into the City of Pittsburgh, if you please, in order to reach that terminal point; it is unfair. If it is of sufficient vital importance to a corporation to reach that destination than in that even let them pay for their way by making an arrangement with those municipalities through which they desire to go. It is unfair, it is unjust, it is unamerican to make such a provision as that which is contained in this bill, in order to care of conditions which any corporation itself can take care of in a businesslike way, and this amendment ought to be injected into this bill by striking out the section as it now stands.

Mr. I. GORDON FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I am surprised at the narrow view of the gentleman from Allegheny which he is taking on the provisions of this bill. He says that there is no reason why a municipality in this Commonwealth should be subservient to the right of any great corporation. Now, I know that he does not make that statement with a full and careful consideration of what the provision of the bill actually carries with it. No, of course, no municipality should be subservient to any corporation in this Commonwealth. I say, however, that no borough or no individual has the right to stand in the way of and block progress in any municipality and be put in such a position that they can prevent some great public service corporation entering into some great city or a great town and benefitting that place. If you put a provision or an amendment into this bill so that that little town can stop it, I say you don't serve the community, the municipality or the State. There is absolutely no reason for this amendment whatever. This bill is for the benefit of the people of this State. It is not for the benefit of the great corporations; it is not for the benefit of some municipality; it is not for the benefit of the great City of Philadelphia or the great City of Pittsburgh. It is for the benefit of all the citizens in the City of Philadelphia, in the City of Pittsburgh and in the State of Pennsylvania. No one has the right to block progress or to give the right to municipalities and boroughs to prevent progress and advancement of public service corporations from entering those towns by imposing such terrific obligations or attempting to impose such obligations upon such public service corporations that it is absolutely unable to go through; but compel them in the way of reaching the center of the city to go around through an adjoining community. That is unfair. It is a great deal more unfair to permit any municipality to block a big country than it is to provide this power to the commission. The idea of this commission is to have a concentrated power to make the progress of public service corporations possible and to make it fair. The municipality has no advantage and eventually the citizens would pay the freight.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HUMES and Mr. STRAUSS, and were as follows:

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 416 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. WALNUT asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 416, entitled:

An Act to prevent occupational diseases and to provide for the health of employes exposed to the danger of lead poisoning and other occupational diseases by regulating certain manufacturing establishments providing for medical examinations and reports and requiring sanitary precautions and appliances and making violation of its provisions a misdemeanor and providing penalties for violation thereof be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

The House resumed consideration of House Bill No. 183.

The thirteenth and fourteenth sections of Article III of the bill were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 13 No contract or agreement between any public service company and any municipal corporation shall be valid unless approved by the Commission Provided That upon notice to the local authorities concerned any public service company may apply to the Commission before the consent of the local authorities has been obtained for a declaration by the Commission of the terms and conditions upon which it will grant its approval of such contract or agreement if at all

Section 14 Every public service company shall be entitled to the full enjoyment and exercise of all and every the rights powers and privileges which it lawfully possesses or might possess at the time of the passage of this act except as herein otherwise expressly provided

The several duties rights powers and limitations of rights and powers of public service companies as enumerated in article two and this article three respectively or contained in any of the provisions of this act or the performance exercise or enforcement thereof by or in favor of or against any public service company shall in every proper case be subject to section twelve of article sixteen sections one and four of article seventeen of the Constitution of the Commonwealth and to any other applicable provisions of the Constitution of the Commonwealth or of the United States

The first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, fifteenth, sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth sections of Article IV of the bill were separately read and agreed to as follows:

ARTICLE IV

Constitution of Commission

Section 1 For the purpose of regulating public service companies and of carrying out the provisions of this act an administrative body or Commission is hereby established to be known as "The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" and in that name it shall issue its orders and certificates and may become or be made a party to legal proceedings It shall have an official seal which shall be prepared and furnished by the Secretary of the Commonwealth with the words "The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" and such other design as the Commission may prescribe engraved thereon by which seal it shall authenticate its proceedings and of which seal the courts shall take judicial notice

Section 2 This Commission shall consist of seven members who shall be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate Each Commissioner at the time of his apointment and qualification shall be a resident of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and shall have resided therein for a period of at least one year next preceding his appointment and shall also be a qualified elector therein and not less than thirty years of age

The Commissioners first appointed under this act shall continue in office for the terms of one two three four five six and seven years respectively from the first day of July Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and until their respective successors shall be duly appointed and shall have qualified but their successors shall each be appointed for a term of seven years

A member of said Commission designated by the Governor shall during his term of office be the chairman of the Commission The chairman shall when present preside at all meetings and in his absence the member whose term shall first expire shall preside

Section 3 When a vacancy shall occur in the office of any Commissioner a Commissioner shall in the manner aforesaid be appointed for the residue of the term If the Senate shall not be in session when this act is approved or when any vacancy occurs the original appointments or any appointment made by the Governor to fill a vacancy shall be subject to the approval of the Senate when convened

The Commission shall have power in its discretion and for good cause shown to permit changes in the schedules filed and published upon less than the thirty days' notice specified in Article two section one (g) of this act or upon other conditions which shall be just and reasonable

The Commission shall also have power in its discretion where any notice of increase in any rates fares tolls or charges of a public service company has been filed to require by general rule or special order that such company shall furnish to its shippers consumers or other persons a certificate or other evidence of payments made by them in excess of the prior established rate

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Article V, Section 4, by adding after the last word of the section the following:

"The Commission upon its own motion or upon complaint shall also have the power to suspend the operation of any increase in any rate, fare, toll or charge proposed by any public service company. When any rate, fare, toll or charge is so suspended it shall be unlawful for any public service company to ask demand, or receive any such increased rate, fare, toll or charge until such increased rate, fare, toll or charge be approved and allowed by the Commission.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, under this bill as it is drafted, there is no power vested in the Commission to suspend an increased rate, no matter how unreasonable or excessive it may be, pending an investigation of the rate. This another new department for a public service law. Under every existing public service law, the Public Service Commission, and under the Federal Law the Interstate Commerce Commission has a right to suspend an increase in rates or the operation of an increase in rates, until they have had an opportunity to investigate any complaint that may have been made, in order to ascertain whether or not it is reasonable and proper. Under the provisions of this bill as it stands, all the public service commission can do is to require, if they wish to and it is in their discretion, that the public service company shall issue certificates to every shipper or patron, requiring the designating of the amount of the excess and if subsequently that charge is found unreasonable by the Commission, the man who holds that certificate can recover back from the company the excess. It may require an action at law to accomplish that recovery.

And it only would result in a multiplicity of actions in order that justice might be done to shippers and patrons and it would result in a discrimination against the little shipper and the little patron. The large shipper, who may be shipping considerable and may be greatly patronized. such as a public service company to a large extent might receive certificates of this kind for a large sum of money. It would concern him greatly and he would be interested in securing the certificates; but the small shipper, where the excess paid by him was only one, two, five or possible twenty-five dollars, would be placed in the position that if he secured a return of the overcharge he would be compelled to incur expense and cost in excess of the amount of his claim and consequently it would be impracticable and impossible for him to recover for the overcharge. So I say that the bill as it stands is a discrimination against the great rank and file of the people, and it creates a discrimination in favor of the big shipper and the big patron. Under this amendment the Commission can, when the rate is increased and it believes that rate is excessive, suspend the operation of that rate until it has made an investigation. The bill as it stands in this particular, is branching out in a new field. It is an absolutely new departure in so far as legislation on this subject is concerned and unless secured by this by this amendment we are face to face on the question as to whether or not we are going to protect the small consumer. the small shipper and the small patron, or whether we are going to concern ourselves only with the big interests that seem to be heartily in favor of all the provisions of this bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman who has offered this amendment has failed to grasp the whole purpose of the section and the bill. The bill is drawn to my mind, to give a fair and square deal to all parties in interest all around and especially this section and to bring that matter to your attention in just a word I want to cite a concrete example. We will say that a gas company which now has a rate of 80 cents per thousand square feet sees fit to advance the rate to one dollar. Immediately the complaint is made to the Commission and they investigate and the Public Service Commission says that the advance is not proper. Then the Public Utility has a right under this bill, as in every section or every case where they claim they are aggrieved, to appeal to the Court. We will say that it appeals to the Court and the Court finally overrules the Commission and says the rate of one dollar was proper. If the Commission had the right to suspend the rate and the Public Service Corporation had been deprived of this twenty cents, of course, all the time this case was pending, to be paid by its patrons and many of them irresponsible people, moving away and changing, they now could get all back and it is something that they should be entitled to. Now the bill goes on to provide further, that in the event of such situation after the rate has been advanced and the Commission says it shall not be and the Public Service Company appeals, they shal file a bond in a sufficient amount to cover all questions, all matters and amounts arising over the advanced rate, a refunding bond, which will be approved by the Court and then you and I will be protected from this advanced rate. Somebody is obliged to give us a certificate in the nature of a receipt, attached to the receipt on which we pay the gas bill, and the refunding bond is given as a protection to take care of that and thus the whole public is protected. The Public Service Corporation is protected and we believe the bill is drafted to give a fair and square deal to the public and to the Public Service Corporation.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire as to whether or not the bond to which he refers is filed only upon an appeal from the findings of the Commission?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I read all the provisions of the bill, it is only filed in that case.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, then I would like to inquire how that bond would protect any one in case the public abided by the Commission and did not appeal from the Commission?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, there would be no reason to protect anybody.

Mr. HUMES. Then, Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire as to whether or not, if an excessive increase in rate was made, which was afterwards found excessive by the Commission, it would not give the Public Service Company the use of a large sum of money in the nature of an overcharge during the time that the proceeding was pending before the Commission?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it might give them the use of a small sum or larger sum, but I could not see where it would be very much, because I think the appeal would be expeditiously carried out and decided. As I recall the provisions of the bill there must be thirty days notice given of a proposed increase.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire if it would not be necessary, if the Public Service Company desired it, to compel an action on the part of each individual holder of a certificate to recover the overcharge?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not think so. The bond would protect them and the Court would protect the payment of the bond.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, my question is, applied to the condition that would exist if no appeal was taken and consequently no appeal filed.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not catch the question.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, my question is this: If no appeal is taken from the award or finding of the Commission, but it is abided by by the Service Company, if it would not be necessary, if the public utility company so desired it, to require a separate suit to recover the amount due each individual shipper, patron or holder of a certificate?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I am fully justified in saying, as I said before the gentleman does not understand the provision of this section, that if the Company advance the rate and the Public Service Commission says "No," your advance is not proper, and the Public Utility Company does not appeal, there is nothing to be done in any shape or manner.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how he arrives at that conclusion if the increase in rate was had and it was pending before the Commission for two months or three months or for a given period of time, and as the result of the hearing the Commission held that the rate was unreasonable and suspended or refused to permit the collection of the increased rate?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, the Public Service Corporation must give thirty days notice of the intention to advance the rate and that within that thirty days the Commission would decide whether or not the advance was proper.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, then as I understand it, the conditions to which you refer and to which this bill applies is based largely on the suspicion of what will occur before the Commission?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, to a certain extent. If we cannot trust the Commission, as I said before, we had better not have a bill at all.

Upon the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HUMES and Mr. MATT, and were as follows:

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a further amendment to this section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend on page 49, article 5, section 6, lines 7 and 8 by striking out the words, "part of the system of said street railway corporation or inclined plane corporation," and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Street railway or inclined plane or between different parts of any streets railway system."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I suggest that the gentleman from Tioga state whether or not this amendment be necessary.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in view of the amendments adopted yesterday, it apears that this amendment should be put in.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
The section as amended was then agreed to.
The seventh section was read as follows:

Section 7 The Commission shall have power to require railroad corporations and street railway corporations to construct and maintain such switch or other connections with or between the lines of other railroad corporations or street railway corporations as the Commission shall deem necessary and proper for the service accommodation and convenience of the public and shall also have power to establish through routes and joint rates and classifications for the conveyance of persons and property between any two or more points within this Commonwealth whenever the railroad corporations concerned shall have refused or neglected voluntarily to establish such through routes and joint rates and classifications and to prescribe the just terms and conditions under which said through routes shall be operated Provided That in establishing such through route the Commission shall not require any railroad company without its consent to embrace in such route substantially less than the entire length of its railroad and of any intermediate railroad operated in conjunction and under a common management or control therewith which lies between the termini of such proposed through route unless to do so would make such through route unreasonably long as compared with another practicable through route which would otherwise be established

The Commission shall in case of failure of the railroad corporations or street railway corporations concerned to agree among themselves upon the division of the cost of construction maintenance and operation of the connections thus provided for or the allowance to be made for the interchange of service or the apportionment of any joint rates ascertained and by order prescribe and fix the equitable and just apportionment and division of the same

Nothing in this section shall give the Commission power over street railway corporations engaged in the business of carrying passengers but not engaged in the general business or transporting freight and which do not generally solicit the transportation of freight as a main branch of their business

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to the section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend article 5, section 7, line 34, page 50, by striking out the word "ascertain" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "ascertained."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
The section as amended was then agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment to the section.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Page 59. Amend Article 5, Section 15, Line 19, by adding the following:

"The Commission may, of its own motion, investigate and report upon the history and organization of any public service company, or of any previous corporation operating the properties of such public service company upon any increase or decrease of stock or bonds in any reorganization; upon moneys or other consideration received by any such corporation by reason of any issue of stock, bonds or other securities; upon the syndicating, banking or other financial arrangements under which such issues were made, and the expense thereof, and upon the moneys derived from the net and gross earnings of such corporations; and also, ascertain and report upon the expenditures of all moneys, and the purposes for which the same were expended."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it seems, as I understand the bill, that this is amply and fully, even more fully covered than by this proposition, by the provisions of the bill already in it, and it seems as if it is unnecessary to inject it in again.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the purposes, I take it, that are provided for in section fifteen of this act are intended so that the Commission may inquire and fully establish the valuation of a corporation either for basing thereon such civil proceedings as may be necessary or following up any complaint that may have been made in relation to the operation of the corporation, or for the institution of such criminal actions as may be necessary. Now the provision so far as it goes, like some of the other provisions in this bill, fails to cover the twelve months period, and fails to cover the very thing which was sought to be injected into the bill by amendments offered on the floor of this House, to-wit, the condition of the company at the organization of the company. Now, I leave this proposition with you, and I may say in starting, Mr. Speaker, that the very verbiage used in the proposition is followed up by the Valuation Act which was passed and approved on the first day of March of this year. I leave this proposition with you in favor of the amendment which is now proposed. That is this: In order to say whether or not a company has done things which it ought not to do, has misrepresented matters, has increased its stock for the purposes of avoiding showing what percentage of income based on the then existing rates amounts to, if you must know the real and true financial condition of that company.

This provision which is injected into the bill simply means this and nothing more: It means that the Commission has the right to go into the basis from the very start, the basis upon which the company was organized, the enlargement or increase of the stock of that company, where the money went, every dollar of it and whether it was short time paper or long or anything else; where the expenditures of the company went, whether they were real or fictitious, whether they were honest or dishonest and they cannot reach a conclusion as to that fact without going to the very basis upon which the company was organized. Now, no one in making his elevations for a building will fix the starting point away up in space beyond and say that the roof, the highest point of the structure, shall be the starting point and then building down with his stories, down to the ground and then lay the foundation and then drive the last peg and say that the foundation will reach so deep. He does not do that. That is what you are doing in this bill unless you adopt the provision which is now offered to you. You say we will commence above and work down to a certain point and stop. So this is our building. The foundation of that bill is up in space unless it is placed on solid rock by the injection and adoption of this amendment, that the commission is able to start at the very base of operations and it cannot. I again repeat and I defy contradiction on this point, that neither that commission or any other commission can establish the true financial work of any institution if it has swept out from underneath it the real basic principle upon which that institution was builded. Unless you commence at the ground which is the course of any organization of any corporation and say how much money is paid in and how much money went out and what that money went out for and whether it went out honestly or dishonestly and whether it went out legally or under a false color of law, you cannot make a representation which is true. You cannot state a fact that is substantial. Now, there is no question but that this is a fact. Why that would be absolutely absurd; any layman knows that. So we come to you once again with a proposition whereby you may have at least one leg to stand upon in this bill, by saying to you that we offer to you something that has been adopted by the highest legal authority, the highest law authority in this land, with a provision, in that exact language and with an idea that cannot be controverted, that cannot be battered down and we say to you, further, that under the provisions of the section which we are now attempting to make whole, not punched in holes and not in a perforated condition, but really adds a little strength, to that there is no argument. Neither can there be one against the proposition. I do ask your intelligence and your favors in this matter and ask that you inject this amendment into this bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the members attention to page 65, section 21, which gives all the power absolutely given by the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

> Section 21 (a) The Commission shall have power upon application or upon its own motion to ascertain and determine the fair value of the property of every public service company in this Commonwealth and to determine any matter in connection therewith and shall exercise the said power whenever the same is required or whenevr it shall deem such valuation or determination necessary or proper under any of the provisions of this act
> In ascertaining and determining such fair value the Commission may determine every fact matter or thing which in its judgment does or may have any bearing on such value and may take into consideration among other things the original cost of construction particularly with reference to the amount expended in the existing and useful permanent improvements with such consideration for the items of expenditure for obsolete equipment and construction as the circumstances and the historical development of the enterprise may warrant the reproduction costs of the property based upon the fair average price

It seems to us it absolutely covers the point very fully that the gentleman's amendment covers. Then go back to page 22, section 4, which has been adopted after a long argument, it is again covered under sub-section B; on page 46. It seems to me that this amendment is useless and simply lumbers up the bill and even may go so far as to limit and restrict it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman in relation to the matter set forth on page 64 and 65. I still maintain that this does not reach the vital point set up by this amendment. In relation to page 23, section B, this House may remember that there was quite a debate on the floor as to whether or not the very things attempted to gain be reached, among others, was covered by section B and no one who can read English can state to me that it provides to establish in that section that certain things cannot be done; that it evidences the fact that it shall be done. It provides, specifically, that conditions and obligations which are due them and are operative twelve months shall not be set out. If any body can tell me how they can learn conditions by not setting out they can tell me how two and two make eleven. If, as the gentleman suggests, the very matter, and I use his own language, the very matter covered by the amendments which are offered are now covered under page 64 and have been covered on page 23, section B and have been covered in other parts of this bill and if the same matters have been so carefully covered three times, why would it not be a good plan to cover them just once more and make it four times.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the amendment.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. HUMES, and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 695 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. NEEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to introduce the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, May 14, 1913.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 695, entitled, "An Act making an appropriation to the State Highway Department to cover a deficiency in the automobile division," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

THE HOUSE RESUMED CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL NO. 183.

The sixteenth and seventeenth sections of Article V of the bill were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 15 The Commission may and shall after hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint establish by an order to be served as hereinafter provided upon every public service company affected thereby a system of accounts to be used by such public service companies and may also in its discretion prescribe the manner and form in which accounts records and memoranda shall be kept by public service companies including the accounts records and memoranda of the conveyance of passengers and property and a proper and adequate depreciation account as well as the receipts and expenditures of money And the Commission may classify public service companies and prescribe the system of accounts to be adopted and used by each class and may prescribe the manner and form in which such accounts shall be kept and may subdivide each class according to the volume of business transacted or otherwise And the Commission shall have power upon application to relieve any public service company from the duty of carrying a depreciation account

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Article five, section 18, line 12 (page 62). Amend by striking out "facilities" and inserting the word "facilities."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

The nineteenth section of Article V of the bill was read as follows:

Section 19 When application shall be made to the Commission by any proposed public service company for the approval by said Commission of its incorporation organization or creation or by any public service company for the approval by the Commission—of the renewal of its charter or the obtaining of any additional rights powers franchises or privileges by any amendment or supplement to its charter or otherwise—or for permission from the Commission to begin the exercise of any right power franchise or privilege—or for the approval by the Commission of the sale assignment transfer lease consolidation or merger of any of its powers franchises or privileges with any other corporation or person—or when application shall be made to the Commission by any public service company for the approval by the Commission of the purchase acquisition taking or holding either in absolute ownership or in pledge or as collateral security directly or indirectly of any controlling right title or interest legal or equitable to or in the capital stock trust certificates bonds or other evidences of indebtedness or other controlling right title or interest whatsoever in any other public service company—or when application shall be made to the Commission by any public service company for the approval by the Commission of the use in common with other public service companies or persons having the prior lawful ownership or use of any conduit subway tracks poles station terminal facilities or other like facilities or under or over any public street or highway and for the determination by the Commission of the just compensation terms and conditions of such use in common—or when application shall be made to the Commission by any telegraph corporation or person or persons engaged in the public telegraph business for the approval by the Commission of the connection of its or his lines of telegraph with the lines of any other such telegraph corporation or person engaged in the public telegraph business or when application shall be made to the Commission by any telephone corporation or person engaged in the public telephone business to connect use and interchange its or his lines facilities and service with the lines facilities and service of any other such telephone corporation or person engaged in the public telephone business and for the determination by the Commission of the just compensation terms and conditions of such connection use and interchange—or when application shall be made to the Commission for the approval of the construction alteration re-location or abolition of any crossing at grade or above or below grade or when application shall be made to the Commission by any public service company for any approval under any of the provisions of this act or when application shall be made to the Commission by any municipal corporation for the approval required by the provisions of article three section three (d) of this act such approval in each and every such case or kind of application shall be given only if and when the said Commission shall find or determine that the granting or approval of such application is necessary or proper for the service accommodation convenience or safety of the public

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Page 64. Amend Article V., Section 19, line 46, strike out the words "or when application shall," strike out lines 47 and 48 to and including "of this act" in line 49.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to ask the gentleman to explain the purpose of this amendment. I don't quite catch the purpose.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I took it for granted by the way the House voted that they were thoroughly conversant with the provisions of this bill and would be ready to grasp what the purpose of it was by simply striking it out. As the bill reads, the purpose is too plain, if you simply strike out, to ask anybody what it means. I leave it to the House.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the amendment to strike out these three or four lines would undo what the House has already done in the adoption of the section on page 21, and I therefore trust the amendment will not be adopted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. DONALLY, and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

On page 75, Article VI, section 5, line 6, amend by striking out the bracket around the word "or."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

Sections 6, 7 and 8 of Article 6 were then separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 6 Any person or corporation public service company or municipality complaining of anything done or about to be done omitted or about to be omitted by any public service company in violation or excess of its charter duties obligations powers or privileges or in violation of any law of this Commonwealth or of the United States or of any of the requirements or provisions of this act or of any lawful determination ruling or order of the Commission may apply to the Commission by petition duly verified by the affidavit of the complainant which shall contain a concise statement of all the material facts upon which the complaint is founded

Said petition shall be filed of record with the Commission whereupon a copy of the petition thus presented and filed shall forthwith be forwarded by registered mail by the Commission to any officer or agent of the public service company or public service companies complained against accompanied by a notice from the Commission calling upon the public service company or public service companies complained against to satisfy the complaint or to answer the same in writing within such reasonable time as may be specified by the Commission in said notice

Section 7 If such public service company within the time specified shall satisfy the complaint the Commission shall dismiss the petition but said public service company shall be relieved from responsibility only for the specific matter complained of If such public service company shall not satisfy the complaint within the time specified and it shall appear to the Commission from a consideration of the complaint and answer or otherwise that reasonable ground exists for investigating said complaint it shall be the duty of the Commission to fix a time and place for a hearing and to investigate the matter complained of in accordance with the provisions of this act Notice of the time and place of such hearing shall be given to the petitioner and to the public service company or companies complained against in such manner as the Commission may prescribe The testimony shall be taken down by the stenographer appointed by the Commission and a full and complete record shall be kept of all proceedings had before the Commission or any Commissioner on any hearing or investigation

Section 8 The Commission may also upon its own motion and upon such notice as it may deem reasonable under the circumstances institute any similar inquiry or investigation and fix a time and place for a hearing with the same effect as though complaint had been made as aforesaid and satisfaction thereof refused

Section 9, of Article VI was then read as follows:

Section 9 Where any petition complains as aforesaid of any violation of any lawful determination ruling or order of the Commission (to be made as hereinafter provided) and it shall appear to the Commission that reasonable ground exists for investigating said complaint and a hearing or investigation is had upon said complaint the burden of proof shall be upon the public service company complained against to show that the determination ruling or order of the Commission has been complied with

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

On page 77, amend Article VI, Section 9, by adding at the end thereof the following:

"Where an order has been made by the Commission and the Public Service Company has made any change therein without the approval of the Commission, the burden of proof shall rest upon said Company to justify said change in any proceeding before the Commission in which such matter is in controversy.

"In any case that may come before the Commission it shall whenever it deems such procedure expedient and proper have power to order either the complainant or the defendant to furnish any date or information which said party may have special facilities for acquiring and which it may possess, either to the Commission or to the other party and to make such orders respecting procedure as may seem to the Commission just and proper and that may tend to facilitate the hearings and reduce the expense thereof to the Commission and to the parties."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not intimated by the leading "No" on this proposition of the gentleman from Philadelphia, whom I doubt whether he has read a single page of the bill and I will take the time to explain to the House the purpose of this amendment.

Section 9 would seem to be a complete section, which provides for action of the Commission in relation to matters on which the Commission has already decided; in other words, made a judicial decree, and is wholly covered by the provisions of section 9 as it now stands. It reaches no other end, Mr. Speaker, and any one who will read the section will find that the language used in the first two lines covers the point to which I desire to call attention.

"Where any petition complains as aforesaid of any violation of any lawful determination ruling or order of the Commission."

Now then, in a case covered by the section, the determination of the question has already been made by the Commisison as a decree of that Commission. Now the purpose of this amendment, Mr. Speaker, which is now offered is to go further; not taking away a single prerogative which is granted by this section, but adding to it briefly and in terms covering this matter, that where a regulation without any determination of the Commission has been established by the Corporation, then and in that event, complaint having been entered against that regulation, it is for the corporation to show that that regulation is just. I again call attention to the fact that if determination has already been made by the Commission then the section is complete and where the corporation upon its own motion inaugurates a system or regulation or ruling and determination to conduct its business in a certain way, which has not been approved or decided by the Commission, then in that event the first five lines of this proposed amendment steps in in these terms:

"Where an order has been made by the Commission and the public service company has made any change therein without the approval of the Commission, the burden of proof shall rest upon said company to justify said change in any proceeding before the Commission in which such matter is in controversy."

Now I feel Mr. Speaker, that no opponent of this bill in any other features can oppose conferring that power upon the Commission. It simply extends their power to a matter which has not by them been judicially determined and shifts the burden of proof upon the company or corporation which attempts to inaugaurate a certain action to show that that action is justifiable and is so justifiable as that it will meet with the approbation of the Commission. Now I think there can be no objection to that.

Now in the second paragraph, which is embodied in about nine lines, it relates again to the burden of proof.

"In any case that may come before the Commission it shall, whenever it"— not only in relation to the burden of proof, but the facilities or rather the source from which the proof may be drawn—

"in any case that may come before the Commission it shall whenever it deems such procedure expedient and proper, have power to order either the complainant or the defendant to furnish any data or information which said party may have special facilities for acquiring, or which it may possess, either to the Commission"—

If the Commission thinks wise, to itself or to the other party if the Commission thinks that information should be given to the other party, the party making the complaint or the party defending, that they may make such an order.

"and to make such orders respecting procedure as may seem to the Commission just and proper and that may tend to facilitate the hearings and reduce the expense thereof to the Commission and to the parties."

You take a large railway system. Complaint is made in relation to service which that company is giving to the public. The railway system's answer is that "we are already doing all that we can. We are making no money. We have spent so much for equipment. We are paying so much for running expenses," and what not. Now, when a matter of that kind is presented to your Commission and a complaint on that question is raised, that the railroad company, having the special facilities to show the facts which it contends relieves it of the responsibility, the Commission may say to that railways company: "You having all this data in hand, furnish this data to us." Or if they think that the complaint is sufficiently broad as that the complainant should be also put in possession of those facts, the Commission says to that railway company, or to that corporation: This is a broad question and no one but yourselves knows what the data at hand will show. Complaint has been made here and this complaint cannot be established without some information which is locked up in your archives. Speak up. It is only fair to the public that this proposition be shown."

Now that, Mr. Speaker, is exactly what is proposed in the amendments which are now offered before this body and which to me seem to be not only justifiable to extend the powers of this Commission in such ways as that no harm can be done either to any complainant or to any one who may be upon the defense in the matter of complaint which is raised before the Commission at any time.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if the proposition proposed by the gentleman from Allegheny was to strike out the entire Section nine and insert this proposed amendment, his remarks would be pertinent, but as I understand the bill, as in Section nine and as covered by the various other sections, for instance, I refer you to section 25 on page 69, all of those powers which he seeks to have put in the bill by these amendments are fully and amply and completely covered and there is not need and no necessity for inserting these amendments which are proposed now shall be adopted.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Tioga seems wholly to fail to grasp the situation which I tried to make plain.

The first proposition is not a question of investigation. The first proposition is a question to justify action. Now once again I state that where the matter has already been determined by the commission, that is covered wholly and completely, mark you, wholly and completely by this section, but there is nothing in the bill that prevents a corporation from inaugurating something different than that covered by the question which has been determined. The first proposition is simply this that when they do so take action, the question of justifying their action, the burden of the proof is upon them to show to the Commission that the action is justified. That is the first proposition. Now, the second proposition is simply to say whether or not the Commission shall have the right to say to a corporation which alone has the information which that Commission must have in order to determine the question to say to that corporation. "Give us the information, you have the facilities, now come along with it and come clean."

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I still maintain that the first proposition in the proposed amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny is absolutely covered by section nine, now in the bill, and that the second proposition as contained in his amendment is covered by section 25, on page 29, and followed by section 27 on page 70, which gives the Commission the right and power to make all rules and regulations in relation to all kinds or hearings in every shape or every form or manner not inconsistent with the law, and we believe it is absolutely and fully and better covered than by the proposed amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman as a lawyer will not state on the floor of this House what he now states that a better proposition is determined or allowed by the provision of this act than if this act specified that certain things have to be done. Why he as a lawyer knows that wherever a general power of that kind is conferred that when it pinches the first question that anybody would ask, or any corporation on the defensive would ask would be whether or not your Commission had the right to demand such a thing.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that we have better order in the rear of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Sergeant-at-Arms will preserve order, and if unable to do so, and the spectators will not comply, he will cause them to depart. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. ALLEN. And so far as the first proposition being covered in section nine, the gentleman cannot make such a statement because of the fact that the first two lines tell you what kind of a proposition is covered there, and that is those propositions in which a lawful determination, rule or order of the Commission has already been made. Now, Mr. Speaker, as a general proposition under this bill, and it appeared, and I quote from interrogations that were made yesterday and responses thereto, under the proposition, the general proposition laid down in this bill there is nothing that says that a corporation first has to have all its rules of action laid down and approved by anybody. It inaugurates and works under such rules of action, mark you, as it sees fit, and so long as nobody complains those rules of action stand. Now, acting under certain rules and regulations as it as done, some of them meet with opposition by the people. The people appeal to your Commission. The question comes up and is decided by your Commission and thereupon that section nine becomes operative because that question has been determined and ruled upon. But the company cuts out that line of action then. The Commission, we will say, say, "No, you cannot do that." That cut out that line of action and they do what. They do just what we do here, they amend the bill, they amend their line of action, and adopt a new system entirely different, but perhaps no more satisfactory. When they adopt that new system, then the provisions of this section comes into play and says that they must justify before the Commission such changes as they have made in the line of action which has already been determined by the Commission, and justify that action to the approbation and approval of the Commission. Now, if this be fought, now if this proposition be fought, I say that it is clearly evident from the lips of those themselves that this is a blind and a snare and that they do not want the authority which we are asking them to take.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not care to answer the gentleman again upon the proposition of whether this amendment is proper or not, but I do wish to state this. It has been stated now by two members on the floor of this House that the members and parties back of this bill are influenced by some sinister and improper motives, and I desire to say that this is not true. I believe that every member supporting this bill is doing it with a fair, honest and sincere purpose to benefit the public in every manner, but in doing that they believe that they ought to give fair consideration to the public service corporation.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ALLEN and Mr. HUMES, and were as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Article 6, Section 52, page 96, line 10, by striking out the word "employes" and inserting in lieu thereof "employe."

Also amend line 13, by striking out the word "employes" and inserting "employe."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifty-third section was read as follows:

Section 53 The Railroad Commission of Pennsylvania shall on July first nineteen hundred and thirteen transfer and deliver to the Public Service Commission hereby created all property books maps papers files records pleadings in pending cases reports and other documents in its possession and belonging to it The Public Service Commission is hereby authorized to take possession thereof It shall also be lawful for the said Commission to hear and determine any pending cases transferred to it by the said The Pennsylvania State Railroad Commission and to dispose of its unfinished business

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

On page 96, Article 6, Section 53, line 1, amend after the word "the" insert "Pennsylvania State."

Also in line one, strike out the words "of Pennsylvania."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga Mr. Rockwell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire how the public service commission can carry out the provisions of this act which requires the carrying out of the unfinished business of the Pennsylvania Railroad Commission?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, this provision in relation to that was put in at the suggestion of the State Railroad Commission and there might be some matters that we cannot perhaps dispose of and if there were such matters it would be necessary to take them up in order later.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill repeals the act with reference to th Railroad Commission on July 1st. and the provisions of this act will not go into effect until next January—on January 1st. There certainly will not be any law in existence during the interim that could dispose of anything of that character.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't understand that the provisions of the bill involves that matter.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I don't think the gentleman has familiarized himself with the bill he is amending, or with this section. That section provides that the repeal should take effect on July 1st and the subsequent section, fifty-four, provides that the provisions of this act take effect on January 1st. I would only like to reconcile that apparent inconsistency.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, my attention is called to this provision in section 55. If this act should take effect on the first day of January, 1914, and not before and it shall be ratified that the appointment of the Commissioners shall be made and after the commission is organized, they shall appoint such officers and employes which will give them the right to perform such duties as are necessary. If there is an error here, we will examine it carefully and correct it before the bill comes to final passage.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Spetaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Tioga. Is it not a fact, under the provisions of this bill, that you are creating a commission on July 1st and paying them at the rate of ten thousand dollars a year and all their employes and yet giving them no power to perform their duties until the first of January 1914.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, they have full and complete power to organize and get their machinery and business ready to start at the beginning of the year.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, this bill gives them six months to meet and organize.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it might take that long to get the whole machinery in order. It is a big proposition.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section as amended, was then agreed to.

The fifty-fourth section was read as follows:

Section 54 It shall be the duty of the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania established by this act to enforce the provisions of the act approved the nineteenth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand fifty-three) entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains" in lieu and in stead of the State Railroad Commission as provided in section nine of said last mentioned act which said last mentioned act shall otherwise remain in full force and effect

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Article 6, section 54, line 9, before the word "State" insert the word "Pennsylvania."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell. I would like to know how the gentleman reconciles this section with Section 6, Article three of the Constitution which absolutely prohibits such a transfer of power and control as is attempted to be covered by this provision.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, to which section does the gentleman refer.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I refer to section 54, which is before the House now. I might cite section 6, article three of the Constitution, which provides as follows:

"No law shall be revived, amended, or the provisions thereof extended or conferred, by reference to its title only, but so much thereof as is revived, amended, extended or conferred shall be re-enacted and published at length."

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I suppose that we will have to do as we have to do in a great many cases where a constitutional question is raised. We will have to take our chances and take the bill as the best intelligence has drafted it and if the courts knock it out, that is a consideration of the future.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Tioga to say that there is no obligation upon this House to look to the constitutionality of this bill or any part of it? As I understand it that it the only inference to be drawn from his reply.

POINT OF ORDER.

I desire to raise a point of order on this question. I don't like to do it because I thought it could be arranged or fixed up to comply with the constitution but rather than let it go unchallenged, I want to raise a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, my point is that section 54 is in violation of the constitution.

Mr. ROCKWELL. I don't think it is, Mr. Speaker. As I understand it, we have already abolished the State Railroad Commission, but it undertakes to transfer to the new Public Service Commission the powers to enforce the Full Crew Act.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not sustain the point of order. The point of order is overruled.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The fifty-fifth section of Article VI of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 55 This act shall take effect the first day of January Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and fourteen and not before except that it shall be lawful for the appointment of the Commissioners to be made and for the Commission to organize and to appoint such officers and employees as hereinabove provided The Commission shall be appointed and shall organize and make such appointments and establish its offices as hereinabove provided and make such general rules and orders under this act as it may deem wise or proper on or before the first day of October Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen from and after which latter date it shall be the duty of every public service company to file with the Commission if required and punish and post its tariff schedules and its rules and regulations affecting its contracts and classifications as hereinabove provided The salaries of the Commissioners shall begin on July first one thousand nine hundred and thirteen or on such later date as they may respectively qualify as such Commissioners and the salaries and compensation of the officers and employees of the Commission shall begin when such officers and employees respectively are appointed or employed and enter upon the discharge of their duties

The title of the bill was read as follows:

An Act defining public service companies prescribing and defining the duties and liabilities of public service companies prescribing defining and limiting the powers of public service companies and regulating the creation of such companies creating the establishing a public service commission for the supervision and regulation of public service companies prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such commission and its officers and providing for the salaries and compensation of the members of the commission its officers counsel and employees prescribing and regulating the practice and procedure before such commission and upon appeal and judicial review of its orders by the court of common pleas of Dauphin county and giving such court exclusive jurisdiction of such appeals and of all injunctions mandamus or other appropriate proceedings to enforce the provisions of this act and the orders of the commission and to restrain such orders subject to an appeal from all decrees of said court to the Supreme Court prescribing penalties fines and imprisonment for the violation of such orders or of the provisions of this act and repealing the act approved May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and seven which provided for the appointment of a Railroad Commission and all other legislation inconsistent with this act and making it the duty of the Public Service Commission to enforce the provisions of the act of June nineteenth one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title by striking out entire title and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

An Act defining public service companies and providing for their regulation by prescribing and defining their duties and liabilities prescribing defining and limiting their powers and regulating their incorporation and to a limited extent regulating municipal corporations engaged or about to engage in the business of public service companies creating and establishing a public service commission for the regulation aforesaid prescribing and defining the powers and duties of such commission and its officers including the exclusive power to regulate the construction alteration relocation or abolition of the crossings of railroad corporations street railway corporations or other public service companies and of public highways by the tracks or other facilities of said companies providing for the ascertainment by the commission of the expense and damages resulting from such construction alteration relocation or abolition and for the payment of such expense and damages severally or proportionately by the public service companies interested the State or municipal corporations concerned and giving persons whose property is thereby taken injured or destroyed authority to use the Common-

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 960.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 9, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I herewith return, without my approval, House Bill No. 960, entitled:

"An Act to amend section one thousand two hundred and seven of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled 'An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith."

The approval of this proposed amendment would make possible for school directors to employ a relative of one of their number as a teacher with greater frequency than it is possible for them so to do under the original provisions of the School Code. Under the provisions of Section 1207 of the Code no teacher who is related to a member of the Board may be employed except through the affirmative votes of three-fourths of the members of the Board.

It is now proposed to modify this requirement so as to provide for the election of such teacher by the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the members of the Board, and to provide that the prohibition against the election of relatives of the members of the Board as teachers in their district shall not apply to any teacher who shall have taught in such district prior to the election of all the members of the Board. This exemption in favor of teachers who have taught in the district prior to the election of all the members of an existing Board, seems to me to be unjustifiable class legislation.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) JOHN K. TENER

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I move that the commniucation from His Excellency, the Governor, be laid on the table.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented the following communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1073.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 8, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I herewith return, without my approval, House Bill No. 1073, entitled:

"An Act providing that where municipalities are vested with the power of acquiring property by condemnation proceedings for municipal purposes other than street improvements the title to be acquired by the said municipalities shall be the fee simple title thereof"

This bill is similar in import to a bill vetoed by me during the session of 1911, except that in the present bill property acquired for street improvements is to be exempted rrom its operation. I am not persuaded of the wisdom of changing by general legislative enactment the rule to the effect that the appropriation of land by condemnation proceedings does not give the appropriating corporation the fee simple title to the land in the absence of express statutory language to that effect, but gives it merely a conditional fee, terminable on the cessation of the use for which the property was condemned.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

Signed JOHN K. TENER.

The SPEAKER. The question is, Shall the bill become a law, the objection of the Governor notwithstanding. Those in favor of sustaining the Governor's veto will vote "no" and those in favor of overriding the veto will vote "aye."

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, two years ago this bill passed the House and Senate and it met the disapproval of the Governor, and his reason for vetoing the bill at that time was. I think, cut out by the Mayor of Pittsburgh, to conform with what he thought the bill should be, and I am surprised at its being vetoed at this time.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I believe a large number of the members do not understand the purport of this bill and I would like to have the sponsor of this bill explain its provisions, so that we may know what we are voting on.

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill drafted by the Mayor of Pittsburgh. Two years ago it passed this House and the Senate and was vetoed by the Governor. It provides for taking property for street improvements, etc., by condemnation proceedings in fee simple, and the Governor vetoed it, stating he did not think it was right to hold this property in fee simple. The Mayor of Pittsburgh cut that provision out and drafted a bill to conform with the Governor's ideas. The bill then passed the House and the Senate and the Governor also vetoed it again this session with the explanation he has given. The bill is a good one. It is a meritorious one and should become a law. It is to take a lot of red tape off the property that the cities hold for various purposes, such as fire engine houses and various other matters that pertain to city property, to take all this red tape off the title to property without it being in fee simple, so that at any time they can transform this property into some other purpose than called for in the deed.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, what change was made in this bill from the last?

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, in regard to street improvements, etc. I would have to go over the whole bill to make a thorough explanation.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill it provides that when a city buys a piece of ground, for instance, that it should be used for fire engine house property; then a little later on it wants to change it to a police station, school. or any such purpose, it has the right to do so because it holds the property in fee simple, not having been bought for a single purpose, but for general purposes. That is the way I understand the bill.

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, some of the members do not seem to understand the Governor's objections.

The SPEAKER. The Governor's message will be read again.

The message was then read by the Clerk.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special House Bill No. 1892 (Senate Bill No. 13), entitled:

An Act providing for the incorporation regulation and government of cities of the third class regulating nomination and election of municipal officers therein and repealing consolidating and extending existing laws in relation thereto

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I am a member of this subcommittee and the reason that we wish to have it recommitted is that the committee in placing an amendment in the bill made a typographical error, and we desire to have it referred back to the committee for that purpose.

The SPEAKER. As motions to recommit were crowded out of the order of business on Monday night and not taken up since, motions to recommit will be considered as soon as the present work of clearing the desk shall have been completed.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented the following communication from the Governor, which was read as follows:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 41.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 9, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I herewith return, without my approval, House Bill No. 41, entitled:

"An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fifth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred ninety-five entitled 'An Act dividing the cities of this State into three classes with respect to their population and designating the mode of ascertaining and changing the classification thereof in accordance therewith."

The primary purpose of this proposed amendment is to enable a city to pass from one class into a higher class, if it shall appear from a census "taken in pursuance of an ordinance of the proper city" that the city in question has the requisite population.

Under the Act of May 8, 1889, P. L. 133, it was provided that the classification of cities should be ascertained and fixed by reference to their population according to the last preceding United States census, or any municipal census taken later, etc., but in the later Act of June 25, 1895, P. L. 275, the provision for a municipal census was eliminated, and it is now provided that the classification of cities shall be ascertained and fixed by reference to their population according to the last preceding United States census.

Under our present system, neither counties nor cities pass from one class to another by reason of the mere existence of the fact of population, but as a result of the legal and official ascertainment of such fact through the medium of a Federal census.

In my judgment it would be unwise to change the existing mode of ascertaining and fixing the classification of cities.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

Signed JOHN K. TENER.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary, notwithstanding?

Mr. KEEPORT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the message from the Governor be laid upon the table for the present.

Mr. SAMUEL PERRY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 962.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, Pa., May 10, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I herewith return, without my approval, House Bill No. 942, entitled:

"An Act to amend the second and fourth sections of an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the registration of veterinary surgeons and to further regulate the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania' approved the eighteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and five so that the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners shall be entitled to receive an annual registration fee not to exceed five dollars or an annual fee of less than five dollars if sufficient for expenses and said board or its duly authorized agent shall be prosecutor in actions for infringements of said act and also including the practice of veterinary dentistry in the provisions for infringements of said act."

One of the purposes of this proposed amendment is to authorize the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners to increase the fee to be paid for annual registration from one dollar to five dollars, or to such amount between one dollar and five dollars as may in the judgment of the Board be necessary to meet the proper expense incurred by it.

By the fourth section of the original act of May 16, 1895, P. L. 79, establishing the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners, it is enacted that the Board shall pay from the fees provided for in the act all proper expenses incurred by it, and if any surplus remain the examiners shall receive a reasonable remuneration from said surplus for their work.

In my message to the General Assembly at its present session, I recommended that the annual compensation to be received by members of examining boards be fixed by statute and that all fees collected should be paid into the State Treasury for the use of the Commonwealth.

If the present fees received by this Board are not sufficient to pay its necessary expenses, provisions for such expenses should be made by an item in the General Appropriation bill, rather than by the method proposed in this bill.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) JOHN K. TENER.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this communication be laid on the table.

Mr. MISSIMER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 1156.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, May 8, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I herewith return, without my approval, House Bill No. 1156, entitled:

"An Act empowering cities to enact ordinances relating to repairs and improvements to street in cases where the obligation to repair rests upon some person or corporation other than the municipality and to impose penalties for violation of such ordinances."

This Act is drastic in its operation, and vests unlimited power, without the right of appeal, in an "administrative officer" to determine the necessity of making improvements, and not only authorize municipalities to specify any "methods of structure and material to be used for street paving, foundations, street railway tracks, pipes, conduits, or other structures," but also authorizes the municipalities to make "any other regulations necessary or desirable."

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

(Signed) JOHN K. TENER.

Mr. KAISER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this communication be laid on the table.

Mr. H. P. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGES.

AMENDED HOUSE BILLS RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 221,

An Act fixing the salary of registers of wills in counties within which are or may be located any cities of the first class and providing for the payment of fees or commissions earned by said officers into the county treasury after deduction of expenses which expenses said registers are authorized to incur

Mr. MISSIMER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 16 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, House Bill No. 1568, file folio 6271.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1568, entitled:

An Act to provide for an additional law judge of the several courts of the eleventh judicial district

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I have been informed by a very honorable gentleman of this House that some one has made the statement that I presented this bill for political purposes. I desire to refute that statement as being untrue.

This bill calls for an additional Law Judge of Luzerne County. Luzerne county is the third largest county of Pennsylvania, and in fact one of the wealthiest counties in the State, due to its great Anthracite Coal deposits.

I presented this bill on the 17th day of March, and the same was sent to the Judiciary General Committee, it found some opposition there, Mr. Rockwell as Chairman of that Committee found it necessary to appoint a sub-committee of which Mr. Geo. Baldwin was made Chairman, and Mr. Strauss and Mr. Gray being the other members, to investigate the necessity of another Judge for Luzerne, which they reported affirmatively to the Judiciary Committee and the same reported to the House with an affirmative recommendation.

I have in my possession the names of many of the most prominent attorneys of the Luzerne County Bar who claim that an additional Judge is necessary to carry on the business of the Court, namely Mr. Chas. McHugh, Solicitor of Wilkes-Barre city, who represents close on to 75,000 people; Mr. McHugh says as follows "We certainly need another Judge in Luzerne County as the courts are away back in their work." Mr. Thos. Farrell, a leading attorney who was also campaign manager for Judge Strauss, a democratic member of the Luzerne County Bench, has to say "it is impossible to get our cases tried as the Courts are away back in the work." Mr. Frank McGuigan, one of the leading criminal attorneys of his bar has to say "Any lawyer of the Luzerne County bar will tell you another Judge is necessary, unless, he has political axes to grind." Mr. Chas. Bowman who was a candidate for District Attorney on the Democratic Ticket at the last election, stated to me as follows: "We should have another Judge, I can show you cases, that have not been tried since back in 1908." Mr. A. Salsburg, a former District Attorney, has to say "We should have another Judge by all means, as the courts re away back in their work, and as many of the cases in his county are from the foreign speaking people, it works a great hardship on them." Mr. John Dando, Attorney for the Wilkes-Barre City school board, "We certainly need another judge, in fact Judge Fuller told me that Luzerne County ought to have two more Judges to carry on the work properly." Mr. P. F. O'Neil, a member of the firm of one of the largest corporation attorneys of this Commonwealth has to say, "We certainly need another Judge in Luzerne." Mr. Roger Devers, attorney for the United Mine Workers of the whole Anthracite Coal Fields, has to say "We need another Judge, and need one at this time, as it is impossible to have cases tried within two or three years." Mr. Wm. Pace, who was a candidate for State Senator against Senator Catlin, on the Washington Party ticket, informed me "I will be glad to come to Harrisburg and inform my friends of the necessity of an additional law Judge in Luzerne County." Mr. Jos. Fleitz, one of the foremost leaders of the Progressive party of Luzerne County, has to say "I care not who the Judge may be, either Democrat, Republican Progressive or Washington Party man, but we certainly need another Judge in Luzerne County, and in fact we could get enough people who are in litigation together to pay an additional judge out of their own pockets, if they could only get their cases tried." Hon. John Kosek, Mayor of Wilkes-Barre City, and one of the leading young attorneys of the Luzerne County bar said to me, "Mr. Thomas, I would be glad to come down to Harrisburg and tell the Members of the Legislature that an additional law judge is absolutely necessary for Luzerne County."

Mr. Thomas H. Atherton, the man who made it possible, through his great generosity, to have the Rev. Bill Sunday come to Wilkes-Barre and do his wonderful work has to say, "I think it necessary that we should have another Judge of Luzerne County to expedite the work of the Court." I can give you quotations of this kind for many hours, such as Foster, Heller and Morgan, referee in bankruptcy, James Shea, etc., but think that you will see for yourself that a Judge is necessary for Luzerne County. In fact Judge Garman told me a few days ago that an additional law Judge was absolutely necessary.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, as you are aware, this bill seeks to provide an additional law judge for Luzerne County. I regret very much that I am compelled to oppose this bill at this time, but in this connection I wish to say that I can yield to no man on the floor of the House in my admiration for, my regard and believe in the integrity of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Thomas. But, Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I have investigated this matter and I find not one man in my district that approves of this fifth Judge for Luzerne County. I have found in Luzerne County several men that are in favor of this fifth Judge, but I wish to say that they are attorneys at the bar and they believe that if this judge is appointed it will hit one of them. Mr. Speaker, I will read for the information of the House what the four members of the Luzerne Bench say in the public print. They are requested to express their views in public print. Judge Strauss said, "Altogether I am of the opinion that the movement for another judge might be postponed without any injury to the public interest." Judge Fuller, another member of the bar says, "I am not advocating an increase in the number of our judges."

Judge O'Boyle, the third judge on the bench says, "I am not in favor of an additional judge for Luzerne County as a means of facilitating the legal business of this district.

Judge Garman, the fourth judge, says "I am in favor of another judge."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I will read what the advocates of this bill say: Judge Garman declares the fifth judge is necessary. Judge Strouse says the judge is not necessary. Judge Fuller says that he is not an advocate of another judge. Judge O'Boyle says he is not in favor of another judge. These three judges say they are not advocating an additional judge. Now, Mr. Speaker, I find in the Wilkes-Barre Record, the leading daily paper in Luzerne County, in today's issue the following: "Courts were blocked yesterday, because the lawyers in cases that might have been called were busy in other law suits." Now, gentlemen, there is the situation in Luzerne County. Three or four of the best criminal lawyers in Luzerne County have all the criminal cases. These men cannot appear in more than one court room at a time and the consequence is that the cases are continued from one criminal court to another. This paper says: 'Evidently there is a lack of judgment in getting up the trial list. Why not distribute the cases with the employment of lawyers in mind. It seems that a great deal of difficulty would be averted with a little care."

Mr. Speaker and Gentleman of the House, I find upon investigating, that our judges find time not only to hold court in Luzerne County, but in Columbia county at frequent times. I do not admit that there is a congestion in the criminal courts of Luzerne county, but for the sake of argument I might admit that there is and that can be easily accounted for by the statement made by me on the floor of this House that three or four of the greatest criminal lawyers in Luzerne County have a majority of the cases, and when criminal court starts these men have practically all the cases and they can only appear in one court room at a time. Now, Mr. Speaker, I believe that this House has acted in times gone by, especially in this session, fairly with the people of Luzerne County, and I think if this bill would have its right title it would be entitled "A Bill to Force an Additional Law Judge on Luzerne County" and I do not believe the bill ought to pass.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, it might seem inconsistent to a number of members of the House to learn that I am going to support this measure, due to the fact that the new county bill that I agitated in the House for about two months was a bill that would seem, apparently, in opposition to the election or appointment of an additional law judge. But rather lacking vindictiveness in my nature and feeling since communicating with citizens of the isolated sections of the county that I come from, I discovered that the concensus of their opinion has been in favor of an additional law judge for Luzerne county, and I feel that since the members of the House opposed the formation of a new county so strenously, that there may be a possibility, if we have another judge in Luzerne County, of having a subcourt held in Hazleton, a subcourt as it were, to give the people of that isolated section a more convenient method of transacting their legal affairs. As I stated, the Courts of Luzerne county are overrun with cases, some extending back two or three years, and it is necessary to have this matter ameliorated in this way and by electing or appointing an additional law judge, I think, perhaps, the populace along "the trail of the lonesome pine" might be benefited. I therefore am in favor of the additional law judge for Luzerne County.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, under ordinary circumstances it might not be obligatory upon a member of this House to rise in opposition to a bill wherein his own county is the beneficiary, but the creation of a judgeship is a mighty important matter to the State, and I would be derelict in my duty to the State and unfaithful to you members, to my fellow members in this House, were I to allow this bill to pass without raising my voice in protest. There is only one reason for opposition to this bill and it is simply this: An additional judge is not necessary in the County of Luzerne. There is no demand for it excepting the demand that comes from a few who are aspirants for a judgeship on the bench, and their political friends. I have al the respect in the world for the belief of my colleague, Mr. Thomas, that a judgeship might be necessary, but he has been persuaded by those certain lawyers, as I say, anxious to get a seat on the bench. I asked an advocate of this bill the other day, a lawyer why he felt in favor of this measure, and he said it would put on the bench some big lawyer, may be, that had a whole lot of business, and his business would be divided amongst the rest of them. Another lawyer that advocated this bill said to me, in answer to my question why he was in favor of it, "Well, what do we care, up in the county, anyhow; the State pays for it." Gentlemen, if there really was a demand for this judgship in Luzerne county, my friend from Luzerne would have been her today and read to you, not a few extracts from what has been said by a few lawyers in Luzerne, but he would have a demand from the Bar Association of Luzerne County. Where is that formal demand? Where is any recommendation from the Judges of Luzerne County and where is the petition of the people? An additional judge would merely be a luxury for Luzerne County and I do not think this Legislature is passing out any luxuries to any particular county.

They will tell you that our courts are blocked and clogged. I have in my hand the calendar for this court session, and it has cases on it that were begun and numbered to February and as late as March, 1913, cases that are only a month or so old. Doesn't that show that the courts are not clogged. I have here today's paper from my district, from the City of Pittston, the Pittston Gazette, a reliable Republican paper, and the headline says "Judges Enough; A few Lawyers Cause of Delay." There has been a circular distributed amongst you with the question at the head, "Does Luzerne County need another Judge?" The circular is unsigned and it even does not attempt to answer that question. To whom is this circular addressed? In the groups of counties that are made, into such groups in order to show that our proportion of population might require another judge, these groups are so made as to deceive you gentlemen and I notice that Lackawanna County if left out, and Lackawanna County has three judges for a population of two hundred and fifty-one thousand, one for every eighty-four thousand, while in Luzerne County we have one judge for every eighty-five thousand. Gentlemen, I am sincere when I tell you that we do not need another judge and if we did so, as a member of Luzerne bar I should be the very first man in this House to take this floor in favor of the passage of this bill.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I hope the gentlemen of this House will not fall into the error of passing this Legislation when the judges of Luzerne County are opposed to this measure.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne permit himself to be interrogated??

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I woud ike to ask the gentleman if he did not state that if he were successful in having the third section struck out that he would go along with the bill, and if he did not so inform a reporter of the Wilkes-Barre Record.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I did say that it would give the people a better chance at the primaries and at the general election.

Mr. THOMAS. Did you not say that you would go along with it?

Mr. GOOD. No, sir, I did not.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say just a few words on this proposition, because as I recall it, it was just a few days ago that the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Conniff, exhorted the gentlemen of this House to raise the salaries of the Judges of Luzerne County because of the fact that they were worked so hard. I only have this to say, that I think it is very pertinent to the present proposition. Not very long ago a committee from this House went to Luzerne County and sat two days in Wilkes-Barre on the inquiry of the charges brought against the president judge of that district by an attorney of the Luzerne County Bar. That committee came in contact with half a hundred lawyers, and they said to a man that there was urgent need for an additional judge there, and I think that is a matter that this House at this time should understand. One other thing, Mr. Speaker, when you delay justice to any litigant you practically deny him justice, and I do not think it proper economy to consider the question of the salary of the judges as regards the right of the people in that district to get justice, and I ask the House, in view of the sentiment of the Luzerne County Bar, and in view of the fact that we are told that the judges are overworked and unable to give the justice to the proper as quickly as should be, to increase the number of judges by one.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how long he was in Luzerne County.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, for two days.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman further. I would like to ask him the names of the attorneys.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I could not remember the names of half a hundred attorneys, but Mr. Saulsburg was one, and we also talked to several of them in the hotel there. I think it was the Sterling Hotel. We had a very excellent banquet given us in Wilkes-Barre where we met quite a number of lawyers.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia certain that he counted them correctly after the banquet.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, appollinaris water never affects a recollection, but, seriously, Mr. Speaker, every lawyer we met there was in favor of an increase in the number of their judges.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker. I hold in my hand a letter from M. H. McAniff, and he is an uncle of my colleague Mr. Conniff. He tells me that an additional judge is needed. This letter is from his own uncle.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, in order to set my ancestors right, I desire to refute the statement that Mr. McAniff is my uncle.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I call for verification of the roll.

This was done as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, my reasons for voting "no" on House Bill No. 1568, file folio 6271. First: My constitutents are opposed to this bill. Second: Two of the Common Pleas Judges informed me that there was no necessity for an additional judge, the trouble being not the fault of the judges they being often compelled to adjourn court for the want of trial attorneys of record in the cases, being busy in another court.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. MALIE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1216, on page 12 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1216, entitled:

An Act to amend section twenty-nine of an act approved the thirty-first day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six entitled "An Act to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors" as amended by increasing the penalty

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MALIE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend House Bill No. 1216, on page 3, line 39, by adding after the word "days" the word "said fine to be paid to the treasurer of the school district where such conviction is had by the alderman, police, magistrate or justice of the peace collecting the same."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill be prepared for final passage.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker. I desire to call up House Bill No. 1483 from page 12 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1483, entitled:

An Act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employee in the course of employment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1 by striking out all of sub-section "C." Also add to end of Section 4: "Section 5. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered. That the bill be prepared for final passage.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1351, from page 12, of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1351, entitled:

An Act permitting boards of school directors to reimburse certain teachers taking a special course of instruction during the annual vacation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 2, line 4, by striking out the letter "d" in the word "and."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the striking out of the letter? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the letter will be stricken out in accordance with the instructions of the House.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't think it is necessary to say very much in reference to this bill, but I want to reiterate what I said a few days ago. It is a meritorious measure in every way and I want to observe that no one who is a friend of the teachers can object, in sincerity, to the passage of this bill. I have found it the case ofttimes that bills that favor teachers incur more or less prejudice and I don't know why it is. I hope this will not be the case to-day. There is absolutely nothing mandatory in this bill; it is simply permissive. It is for each school board to say whether or not they will take up just what this bill calls for. I want to say further that there are now some boards of education or directors that are doing the very thing that this bill calls for, but if their auditors would object it would not be lawfully allowed. If this measure is passed, it will make it lawful for any board to do what this provision calls for. I might further say that the compensation of teachers to-day, is far from what it ought to be. They cannot lay up money and you know that quite well, let alone, during vacation giving their time and what little money they have left, if any, to go away and prepare themselves for special work. I want to read just very briefly what the United States Report gives along that line.

"Public school teachers of the United States do not receive enough salary to save money to carry adequate life insurance or to proceed with further professional training."

Most of the teachers of the country have, in effect, had their salaries reduced since 1897, says the report. Despite an apparent increase in money received by them, the high cost of living has cut into their salaries just as definitely as if a school board had sliced them.

A teaching position which paid $600 in 1897 is paying in purchasing power the equivalent of about $416 to-day, if measured by 1897 prices; the teacher on the $1,000 salary gets no more for his money than he would have procured fifteen years ago for $693.

That what the United States Bureau of Education says. Mr. Speaker I have nothing more to say about this measure. If you think it is meritorious and if you want to give the teacher the least bit of a chance to improve himself vote for this bill. I want to add that every school board that will send a teacher away and give him an opportunity to improve himself will get back every cent—that district will get back every cent and a thousand times more than they invest.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 1614, file folio 77741, on page 13 of to-day's Calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1614, entitled:

An Act authorizing the attachment of wages or salary upon judgments obtained for necessaries limiting the amount of exemption to be claimed and providing for the payment of the costs

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, as there are perhaps many members in this House who have not read this bill, and some who are opposed to it for constitutional reasons, on that account I would like to read this bill and then explain it briefly. The bill reads as follows:

That from and after the passage of this act whenever a judgment is obtained in any court of record or before an alderman magistrate or justice of the peace upon a contract for furnishing the necessaries of life and the defendant is a laborer or person engaged in public or private employment the wages of such laborer or the salary of such person shall be subject to attachment in the hands of the employer

Section 2 When an attachment execution is issued upon such judgment and wages or salary are attached in the hands of the employer if the amount in the hands of the employer shall be less than the amount of exemption allowed the defendant by law the debtor shall be entitled in his claim for an exemption to a sum amounting to ninety per centum and no more of the money so attached No deduction from the fund attached shall be permitted for costs but said costs shall be paid by the attaching creditor

Section 3 No attachment shall issue or be levied under this act unless and until the debtor has been given thirty (30) days previous notice by registered mail at his last known address of the intention to issue such writ and shall have failed within said period of thirty days to adjust such judgment to the satisfaction of his creditor

Section 4 The provisions of this act shall only apply to judgments secured upon contracts for the necessaries of life furnished after the passage of this act

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts supplied hereby or inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that in all of the States adjoining Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland,—a law similar in character to this is now on the statute books. In Ohio there has been such a law for the last twelve years. The laws in the other states are much more drastic than this law. I call the particular attention of the members of this House to the fact that under the provisions of this bill only ten per cent. can be attached. It is not directed against wages; salaries are included. Ninety per cent. of any amount that is coming to any wage or salary earner can be exempted, and only ten per cent. attached. I further wish to emphasize the fact that thirty days' notice must be given. It is not possible under this act to get a judgment and immediately issue an attachment, but thirty days' notice has to be given to the debtor by the judgment creditor, and if within those thirty days the debtor has not satisfactorily adjusted the indebtedness, then the attachment can issue. It is not the meaning that he must have paid the judgment, but if he shows a disposition within those thirty days to take care of the account at all, then no attachment issues. I further wish to emphasize the fact that the costs do not follow the attachment. The atach-ing creditor is bound to pay the costs himself. No deduction is permitted from the fund attached for the payment of costs. The members of the House no doubt know that in an attachment proceeding before a justice, the costs usually run from two, three, to five and six dollars. Thus any creditors who would contemplate making an atachment under this act would have to pay these costs, and all that he could recover would be ten per cent. There is nothing stringent in this law, nothing, I say, to which any honest or honorable man could take exception. It is merely the moral effect that is sought. It is advocated by the members of the Pennsylvania Retail Merchants Association of this State, and they are earnestly and urgently asking this legislation at the hands of the Assembly. It is the only thing they have asked for this session, except the repeal of the mercantile tax law, which they did not get. Now, in favoring this bill, gentlemen of the House, I do not wish anyone to think for a moment that I am not a friend of labor, that I am opposed to labor. If anyone will follow my record in this House during this session, with the exception of my vote on the constabulary bill, he will find that I consistently voted for every measure offered here by the labor interests, and this is the only piece of legislation that is asked for by the merchants of this State. I not only represent a great many organized laborers—there are a great many of them in my district—but I cannot lose sight of the fact that there are some 500 members of the Business Men's Exchange and the Retailers' Association in my city which I also represent, and I would feel that I would not be doing my duty as a representative: if I did not advocate this bill and earnestly urge this House to pass it.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, it is not a pleasant matter for me to take the opposite side against the gentleman from Erie, but there is a duty involved in this question that behooves me to say something against this bill at this time. The learned gentleman, Mr. Mitchell, told you the smooth side of the case, and he told it to you eloquently. I will try to give you some of the rough side of the case. We have in Pennsylvania to-day, which fact many of the members of this House know as well as I do, company stores. We have people that dealt in those company stores for the last five or ten years, and I say that during that time they have not drawn ten dollars of their salary. Now, if you pass this law, you will heap more trouble on those poor people. I say that every man and every woman ought to pay their honest debts. I have no use for a man who is dishonest, or a woman either, but I do say that we have their like everywhere and we have got to keep them and we must keep them. I say that this law will work a hardship on the working people of this State, and especially the miners of the State. I say that with work as it is and the conditions of the country flourishing, I think that the merchants of the State are better taken care of to-day than they have been in the last ten years, and I say that this law will work a hardship on the working man, the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. I say that this Legislature has done well for the working people in this session, and I say, in the name of Heaven, don't spoil it by passing this act, because if you do you will be following the example of the cow which gave good milk, and when she was milked kicked over the bucket. Therefore, I hope this bill will be defeated.

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, as a representative of organized labor for twenty-seven years, I want to state in behalf of this bill that I think it is just as fair a measure as could be drawn. Originally it was not, but it has been so amended as to satisfy and please everybody. The imputation goes forth that organized labor, union labor, is opposed to a bill of any description, is unfair to these people, my people, to intimate that we would for one minute protect the "dead beat." There is no man who belongs to organized labor that will not at al times meet the just demands that he is called upon to meet. In answer to Mr McDermott, the gentleman from Clearfield, on the company stores' condition, there has already passed a resolution in this House abolishing these stores, introduced by my colleague, Mr. Stein, and another waiting to get an opinion from the Attorney General. They are waiting to get an opinion from the Attorney General for abolishing one of the largest stores in conncetion with one of the largest corporation in the State of Pennsylvania. If there was anything unfair in this bill to any man that earns his bread by the sweat of his brow, I want to tell you, that I would be against it, but this bill as drawn is fair to everybody concerned, and as I remarked in the first place, do not for one minute imagine by the communications you have received and the remarks that have been made that the union people want any protection to help along a lot of dead beats that do not pay their just debts.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Isler.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir

Mr. MCDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman to say that Mr. Stein had introduced a bill to abolish stores.

Mr. ISLER. A resolution, in correction, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, that is where I wanted to make the correction. I understood it was to be an investigation. I wish we had before us what could be shown by an investigation. It would throw a whole lot of light to this House on the conditions.

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentleman. that resolution is at this time in the Senate, and if he will go there I am almost positive that the Senate will pass the resolution.

Mr. PIPER. I rise in opposition to the passage of this bill. I am not asking the members of this House to-day to do anything on this proposition to protect labor. I have been affiliated with labor since I first knew what it was to go into the workshop and earn my living. I started when I was twelve years of age. I have just left a hearing that would be beneficial to labor. I found in that hearing that a number of men throughout the State of Pennsylvania. representing invested interests in this State, have formed an organization whereby they could block legislation that would be beneficial to labor. I desire to say that if the business interests of the State of Pennsylvania desire protection, let them do the same as labor does in the State of Pennsylvania. We do not ask for any trust from any man if he is not desirous of giving it to us. Every man who is in business to-day in this State has the right to say whether or not he desires to trust his fellowman and I feel that the men who are asking for the passage of this bill are trying to carry out the same tactics that are being carried out in the City of Philadelphia to-day. Those tactics are these—when I am asked that question by some of my friends in the rear—those tactics are these: There are men in the City of Philadelphia, who are paid twelve dollars a week or fourteen dollars a week to come to the door bell of my home while I am at my workshop. The madam will come to the door and answer that ring, and then that agent will place his foot inside that door and talk to that woman and plead with her to purchase the article that he has for sale on an easy plan and then they come along and they are begging, the men who employ those agents, will come to the State Legislature and ask us to pass a law that is going to protect them, allow them to collect money in an easy way after they do those things. That woman is pleaded with as she purchases the article. The article is purchased on a certain payment per week. When the payments fall down, I, as individual, innocent man in the workshop—

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Piper, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, when I am through, I will be interrogated.

I, as individual worker in that workshop, don't know of the happenings of my madam at home, or you might say that your wife might be true. and yet there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of instances in the State, where the women are doing things unknown to the man working in the workshop. This law is to protect those men who are in business, who will go out and transact a credit business, solicit on their own business—

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that the gentleman is not talking on the bill, his remarks are not germaine at all. This bill simply applies to necessities. He is talking about installment houses. I do not think the butcher or baker or grocer would sell their food and their necessaries on the installment basis or canvassing.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman who has just made that statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Mitchell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, will this law if enacted, protect the installment houses as well as the butcher and the grocer?

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would say for the benefit of the gentleman from Philadelphia and the members of the House that it can be invoked only for necessities.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman and ask him whether clothing is a necessity of life. I ask the gentleman to answer my question.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would say so.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, then credit houses sell clothing and furniture and some credit houses sell groceries. Now, Mr. Speaker, I do not believe in passing a law or enacting a law that is going to benefit those who of their own solicitation will try to entice the poor working class of people into buying something when they really do not need it, and I ask the members of this House to vote this bill down.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, the members of this House have been following Mr. Piper who has been impassioned, but I submit to the House what he has stood day after day on the floor in advocacy of the bills for which he has been sponsor and for which he has been pressing, and that we have followed the gentleman without a dissenting voice, and now he takes the position upon this one measure that it should not be passed because it will be to the detriment and to the harm of the laboring man. Does the gentleman concede that all bills should be paid? Whether clothing is a necessity or not does not enter into the consideration of the case. Should not such bills be paid and should any honest man refuse to pay them? I submit that this bill will not bring any hardship to any man. Suppose a man is earning twenty dollars a week. Under this bill he can except eighteen dollars of that and only two dollars are subject to attachment, if within thirty days, mind you, after he has had notice by registered mail to his last known address, to make it, so that no snap judgment will be taken, if within that thirty days he has not gone to his creditor and made some satisfactory adjustment, then the attachment shall issue. He does not necessarily have to pay. Suppose in the thirty days he goes to the grocer and says, "I cannot pay, you must give me some more time;" and suppose he does pay the two dollars, would that man fail to listen to his plea? I think not. There is nothing ununreasonable in this bill. I have been informed that it is customary in certain lodges affiliated with the Federation of Labor to issue attachments for dues payable to such organization. I do not think there is anything improper in this bill and I do not see why it should not pass.

And I further submit, Mr. Speaker, that Mr. Piper raises the point that it is not compulsory for a merchant to grant credit. But, Mr. Speaker, what a cry would go out if the groceryman and butcher would stick to that and say, "No, I will not give you credit." What would be said then? A man who carries people along on his books from day to day! Why in the city of Erie, out of a hundred and fifty stores in business there, only fifteen of the grocermen were in business ten years ago, simply because of these bad debts. I submit this is not a hardship on a laboring man. It is usually the salaried man, the bank clerks and others in clerical positions in this Commonwealth, who go around with a cigarette in their mouth and their hat on the back of their head and are earning seventy-five dollars a month, who refuse to pay their debts and hide behind the fact that you cannot attach them. They say to you that you can get it if you can.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, as a friend of labor and one carrying a Union card, I want to arise and defend this bill. Organized labor and members of the Union are not opposed to this bill, who honestly desire to pay their debts. The gentleman from Philadelphia has drawn an illustration regarding the installment houses. The gentleman fully knows that every installment sale practically is covered by a lease and the records of the installment houses show that their loss is less than one and one-half per cent. As I understand this bill, it is aimed to protect the merchants who are selling goods without a lease, the grocers and the butchers and divers others who are selling goods to the men who they have trusted and who are working in the local districts, in the shops, and who after the delivery is made go out of the town and escape an honest debt, owing to the man who cannot afford to give them credit, usually the small merchant, and I believe the members of this House, in justice to organized labor, should vote aye on this bill.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I heard the gentlemen who are talking on this bill. Every one of them said, "As I understand this bill." They mean "this proposed law." Now I want to tell you of my experience many years ago in Connecticut, where they had such a law and which they repealed some years ago because it was unpopular, was one which was a great hardship on the honest man and did not get the crook at all. What happened under that law in the State of Connecticut was, the unscrupulous merchant or man who did not care whether the people needed the goods or not or whether they were what they should be, was simply desirous of getting the goods out of his hands and into the hands of a man who had a job, and he did not consider he was doing wrong if he made any sort of promise, knowing that when the bill was due he could come along and claim under the garnishee bill, or as they called it, the "factorized law," and he could issue an attachment or attach the wages up to a certain percentage of any working man or any of his minor children. Now, the grocer, the butcher, the baker were not protected, because the unscrupulous merchant selling clothing and furniture in excess of what the people's needs were, came in first with his claim. Now, the man who was a professional beat would go out and get his goods on credit and never was caught, for the reason that his boss never owed him any thing. In other words, he would collect his wages on the Saturday for the following week. If the man was a good mechanic, though not strictly honest in his dealings, his boss did not care for that.

The wife of an honest man might go to an unscrupulous dealer and buy some goods, and say to her husband that she bought it out of some little money that she had saved, because the dealer has told her that she can pay for it at a little for a time, but when the bill was due the merchant could come and take the money out of the man's wages and the working man would have no redress. That is how the bill worked in practice.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Bergey.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. PIPER. I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not this bill, if enacted into law, would protect the crook who gets out of town and refuses to pay his bills.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, not as I understand it.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman further if there is anything in the bill that would enable a merchant to bring a man back and make him pay his debts.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the bill you can send an exemplification of the record to any county in the State, and attach the crook's wages, or it can be done if he resides in any other State.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I asked that question owing to the fact that it seems to me that the argument used by the gentleman in behalf of the bill was to try and protect the business man from being cheated out of what another individual owed by leaving town and not paying his bills. I do not believe there is anything in this bill that is going to provide for the protection of the business man along that line, especially if a man is a thief, and wants to cheat the man he is doing business with, and gets out of town without his salary being attached.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I admit that the bill is not stringent. It is a compromise measure. It was introduced by me at the request of the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association, composed of about ninety thousand members. In its original form it was a more drastic measure, and more like the New York, Ohio and New Jersey laws. In the Committee on Labor and Industry where the bill was considered, it was referred to a sub-committee composed of Mr. Letzkus, Mr. James A. Dunn and myself, and reported out on the floor of the House in its present form. Mr. McAleer referred to the law in Connecticut and, Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he has ever read the Connecticut law?

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I have not read it, but I saw it working and in practice many times. It is considered about the last of the old Blue Laws of Connecticut.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he believes that a merchant would be hasty in the exercise of his right under this law when he knows that he has to pay all of the costs, and would he be likely to force commodities upon a purchaser simply for the purpose of increasing his bill when he must bear all the costs of the suit?

Mr . McALEER. Mr. Speaker, that will work out principally through the fact that the Clerk who gets a commission will take a chance on the thing going through. The honest workingman is the one man who really suffers through this factorizing. I like the term, because I am familiar with it. He suffers even though he wants to pay his bills. But the professional crook does not have his wages taken away from him because he will never have anything coming to him. He will always be in the bosses debt instead of the boss being in his debt.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I further wish to ask the gentleman if a short time ago in this House he did not vote affirmatively on a bill the purpose of which was to enlarge the rights of boarding house keepers to attach for four weeks board?

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that I am so busy looking up coming legislation that I do not remember what I have voted on in the past.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I will say for the benefit of the House that the gentleman did so vote.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to take but a very few moments. I did not intend to speak upon this proposition, but it is a well known fact that the mercantile business is carried on very extensively and it is perfectly natural, and it is in great competition. Therefore, the profits on the necessities of life are very low, the percentage is very light, and in order for the merchant to make his business successful he must get his pay for the merchandise. The facts are that there are a great many men who refrain from or neglect to pay their grocery bills, while they squander all their money for the unnecessary things of life. For that reason those who do pay their bills pay more than they ought to pay, and, gentlemen, for the protection of the merchant, and for the protection of the honest laboring man, this bill should pass.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker. I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lackawanna?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOBBS. I will.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not he classes the professional crook along with the man who is desirous of probably going out after his working hour and taking a glass of beer?

Mr. HOBBS. No, sir, I don't.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I would further ask the gentleman if he believes that the individual who leaves his workshop on an evening and takes a glass of beer is a professional crook?

Mr. HOBBS. No, sir, Mr. Speaker.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 451 from page 13 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 451, entitled:

An Act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals and birds killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. REESER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend House Bill 451, file folio 7735. Title by striking out in the fifth and sixth lines of the title the word "making an appropriation for such reimbursement."

Section 4, lines 17 and 18, by striking out the words "the appropriation hereafter provided" and inserting in lieu thereof the following; "the funds which shall hereafter accumulate in the hands of the State Treasurer from the fifty per centum of the fees paid for Hunter's licenses as provided by Section 12 of the Act of Assembly approved the seventeenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, entitled, "An Act for the better protection of wild birds and game within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; requiring citizens of the United States residing within this State to procure a license before using guns for the purpose of hunting for any wild birds or animals protected by the laws of this Commonwealth; and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions, and the manner of proceeding to enforce compliance therewith; and providing for the disposition of the license fees and penalties received."

Section 6. By striking out all of Section 6.

Section 7, line 1, by striking out the figure "7" and inserting in lieu thereof the figure "6."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

NAYS—1.

Barner,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1075, entitled:

An Act repealing an act entitled "An Act relating to the assessment of damage for the appropriation of land for public use" approved fifteenth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred seventy-one

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, this bill seems to repeal an act of 1871, which reads something like this,

That in all case of the appropriation of land for public use, other than for roads, streets or highways, it shall not be lawful to assess, apportion or charge the whole or any portion of the damage done to or value of the land so appropriated, to, among or against the other property adjoining or in the vicinity of the land so appropriated nor the owners thereof.

This measure seeks to repeal that act so that the municipality in construction of sewers, for instance, fixed from the standpoint of economy, it is necessary to pass through some portion of private property. When the damage awarded the owner is or can be assessed as benefits to the adjoining property that has been benefited by this improvement. Mr. Speaker, that is all that is in this act. Under the present act, the municipalities are compelled to pay the damages done the private property by this improvement passing through it. This bill permits the municipality to assess the property adjoining.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I might state also in regard to this measure that I introduced a similar bill which passed the House one month ago and is now in the Judiciary General Committee of the Senate. I merely want to state that so that the House will understand that it had already acted upon this question.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Section 7 This act shall become operative the first day of September one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

Section 8 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act or any part thereof are hereby repealed

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 419, entitled:

An Act relating to the advertising of propesed amendments to the Constitution of this Commonwealth

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Add to Section 1, line 7, having the largest sworn circulation. Provided, however, the rates charged shall not be higher than the regular rates charged for similar work.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, so far as the rate is concerned in that amendment, I have no objection, but so far as the reference to circulation is concerned, I do object. because in my county the two papers having the largest circulation are two dailies, one a morning and the other an evening, which are controlled entirely by one party, and a friend of mine, Senator Sproul, is one of the principal stockholders, so that you can see that I have no personal interest. But I realize that those two papers circulate in the same territory and the idea of publishing our constitutional amendments is to cover the whole county, and it seems to me that that matter ought to be left to the Auditor General. If the gentleman will withdraw that part of his amendment, I will withdraw my objection. Perhaps the gentleman will be willing to correct his amendment to conform with my desires.

Mr. MOSES. No, Mr. Speaker, I will not withdraw the amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendment.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think the House understands the proposition thoroughly. It is a very simple matter and the question as to whether this amendment shall be inserted might as well be settled on going into Committee of the Whole. I object to going into Committee of the Whole. It is the same proposition as objecting to the amendment.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. BERGEY asked unanimous consent to offer amendments, which were read for information.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, the amendments that I offered are simply a business proposition. The case that Mr. Baldwin cites does not occur in any other section of the State, possibly. Any business man will pick out the paper that has the largest circulation if he wants to advertise his business. The point I make is simply a business proposition.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:, viz:

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 645.

An Act defining and regulating public amusements and places used therefor requiring and regulating the licensing thereof restricting the scope of certain acts of Assembly relating thereto and providing penalties for violation of this act

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RECESS.

Mr. CHEESEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now take a recess until 8 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to and (at 6 o'clock P. M.) the House took a recess until 8 o'clock P. M.

AFTER RECESS.

The House reconvened at 8:00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER, (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

SENATE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representativs as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives, May 14, 1913.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 695, file folio 4133, entitled, "An Act making an appropriation to the State Highway Department to cover a deficiency in the automobile division," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

SENATE CONCURS IN RESOLUTION.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives, May 14, 1913.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 416, file folio 3697, entitled, "An Act to prevent occupational diseases and to provide for health of employees exposed to the danger of lead poisoning and other occupational diseases by regulating certain manufacturing establishments providing for medical examinations and reports and requiring sanitary precautions and appliances and making violation of its provisions a misdemeanor and providing penalties for violation thereof," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

House Bill No. 1151.

An Act to authorize the township commissioners of townships of the first class to ordain and establish sidewalks along the principal streets and highways of the township leading directly to or connecting cities boroughs villages or places of public resort and to charge a part of the expense of constructing the same upon the abutting property owners and to defray the remaining part of such expense from the public funds of the township

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

In section 7, page 5, line 5, add after the word "Commonwealth" the following:

"Provided, That the foregoing provisions of this act shall cease to be operative in any township of the first class when after the passage of any ordinance for any of the above purposes the owners of at least fifty-one per centum in value (according to the last assessed valuation for taxable purposes) of property in said township shall express in writing to the Board of Township Commissioners their dissent from the provisions of such ordinance."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House non-concur in the amendment made by the Senate.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed, that the Senate has insisted upon its amendments, non-concurred in by the House of Representatives, to House Bill No. 1144, entitled:

An Act to authorize townships of the first class to provide for the collection and removal of ashes and garbage accumulating therein

And has appointed Messrs. Buckman, Jones and Thompson, a committe of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives, (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such committee,) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

Mr. AMBLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its amendments and that a Committee of Conference be appointed.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

House Bill No. 1357:

An Act concerning building regulating and inspection in townships of the first class

With information that the Senate has passed the same with amendment in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Add to the title in line 2, the following: "and providing that the provisions thereof shall be inoperative in any such township when a certain percentage of the property owners shall dissent from the action of the commissioners taken under the provisions of this act."

Section 2, line 4, after the word "powers" add the following: "Provided that the foregoing provisions of this act shall cease to be operative in any township of the first class when after the passage of any ordinance for any of the above purposes the owners of at least fifty-one per centum in value (according to the last assessed valuation for taxable purposes) of property in said township shall express in writing to the Board of Township Commissioners their dissent from the provisions of such ordinance"

On the question,

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

House Bill No. 562,

An Act to fix the salaries of the clerks of the State Department in the office of the county treasurer of any county of this Commonwealth having a population of one million or over with the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

In line 9, after the word "annum" insert the following: "receiving teller or clerk twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) per annum."

In line 11 after the word "annum" insert the following: "second assistant receiving teller or clerk sixteen hundred dollars ($1,600.00) per annum first assistant bookkeeper sixteen hundred dollars ($1,600.00) per annum.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the House concur in the amendments, and for the information of the House I would say that the salaries of three clerks in the City Tax office are being increased two hundred dollars, and the extra work occasioned by the fact that the City Treasurer's office is handling the school money justifies this increase for these three men.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentlemen from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if this is an effort to increase salaries or to create new positions?

Mr. RONEY. No new positions.

The question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments of the Senate?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would call the attention of the House to the fact that there is a manifest error in the last line of House Bill No. 1913. It probably would save the Senate an amendment and an extra roll call if it were postponed until the sponsor can correct it.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1913, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the sixth day of June one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three entitled "An Act to provide for the consolidation of boroughs and the government and regulation thereof" as amended

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. GOOD. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1682, entitled:

An Act to amend section five of an act approved the tenth day of April one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven entitled "An Act for the better and more impartial selection of persons to serve as jurors in each of the counties of this Commonwealth"

Brownlee,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1833 (Senate No. 558), entitled:

An Act to amend the first section of an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act amendatory to the license laws of this State approved April eleven one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two in relation to the county of Berks" approved the twenty-third day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STRAUSS. Mr. Speaker, just a word in explanation. This is a bill that applies only to Berks County and has relation to the printing of the mercantile appraiser's list. Heretofore the lists were published in four newspapers, two of which were German. Now they are to be printed in the same number of newspapers one of which may be German.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1675, as follows:

An Act to amend section thirteen of an act entitled "An Act regulating the collection of taxes in the several boroughs and townships of this Commonwealth" approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section thirteen of an act entitled "An Act regulating the collection of taxes in the several boroughs and townships of this Commonwealth" approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five which reads as follows

Section 13 So much of all general acts heretofore passed as inconsistent herewith is hereby repealed but this act shall not apply to any taxes the collectio nof which is regulated by a local law" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 13 All acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, there has been some inquiry about this bill and I will say for the benefit of the House that the only purpose of the bill is to repeal a local law which exists in our county and I believe somewheres else. There are two or three tax collectors and this bill is for the purpose of repealing that act over in my county and elsewhere and having it controlled by the general law regulating the collection of taxes. The bill was prepared under the direction of Justice Elkin of my county and also by Mr. McCurdy and the only effect of it would be to repeal the special laws which confuse the correction of taxes that now exist.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the explanation of the gentleman from Indiana I feel that there might be a question as to the Constitutionality of this act in so far as he says that it is to repeal a special law. I therefore move you Mr. Speaker that this bill be recommitted to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I would just say so far as that is concerned that I think the gentleman will discover that it is not that character of bill that would come under Constitutional prohibition. The matter was looked over by Judge Elkin, or rather was referred to him.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inform the gentleman from Philadelphia that the bill having been passed upon by the Judiciary General it cannot be reviewed by the Judiciary Special Committee.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—2.

Foster, J. D., Matt,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 556, file folio 7109, entitled:

An Act providing for the compensation by the proper county of licensed physicians for certain reports and certificates required to be furnished to the State Department of Health and fixing the duties of the respective county treasurers and of the Commissioner of Health was defeated on final passage on Tuesday, May 6th, be reconsidered.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill to give to the physicians of the Commonwealth twenty-five cents for recording each certificate of death and each certificate of birth. At the time the bill was under discussion last Tuesday I was asked for some information that at the time I was unable to give. Since that time I have been able to get from the Department of Health the cost to the different counties of the State including the largest and the smallest, I guess. Now, then, Mr. Speaker, in the two largest counties, Philadelphia and Allegheny, the members from which two counties voting almost unanimously for this bill, of course, would be the greatest expense. For instance, if this bill were to become a law it would cost the County of Philadelphia about $16,000.00 a year; it would cost the County of Allegheny about $12,000.00 a year; it would cost the County of Luzerne about $4,000.00; it would cost the County of Dauphin, for instance, about $1,300.00 per year; it would cost the County of Crawford $538.00 a year; it would cost the County of Pike $72.50 a year, as of the reports of 1912. Now, Mr. Speaker, this is certainly not a great expense for the counties for the great protection that the physicians give to the citizens of those counties in promptly and properly reporting the cases of contagious disease to the local registrars or Boards of Health, so that they may be able to placard that house, and in many instances to prevent the spread of the disease. That alone, Mr. Speaker, seems to be a sufficient protection and seems to be a sufficient reason for the amount of money expended by the several counties in the State for this purpose. The physicians are not paid for the reporting of contagious diseases, but nevertheless they are compelled by the present law to report them and to report them instantly. This bill only seeks to allow them twenty-five cents for reporting the certificates of birth and the certificates of death, which they are not compelled to do by law. It is not simply a matter of sitting down in the house to which the physician has been called and making out these certificates of births or deaths. It requires in a case of a certificate of birth probably a second or third visit in order to get the information that the State Board of Health now demands.

So that it does take up a considerable portion of the physicians time and surely that time is worth the small sum of twenty-five cents, and I do think that the members of this House should support this measure.

Mr. HUMES. Mr Speaker, it was my understanding that this motion to reconsider was prompted by a desire to subsequently amend the bill so that the payment of those fees might be made by the State Health Department, but it is evident from the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny that is not now the purpose. It strikes me that the physicians who are making these reports should be paid for their service; I am not questioning that for one moment, but I do contend that a department to whom we are apropriating over three millions of dollars for the purpose of doing work that is based upon these reports should pay the expense incident to it out of the appropriation and not increase the apropriation by some thirty or forty thousand dollars by indirection, as this bill would do. It strikes me that the gentlemen who represent the county of Philadelphia can scarcely contend that that county is warranted in making an expenditure of sixteen thousand dollars for this purpose, in the face of the great appropriation made to the Health Department, if the financial condition of that county is half as bad as the speeches here would indicate when they are asking for all revenue measures possible in order to put money in their treasury. My opposition to this bill is not because I am opposed to physicians receiving compensation for this work. I believe they should be paid, but I believe that the institution to whom we are appropriating these three millions of dollars every year for the purpose of doing the very work that this is largely based upon, these reports and all of these reports are a part and should defray the expense out of that appropriation and not ask in this way to increase the appropriation to the extent of forty thousand dollars as this would do. Inasmuch as it is now the purpose of the gentleman from Allegheny to not have it amended so as to provide for payment out of the proper fund, I hope that the House will not act favorably upon this motion to reconsider.

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, it would be a very easy matter to amend the bill as the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, desires and place it before the House in that way. If this bill is reconsidered, I will make a motion to have the bill postponed for that purpose.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to reconsider.

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question now recurs,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I hope that this motion does not prevail. I realize and I appreciate that the position that I have taken in this matter is desirable and I still believe that the counties should pay for what they have done. I feel that it is a proper expense of the counties and that it is not a state matter.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to postpone.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 24 gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and 86 in the negative.

The motion was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question recurs,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, in view of the situation that now confronts us, I want to absolutely challenge the good faith of the gentlemen who are contending that the purpose of this bill is to protect the physicians for the labor incident to making these reports. I say that the refusal of the sponsor of the bill and the others who are in its favor to permit this bill to be amended so as to provide for the payment of the physicians who make these reports from the proper and legitimate source is evidence conclusive that their purpose is not to protect the physicians but to in this way undertake to increase the appropriation to the Health Department by forty thousand dollars. A vote for this measure is simply the increasing of that appropriation in this indirect way. I hope the House will defeat this bill.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, it is just possible that the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, may be misjudging the motives of the sponsor of this bill and the men who are behind this bill. When the sponsor asked me to have this vote reconsidered he gave me his promise that he would try to have the bill come to a final vote to-night and be disposed of. Perhaps, the gentleman is trying to keep good faith and thus keep his promise with me, but insofar as I am concurened, I will release him.

Mr. O'NEILL Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation, I wish to state that this bill was well discussed and well talked over from every point in every form in that committee and we all agreed upon it. It was originally fifty cents and this bill ought to pass.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1947 (Senate Bill No. 882), entitled:

An Act permitting and regulating the use of the several armory buildings of the National Guard of Pennsylvania for horticultural and poultry exhibits

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BERNTHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, the custody and control of the State Armory is at present under the supervision of the State Board. I fear that this bill will take this control out of the hands of the State Board and I think the matter should be looked into. In order to enable us to do that, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1953 (Senate Bill No.832), entitled:

An Act regulating the number and election of members of borough councils

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL STRICKEN FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think we can save time on this bill by briefly stating its provisions and following that with a motion. Under the provisions of this bill which relates to boroughs, twenty citizens of a borough may apply to the court and the court on its own volition, without appeal or anything else, can reduce the number of councilmen from three in a ward or two in a ward to one in a ward, at the pleasure of the court. The bill is very corrupt and should be simply striken from the calendar, and I so move.

Mr. BERGEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1744, entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth' approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five creating a Department of Wharves Docks and Ferries for the improvement regulation and supervision of the construction extension alteration maintenance and use of wharves piers bulkheads docks slips basins ferries harbors and harbor structures in cities of the first class and providing for the making and enforcement of rules and regulations and fixing certain penalties for violation thereof and providing for the acquisition of property by said cities by purchase and by condemnation for certain purposes" approved the eighth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1903 (Senate Bill No. 833), entitled:

An Act to consolidate the five courts of common pleas of Philadelphia county

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, a word in explanation of this bill. This bill was introduced in the Senate at the instigation of several leading members of the bar of Philadelphia who believed that it would have a tendency to help us in relieving the congestion of our business in the Philadelphia courts.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I might add to that explanation. In 1909, an amendment to the constitution providing for the consolidation of the common pleas courts of Allegheny County was introduced and passed, and passed again at the session of 1911. It was afterwards adopted as an amendment to the Constitution by a referendum in November 1911. It is proposed now to give to Philadelphia by that statute exactly what Allegheny got by its constitutional amendment. I believe that the purpose of this bill is a good one and that the bill should pass.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1723, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section fourteen hundred and six of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennnsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" which reads as follows

"Section 1406 The board of school directors of any school district in this Commonwealth may on account of the small number of pupils in attendance or the condition of the then existing school building or for the purpose of better gradation and classification or for economical or other reasons close and consolidate any one or more of the public schools in its district and upon such school or schools being so closed the pupils who belong to the same shall be assigned to other schools Provided That in any district of the fourth class pupils who belong to any such closed school and reside one and a helf miles or more from the school to which they are assigned shal lbe furnished proper transpor- which they are assigned shall be furnished proper transporto which they are assigned" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1406 The board of school directors of any school district in this Commonwealth may on account of the small number of pupils in attendance or the condition of the then existing school building or for the purpose of better gradation and classification or for economical or other reasons close and consolidate any one or more of the public schools in its district and upon such school or schools being so closed the pupils who belong to the same shall be assigned to other schools Provided That in any district of the fourth class pupils who belong to any such closed school and reside one and a quarter miles or more from the school to which they are assigned shall be furnished proper transportation at the expense of the district to and from the school to which they are assigned And provided further That where under the provisions of this section a school has been discontinued for any cause the word shall be construed to mean must

Section 2 But no Board of School Directors shall convey or cause to be conveyed from their homes to any school and children who are not of compulsory school age Provided however that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prohibit any Board of School Directors from conveying said children if the Board of School Directors so elect

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Sec. 1, line 35, strike out the word "quarter" and insert the word "half."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1896 (Senate Bill No. 752), entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act to incorporate an academy or public schol in the town of Warren and for other purposes herein mentioned" approved the second day of April one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two providing authority to the trustees of the Warren Academy or their successors to sell and convey in fee simple certain lands

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DeFREES. Mr. Speaker, this bill is of purely local application and is designed to allow school boards to handle these lands to greater advantage.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 904, as follows:

An Act fixing the pay of assessors in the several counties having population of one hundred and fifty thousand or over

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the pay of assessors in each county of this Commonwealth having a population of one hundred and fifty thousand or over shall be five dollars ($5.00) per day for each day actually spent in the performance of their duties

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Montgomery the difference in the work of assessors in counties of one hundred and forty-nine thousand and counties of one hundred and fifty thousand or over?

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I consider the work to be about the same. Some of the members asked me to have the bill amended with relation to the one hundred and fifty thousand population clause and that is why I had it amended to read one hundred and fifty thousand or over.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. I desire to further interrogate the gentleman and ask him whether or not this does not simply take more days to complete the assessment.

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I do not understand the question and cannot answer it.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. ROTHENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. KERN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1498, as follows:

An Act to amend the eleventh fifteenth and thirty-fourth sections of an act approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five entitled "An Act regulating the construction maintenance alteration and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the second class"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section eleven of an act approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five entitled "An Act regulating the construction maintenance alteration and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the second class which reads as follows

"Section 11 All foundation walls and cellars shall be built of stone or brick laid in cement or lime mortar If constructed of stone they shall be at least six inches thicker than the wall next above them to the depth of twelve feet below said wall and shall be increased six inches in thickness for every additional ten feet in depth below the said twelve feet and if of brick they shall be of at least four inches thicker than the wall next above them to a depth of twelve feet below the said wall and shall be increased four inches in thickness for every additional ten feet below said twelve feet If there are cellars or excavations foundation walls shall start at least twelve inches below cellar bottom and those of all dwelling houses shall be at least six inches below cellar bottom

Minimum thickness of brick enclosing and division wall for business buildings shall be as follows

Walls built of small piers shall be increased at least four inches wider than the above table Where trusses or girders are used pilasters shall be added of sufficient area to support load For every addition of twenty-five feet or part thereof to the length of the truss over thirty feet the amount of the materials specified may be used either in piers or buttresses in outside and division or party walls Provided That the amount of the materials shall in no case be less than is specified in the aforesaid tables Provided That the superintendent of the bureau may if in his judgment occasion demands it require the walls increased to a greater thickness than above specified And provided further That in case of buildings constructed of a frame work of iron and steel carrying the structure and where the walls are simply used to enclose the building and do not carry its weight the superintendent of the bureau of building inspection shall have authority to fix the proper thickness of walls required in any particular case and may designate the thickness at pilasters and between pilasters as in his judgment may seem proper And provided further That nothing in this section shall prevent the erection of light walls constructed of a frame-work of iron or steel filled in with glass" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 11 All foundation walls and cellars shall be built of stone or brick laid in cement mortar If constructed of stone they shall be at least six inches thicker than the wall next above them to the depth of twelve feet below said wall and shall be increased six inches in thickness for every additional ten feet in depth below the said twelve feet and if of brick they shall be at least four inches thicker than the wall next above them to a depth of twelve feet below the said wall and shall be increased four inches in thickness for every additional ten feet below said twelve feet. If there are cellars or excavations foundation walls shall start at least twelve inches below cellar bottom and those of all dwelling houses shall be at least six inches below cellar bottom

All foundation walls for dwellings shall be supported in footing courses of concrete or stone If footing course is constructed of concrete the concrete shall be composed of at least one part Portland cement two and one half parts clean sand and fire parts clean gravel or broken stone mixed in batch each time by careful measurement with the proper amount of clear water and be deposited and tamped in trenches Where the earth forming sides of trenches is loose plank forms firmly held in place must be used If footing course is constructed of stone large flat stones must be used each stone being wide enough to extend the entire width of footing course and all stones shall be bedded and slushed with Portland cement mortar

All concrete and stone footing courses shall be at least six inches thick and be at least ten inches wider than the foundation walls they support However before footing courses are laid or constructed the condition of the soil shall be inspected by the Bureau of Building Inspection and if additional width and depth of footing is found necessary by reason of loose or soft soil the Inspector of the Bureau of Building Inspection is hereby empowered to increase the width and depth of footings as in his judgment is necessary to properly carry and distribute the weight of the foundation walls and footings

All foundation walls for dwellings with sixteen feet front or less being not more than two stories high and having a floor area of first story not exceeding eight hundred square feet exclusive of porches may be constructed of stone or brick or of concrete If foundation walls are constructed of stone they shall not be less than eighteen inches thick and shall comply with the requirements above stated in this section for foundation walls of stone If foundation walls are constructed of brick they shall be built of hard burned brick laid in Portland cement mortar and shall not be less than twelve inches thick except for frame dwelling where nine inch foundation walls must be reinforced with brick pilasters not less than twelve inches wide and eight inches thick and spaced not more than ten feet from center to center of pilasters or foundation walls Where brick foundation walls exceed eight feet in height they shall be increased four inches in thickness for every additional five feet in height If foundation walls are constructed of concrete the concrete shall be composed of not less than one part Portland cement two and one-half parts clean sand and five parts of clean gravel or broken stone mixed in batch each time by careful measurement with the proper amount of clean water and be deposited and tamped in forms constructed of boards or planks or other material approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection All forms shall be firmly built and securely braced and held in place and shall not be removed until four days after concrete has been poured Concrete foundation walls shall not be less than twelve inches thick to the depth of nine feet and shall be increased four inches in thickness for every additional five feet in height

Enclosing division and party walls for business buildings shall be not less than the following dimensions namely

For buildings seventy-five to one hundred and fifty feet by thirty foot span or less

Walls built of small piers shall be increased at least four inches wider than the above table Where trusses or girders are used pilasters shall be added of sufficient area to support load For every addition of twenty-five feet or part thereof to the length of the truss over thirty feet the amount of the materials specified may be used either in piers or buttresses in outside and division or party walls Provided That the amount of the materials shall in no case be less than is specified in the aforesaid tables Provided That the superintendent of the bureau may if in his judgment occasion demands it require the walls increased to a greater thickness than above specified And provided further That in case of buildings constructed of a frame work of iron and steel carrying the structure and where the walls are simply used to enclose the building and do not carry its weight the superintendent of the bureau of building inspection shall have authority to fix the proper thickness of walls required in any particular case and may designate the thickness of walls at pilasters and between pilasters as in his judgment may seem proper And provided further That nothing in this section shall prevent the erection of light walls constructed of a frame work of iron or steel filled in with glass

Section 2 That section fifteen of the aforesaid act which now reads as follows

"Section 15 In all dwellings hereafter to be erected with a front of sixteen feet or less provided they do not exceed sixty feet in length and thirty-five feet in height the cellar or foundation wall shall not be less than eighteen inches in thickness the front and rear walls not less than nine inches and the party walls not less than nine inches Walls binding on the street lane or alley shall not be less than thirteen inches to the top of the first floor joist In all dwellings over sixteen and not over twenty feet front nor more than forty-five feet high the foundation walls shall not be less than eighteen inches in thickness the front walls shall not be less than thirteen inches the party walls not less than thirteen inches and for all dwellings over twenty feet front the party walls shall not be less than thirteen inches and the front and rear walls shall not be less than thirteen inches to entire height If there be a stone ashler used three inches thick or less it shall not be included in the thickness of any wall herein specified Where two or more dwelling houses of brick adjoin each other all floor joists on a level shall be disconnected on the party of division walls and filled with mortar and brick at the end of the joists No party wall where built of stone shall be less than sixteen inches in thickness Provided That when an application is made for a permit to erect an additional story upon a one or two story building used or to be used for a dwelling and the party walls of the said building are but nine inches thick the bureau of building inspection may in its judgment issue such permit without requiring any additional thickness for the party wall Provided further in all dwellings hereafter erected the cellars shall extend underneath the whole house and be ventilated from both ends and in low damp or made ground the bottom of all cellars shall be covered with brick concrete or asphalt at least three inches thick of such material as may be approved by the bureau of building inspection Every new dwelling house shall have at least fourteen feet front Provided however that this limitation shall not apply to lots of less than fourteen feet in width on which buildings are now erected nor to lots less than fourteen feet which are bounded on each side by ground belonging to other owners at the time of approval of this act and every such new dwelling house have an open space attached to it in the rear or at the side equal to at least one hundred and forty-four square feet clear space unobstructed by any overhanging structure" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 15 In all dwellings hereafter to be erected with a front of sixteen feet or less provided they do not exceed sixty feet in length and thirty-five feet in height the cellar or foundation wall shall not be less than eighteen inches in thickness the front and rear walls not less than nine inches and the party walls not less than nine inches Walls binding on the street lane or alley shall not be less than thirteen inches to the top of the first floor joist

For dwellings with a front not exceeding sixteen feet being not more than two stories high and having a floor area not exceeding eight hundred square feet on each floor exclusive of porches the cellar shall not be less than six feet high the basement not less than eight high and the first and second story not be less than eight feet six inches high for each story and shall not be more than ten feet high for each story The exterior walls and the division or party walls may be built of brick frame or hollow title Exterior walls of brick or hollow title may start on foundation at grade line but no portions of these exterior walls shall be below the grade line Division or party walls of brick or hollow title may start on footing course of basement or cellar floors Exterior division or party walls constructed of brick shall be built of hard burned brick laid in Portland cement or lime mortar and shall not be less than nine inches thick Where exterior party or division walls of brick extend below the first floor line to a depth below that specified for foundation walls in Section eleven of this act then these exterior party or division walls shall be increased in thickness as called for under Section eleven for brick foundation walls

Exterior party or division walls constructed of hollow title shall meet the requirements and be constructed as herein provided

All hollow tile shall be hollow terra cotta well manufactured and free from checks and cracks each piece or block to be modeled square and true and to be hard burned so as to have a good clear ring when struck and not to absorb more than twelve per centum of its own weight in moisture Each of said blocks should develop an ultimate crushing strength of not less than three thousand pounds per square inch of avaible section or web area and shall not be loaded when in the wall more than eighty pounds per square inch of effective bearing area

Tiles shall have outer shells or walls not less than three-fourth inch thick and shall be additionally reinforced by continuous interior walls or webs which shall not be less than one-half inch thick and so arranged that no void shall exceed four inches in cross section at any point

It is further provided that the Superintendent of Building Inspection may require a test to be made of such blocks before allowing the same to be placed in the wall if in his judgment there be any doubt as to whether such blocks proposed to be used meet the requirements above specified

No foundation wall of any building shall be constructed of hollow blocks or terra cotta tiles and no hollow tiles or terra cotta wall or partition shall be supported in part or entirely by any wooden or other combustible beam girder or post

Hollow tile exterior party or division walls shall not be less than eight inches thick and where these walls extend below the first floor line on a two-story dwelling they shall not be less than twelve inches thick

No bearing wall or exterior wall shall be built of a single unit less than eight inches thick or more than twelve inches high when the voids are placed vertically And all such exterior walls shall be plastered on the outside three-fourth inch thick with Portland mortar

All openings over three feet in width in hollow tile walls shall have lintels composed of steel reinforced concrete or reinforced of sufficient strength to carry the load imposed

When the floor or roof load is applied to said bearing or exterior walls in concentration of two tons or more at one place a solid pier of brick reinforced concrete or concrete filled tile shall be used under each concentration Each of said piers to be not less than twice the thickness of the wall of which it is a part and no pier shall be loaded in excess of eighty pounds per square inch of its area

Whenever floor slabs or joists rest on a hollow terra cotta wall composed of tile with voids set vertically or wherever a change in thickness of wall occurs the course upon which the joists or slabs rest or upon which the tinner wall rests shall have the voids in the tiles or blocks in the course so bearing the load completely filled with Portland cement concrete so construced that no joists timber or other material whatsoever shall bear or transmit a load to the wall without having an iron first quality of hard brick or terra cotta bearing plate or concrete filled or solid block under the same at the point where the load is transmitted

And further provided that in no case shall the area of the block to which the load is transmitted be less than double the area of the beam or timber or other material transmitting the load

All walls hereinbefore referred to in the preceding section of this ordinance shall be constructed in the following manner The blocks will be set only in Portland cement mortar composed of not less than one part Portland cement to three parts clean sharp river sand This mortar may be tempered with one part lime paste to eight parts of mortar Tile blocks shall be thoroughly bonded one to another both vertically and longitudinally and all joints filled with mortar and when tiles are set in the wall the vertical web of one shall occur as nearly as practicable directly over the vertical web of the adjacent tile below The blocks may be built with voids horizontally and with mortar joints between all blocks or they may be built with voids vertical provided all horizontal bearings or joints are reinforced with metal fabric of from one-eighth to one-half inch mesh capable of holding the mortar This fabric shall be one-half inch less in width than the width of the wall of the course upon which it is applied and shall be double lapped at all corners Such web shall be spread on each horizontal course of tile before the mortar is put on and shall be completely covered with and imbedded in Portland cement mortar as the course of blocks upon it is being laid No cutting of blocks will be allowed to admit pipes in bearing walls The metal fabric hereinbefore specified may be omitted in non-bearing or curtain walls or where the tile is laid in bearing walls with the voids horizontal

Further that in all parts of the city within the fire limits no interior joist or wood work shall be within four inches of the outside of the exterior of the wall

In all dwellings over sixteen and not over twenty feet front nor more than forty-five feet high the foundation walls shall not be less than eighteen inches in tickness the front walls shall not be les sthan thirteen inches the party walls not less than thirteen inches and for all dwellings over twenty feet from the party walls shall not be less than thirteen inches and the front and rear walls shall not be less than thirteen inches to entire height If there be a stone ashler used three inches thick or less it shall not be included in the thickness of any wall herein specified Where two or more dwelling houses of brick adjoin each other all floor joists on a level shall be disconnected on the party or division walls and filled with mortar and brick at the end of the joists No party wall where built of stone shall be less than sixteen inches in thickness provided that when an application is made for a permit to erect an additional story upon a one or two story building used or to be used for a dwelling and the party walls of the said building are but nine inches thick the Bureau of Building Inspection may in its judgment issue such permit without requiring any additional thickness for the party wall Provided further in all dwellings hereafter erected there shall be a cellar underneath the whole house or a cellar and a basement underneath the whole house Where basements are provided and occupy a portion of the space underneath the dwelling the finished floor of basement must not be below the outside grade line at outside entrance to basement Cellars shall be ventilated from both ends and in low damp or made ground the bottom of all cellars shall be covered with brick concrete or asphalt at least three inches thick of such material as may be approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection Every new dwelling house shall have at least fourteen feet front Provided however that this limitation shall not apply to lots of less than fourteen feet in width which are bounded on each side by ground belonging to other owners at the time of approval of this act and every such new dwelling house shall have an open space attached to it in the rear or at the side equal to at least one hundred and forty-four square feet clear space unobstructed by any overhanging structure"

Section 3 That section thirty-four of the aforesaid act which reads as follows

"Section 34 In no building shall any wooden girders joists or timbers be placed nearer than four inches of the outside of any smoke hot-air or other flue and all joists or other timbers in the party walls of any building hereafter erected whether built of stone brick or iron shall be separated from the joists or timbers entering into the opposite side of the wall by at least four inches of solid mason work Every trimmer over four feet long except in a dwelling shall be hung in wrought or malleable iron stirrups of suitable dimensions and no timber shall be used in any wall of any building where stone brick or iron is commonly used except bond timbers and lintels as hereinbefore provided or as may be approved by the inspector and no exposed bond timber in any wall shall in width and thickness exceed that of a course of brick Where stud partitions are parallel with the joists the joists supporting them are to be doubled also all stairways and other floor openings to be double and in addition the size of the joists to be used in dwelling houses twenty feet front or less shall be for the first floor not less than two by ten inches shall be for the first floor not less than two by ten inches and shall be no more than sixteen inches from center to center and for upper floor they shall not be less than two by nine inches and shall be placed not more than sixteen inches from center to center and must be properly bridged and all joists that are used must be sound and well seasoned No floor joists shall be blocked up or leveled on more than one dry course of brick" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 34 In no building shall any wooden girders joists or timbers be placed nearer than four inches of the outside of any smoke hot-air or other flue and all joists or other timbers in the party walls of any building hereafter erected whether built of stone brick or iron shall be separated from the joists or timbers entering into the opposite side of the wall by at least four inches of solid mason work Every trimmer over four feet long except in a dwelling shall be hung in wrought or malleable iron stirrups of suitable dimensions and no timber shall be used in any wall of any building where stone brick or iron is commonly used except bond timbers and lintels as hereinbefore provided or as may be approved by the inspector and no exposed bond timber in any wall shall in width and thickness exceed that of a course of brick Where stud partitions are parallel with the joists the joists supporting them are to be doubled also all stairways and other floor openings to be double and in addition the size of the joists to be used in dwellings twenty feet front or less shall be for the first floor not less than two by ten inches and shall be no more than sixteen inches from center to center and for upper floors they shall not be less than two by nine inches and shall be placed not more than sixteen inches from center to center and must be properly bridged and all joists that are used must be sound and well seasoned No floor joists shall be blocked up or leveled on more than one dry course of brick For dwellings with a front of sixteen feet or less being not more than two stories high and having a floor area of first story not exceeding eight hundred square feet the floor joists shall be not less than two by eight inches in depth placed sixteen inches from center to center

Section 4 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. NEELY. Mr. Speaker, this bill was suggested by the Housing Committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. The bill has been drafted as the result of a conference of the Housing Committee and the Building Code Commission of the City of Pittsburgh, Building Inspectors and numerous architects and contractors. The idea of the bill is to cheapen the construction of small houses and provide for the use of concrete, brick and hollow tile. The small house construction now is very dear in the City of Pittsburgh, and we want to get a provision in the Building Laws that will cheapen the construction of these small houses.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The mjority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1851 (Senate Bill No. 633), entitled:

An Act providing for the organization enlistment and enrollment in the National Guard of Pennsylvania of an additional regiment of infantry to be composed of colored men authorizing an increase in the medical hospital and ambulance corps of the National Guard for the service in said regiment providing for said regiment a regimental band

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I trust the members of the House wil see their way clear to vote in favor of the passing of this bill. No doubt this regiment will be located in Pittsburgh and be made up from the surrounding towns where there are at present hundreds of colored men who have served in the United States Army. The fifteenth Spanish Regiment was organized there and shortly afterwards mustered out of service for the lack of funds. The colored people throughout the State are greatly interested in this bill and I feel that we should support this measure as this is about the only legislation they have asked for and I think we should pass it.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a few remarks in behalf of this bill. There have been some letters passed to the members of this House purporting to come from the Federation of Labor claiming that they are against the formation of this regiment. I wish to state to the members of this House as a member of different labor organizations that the railroad men's union and other unions do not oppose this measure and I wish to say further that we appreciate the treatment that has been accorded to us by the members of this race and we don't want to leave the impression with the members that we are so ungrateful as not to try to appreciate what has been done for us by interfering with something that don't concern us. I think that this is a very meritorious measure. I was a soldier in the Spanish-American War myself and during my term of service we had a battalion of colored men and I must say that they were composed of some of the most gentlemanly and soldierly men that we had in the service. I hope this bill will pass.

Mr. BASS. Mr. Speaker, American patriotism is not a delusion or an abstraction; it is not a partiality or a prejudice; it is more than any partisanship or any sectarianism or any class feeling or any family consideration. It is as broad as the land; it is as unselfish as the elements: it is as constant as the north star; it is as warm as love. pure as honor and dearer than life itself. Mr. Speaker, I am profoundly impressed with this bill. It is apparent that it was not drawn by or even suggested by the people in whose interest it speaks. This bill was drawn by a distinguished gentleman from the western part of the State: one of Pennsylvania's conspicuous men; a representative from that part of this State with its mountain heights burdened with fertile fields and splendid forests beneath which lie the veins of coal and iron ore in inexhaustible abundance. He comes from the western part of this great State where the American Eagle builds his nest on the summits of the mountains of Pennsylvania where it can overlook this vast domain over the heart of this broad State where enterprise extends everywhere her wings, making the land bloom; that sets the iron plows of the west and the vessels that plow the highways of the seas. Senator Kline is the man who drew this bill. He drew it for the people who have always been faithful to this government. The Federal Government at Washington could always rely upon the negro whenever national danger theatened the Capitol: whenever the old flag of your American liberty was assailed, the negroes were the first to march gaily and quickly to the red fields of war and to the line of battle. Senator Kline was mindful, doubtless, of the four thousand negroes who followed Anthony Wayne's forlorn hope at Stony Point and who ascended the Heights of Abraham and fought for liberty; he was mindful of the Battlefield of Yorktown. He was doubtless thinking of those negroes away back in the dark days of slavery who were profoundly interested in freedom when there was really no hope for them and who withstood like a wall those hosts of Cornwallis at Green Springs and then later in the great internal War that we had in the sixties, as you remember. when we were all alarmed; the weak men and the strong men as well. When the weak men were in fear and the strong men were in doubt. When it was perilous to change the negroes from slavery into freemen, but who charged into the very mouth of hell. These are among the facts doubtless that moved Senator Kline when he drew this bill. There are just one or two things that it is well for us to keep in mind. These people, as I have already intimated, never sought any distinction along any lines and especially military lines. It was never their hope or anticipation that they should occupy distinguished station. That was not the thing expected when Abraham Lincoln called the negro soldier to the front when they responded with the sentiment "We are coming, Father Abraham, one hundred thousand strong." They came from cities and mountains, they came from every locality, they came from youth to age and fought for the nation and not for fame. We must observe how they suffered at Fort Pillow, at Fort Fisher, the Battle of Lundy's Lane, and at Milligan's Point for the success of that flag over yonder (indicating an American Flag in the Hall). This is a splendid bill. I recognize, with you, that it is one that will last for time immemorial, giving the impression of the vicissitudes that time can never efface.

Now, Mr. Speaker, before we go to vote I would like to say that it seems to me that the men of the eastern section of this greatest State in the Union, where Penn called together his councils, where he organized this great Commonwealth of free speech and free liberty; where they engaged with the Indians under the Elm of old Shackamaxon, that place of interest, in that treaty of concord that was never sworn to and never broken. I mean that part of this great State, Mr. Speaker, where Betsy Ross wove with her own fingers yonder flag that floats on every wave and in every wind. It becomes the man of the east and the man of the west to meet here, as do we, on this great question as it appears in this bill; meet here and exchange patriotic congratulations, mingle together their gratitude and their vows and pledge a renewed faith to the great policies of this American empire. Mr. Speaker, I am proud that I am an American, notwithstanding the fact that my ancestors were slaves. I am proud that I am an American, because my own father back in the '60's followed the old flag through cold and storm, through sleet and wind, through vales and over mountains, over the sandy plains and the blazing heights of battle. And I am one of the remants to-day of that class of people who are enjoying liberty and American liberty; yea, the greatest of all liberties of all the people in the world; and I appreciate that kind of co-operation, and I want to say to those gentlemen who have just made their speeches that their speeches to my mind had the right ring which expressed that spirit of Americanism which has come right on down through the ages. Those men, Mr. Speaker, are patriotic citizens. I know how they feel when they hear that old song of ours: "The Star-Spangled Banner, long may she wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." I know just how they feel, and I want them to know that we are with them, and by the passage of this bill, when man shall again ope the purple casement of war, you will see with this regiment of black soldiers one million other negroes who will be ever ready to march beneath yonder old flag in stern, serrated files against hostile strangers and against internal war.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Carson.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to inform the House that the gavel now being used is made of a piece of the brig "Niagara," the flagship of Commodore Perry.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1950 (Senate Bill No. 585), as follows:

An Act making an appropriation for the commemoration of the building of the fleet at Erie with the Battle of Lake Erie was won by the restoration of he Brig Niagara Commodore Perry's flagship in that battle providing for its participation in the events of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary thereof its care and aiding in the erection of a permanent marker arch or memorial at Erie

Whereas, The States of Pennsylvania New York Ohio Illinois Michigan Wisconsin Minnesota Rhode Island and Kentucky have through commissioners duly appointed for that purpose formed an association and proceeded to erect a memorial at Put-in-Bay, Ohio, to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry and his brave men who fought with him at the Battle of Lake Erie and are proposing to hold a centennial celebration during the present year in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of that great victory; and

Whereas, The Brig Niagara to which Commodore Perry transferred his flag from the disabled Lawrence during the battle, and which for nearly one hundred years has lain at the bottom of Misery Bay an arm of Presque Isle Bay at Erie has been raised by the Commissioners appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to co-operate with the Commissioners of other States in the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie and is now the property of the State of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, The larger cities upon the Great Lakes from Buffalo to Duluth are proposing to hold celebrations beginning at Erie on July sixth on this the centennial anniversary of that great battle and all of the States participating are very desirous that Commodore Perry's Flagship, the Niagara, may be one of the features of the celebrations and the people of the whole United States are deeply interested in and concerned about the disposition the State of Pennsylvania is to make of this old Flagship and the part it will take in the events of this centennial year; and

Whereas, Six of the nine ships constituting Commodore Perry's fleet were built at Erie to wit: The Niagara, Lawrence, Ariel, Scorpion, Porcupine and Tigress, bearing fifty of the fifty-five guns carried by the whole fleet and for the single purpose of fighting this battle and after winning it the fleet returned to Pennsylvania waters at Erie bringing with it all of the enemy's ships, it is fitting that a permanent marker arch or memorial be erected at Erie to commemorate not only the bravery of Commodore Perry and his gallant men but the part taken by Pennsylvanians in building the fleet and in fighting the battle including the conspicuous services of Captain Daniel Dobbins of Erie, who was instrumental in inducing the Government to build the fleet and was in charge of its construction when Perry arrived in March, one thousand eight hundred and thirteen.

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated from any money in the State treasury not otherwse appropriated to the Commssioners appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to co-operate with the Commissioners from other States in the celeoration of the centennial anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie for the purpose of restoring the aforesaid Brig Niagara to the condition she was in at the time said battle of Lake Erie was fought as nearly as said Commissioners can with the exercise of reasonable diligence restore it to its original conditon including rigging armory and equipment of every kind and for paying the expenses incident to the proper participation of said Brig in the events of this centennial year and the proper care therefor until further provided for by the Legislature and any balance of said sum hereby appropriated remaining after such restoration and equipment of said Brig and after paying the expenses incident to it participation in said centennial events and providing for care of same as aforesaid is to be paid and expended by said Commission toward the erection of a permanent marker arch or memorial at the City of Erie Pennsylvania commemorating the building of the fleet at that place as well as the splendid manner in which in the hands of the brave Commodore Perry and the gallant men who fought with him it performed its errand at the battle that followed its construction said balance to be expended in conjunction with moneys contributed by the citizens of Erie and others for the purpose of erecting said permanent marker arch or memorial and all of the money hereby appropriated to be paid on the warrant of the Auditor General upon requisition of the President of said Commission and itemized vouchers for all expenditures to be filed with the Auditor General within a reasonable time thereafter

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, here is a bill that is asking for quite a slice of the State's money, and I understand from conversation that quite a few members of the House are not yet fully informed as to the needs and wants of the $75,000. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Bayle.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BAYLE. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, in the first place. I should like to ask the gentleman from Erie whether this is to be a commemoration of this great battle out there. or whether it is simply to beautify the City of Erie.

Mr. BAYLE. Mr. Speaker, it is to commemorate the valor of Pennsylvanians. Was there ever a man that addressed such an assemblage of Pennsylvanians as this? I would not undertake it had I the persuasion of a Demosthenes or the eloquence of a Cicero. We have listened tonight to the most eloquent address that I have ever heard. namely the speech of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Bass. But I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that's what we ask tonight for the old City of Erie is not only for the City of Erie. It is an ingredient and essential element of the old State of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, go back with me one hundred years in the history of the State of Pennsylvania, when your ancestors traveled across the mountains of Pennsylvania from the City of Brotherly Love, from Pittsburgh, over the Susquehanna Pike, through the counties of Erie and Crawford and the other counties and they hewed ships out of green timber and with them added glory on to glory and fought for true freedom an justice. Therefore, gentlemen, again I ask you to-night for a unanimous vote on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1144.

The SPEAKER. On House Bill No. 1144 the Chair apoints as a Committee on Conference Messrs. Ambler, Semmens and R. J. Baldwin.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1893 (Senate Bill No. 212), entitled:

An Act to amend section seventy-five of the act entitled "An Act to consolidate revise and amend the penal laws of this Commonwealth" approved the thirty-first day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Judiciary Special Committee.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the reason I make this motion is because in the bill it provides for death by hanging. A bill has just passed the Senate making electrocution the means of death and this bill can be properly amended in Committee to conform to the other bill.

The motion was agreed to.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 11:10 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.
